

BUILDINGS SHATTERED

Terrible Havoc Wrought by the Lightning in Pelham

Never in the history of this section of the country did lightning work greater havoc on a building than that wrought in Pelham by the electrical storm last evening.

Pelham's only store at the square was the scene of the frightful and spectacular pranks played by the fiery elements of the air and today there is but one place of interest in Pelham and that is the scene of the disaster.

The store and house with which it is connected are owned by Harry Atwood, town clerk and postmaster. It was about 20 minutes to seven that the lightning struck the store and house, and that several persons were not killed is marvelous; another of those miraculous things that cannot be explained.

Several men were in the store at the time and in the dining room of the house where the walls were thrown down, Mrs. Atwood and her five children were having supper. They were not injured.

Fire added to the horror of the occasion and it looked at one time as if the whole square was doomed. A hose of pipe stretched from the water tank at the car station 100 yards or so away, and the heroic work of willing hands saved the square from destruction.

The ball of fire, as it was described by those who were eye witnesses, entered the house where the electric wires are located and in less time than it takes to tell it the store was a wreck, windows were blown into the street and walls and ceilings were torn away. Five rooms of the house were destroyed and a part of a gable end was torn out. A few seconds after the first shock was felt a terrific noise was heard near the well at the back of the store and upon investigation it was found that the bolt or ball had gone down beside the well where the wires are grounded. One man declared that he saw the ball of fire shoot from the house to the well.

70 LIVES LOST

Explosion on Board the Haitien Gunboat Liberte

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 26.—The Haitien gunboat Liberte has been lost at sea off Port De Paix, following an explosion on board. It is estimated that 70 persons were either killed or drowned. Twenty others were rescued.

News of the accident was received here today. The Liberte sailed from this port on Monday last, having on board 90 persons.

So far as known only 20 of these escaped. Among the seventy who were lost were ten Haitien generals who were on their way to take command of several divisions of troops in the department of the north.

Details are lacking, the only definite information being as to the loss of life and the fact that an explosion occurred.

IN POLICE COURT

Several Offenders Sent to the State Farm

Michael Prock was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of a cap and badge belonging to Andrew Onkewicz. The complainant conducts a window cleaning company and when he engages a man he gives him a cap with a button on it, the cap and badge to be returned at the end of each working day.

According to the testimony offered, Prock worked one week and failed to return the cap and badge. When questioned as to why he did not return the property of the complainant he said that he worked from early in the morning till late at night cleaning windows and brass and scrubbing floors, and received but $5 a week and kept the cap and badge because he thought he should have received more.

The court after considering the evidence found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $5.

Was Not Drunk

"I was not drunk," said John A. Landry when he was called upon to answer to a complaint charging him with that offense. Patrolman Breault said that he found the defendant staggering drunk in a bloody street and placed him under arrest. He said that the man had a sick wife and child at home and did not contribute towards their support. The court decided that inasmuch as the man was earning good wages and promised to keep sober and look after his family in the future, it would be better to place him on probation than send him to jail, and Landry was given a suspended sentence of four months in jail.

Other Offenders

Patrolman Noonan testified that he found Peter M. Magee in a deplorable condition in a doorway. Magee was fined $5.

George Walker, who when arrested gave the name of James Allen, belongs in Worcester. He admitted that he was drunk and after being found wandering in the streets, Richard Cusick was also sent to the state farm.

Frank Laviole, according to Patrolman Dooley, was drunk and insulting women in the vicinity of the Middlesex street station yesterday afternoon. Laviole denied the allegation, but the board believed the arresting officer and found the defendant guilty, fining him $7.

There were two $2 offenders and several simple drunks were released before the opening of court.

NORMAL SCHOOL

Visited by New Hampshire Educators

The superintendent of the supervisory district of Derry, N. H., and the teachers of one of the graded schools held a visit to Lowell today. They spent the forenoon at the Bartlett school which is the model school for the Normal school and at noon they took lunch at the normal school. The party includes Prof. A. W. Reynolds, Principal George W. Roble, Miss Margaret Hodson, Miss Marian Ida Moore, Miss Clara Lucy Hunt, Miss Marion L. Blood and Miss Florence Proctor.

THE SUFFRAGISTS

Talked to Mill People at Noon

Four of the visiting suffragists, the Misses Carpenter, Withington, Foley and Luscombe, held a noon meeting at the gates of the Massachusetts mills today. While the operatives did not stop to listen to any speech making, the plucky suffragists succeeded in distributing a goodly supply of literature. The women were treated with respect on all sides and some of the men even heard to say that they wished they had time to stop and hear what was being said, but the mill noon hour is a short one and the inner man must be attended to.

Addressed Labor Unions

Two of the visiting suffragists, Miss Annie Withington and Miss Margaret Foley, addressed several of the local labor unions last night, including the street railway men and the building laborers. The speakers were given hearty receptions wherever they went, and they pleaded eloquently for the right of women to vote.

TYPHOID FEVER

Another Case Reported in This City

A man in New Paris, Indiana, and who evidently expects to meet Mayor Alcehan in heaven, has dedicated a poem to his honor. It was received by the mayor this forenoon and its verses contain strong hopes of eternal salvation for the writer, and the mayor. A postscript appended reads as follows: "Though we are strangers, yet I hope we are on the way to endless bliss and happiness."

Board of Health

One more case of typhoid fever was reported at the office of the board of health this forenoon. Tomorrow night, as has already been stated, the board

HANGED HIMSELF

Dorchester Man Ended His Life

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Discouraged because he believed a man he had befriended had taken his position away from him, John Anderson, aged 38, single, who boarded at 14 Everett street, Dorchester, hung himself in his room some time Sunday, and his body was discovered yesterday afternoon.

Anderson had been employed steadily at Commercial wharf for 12 years and had been noted as a steady worker. Saturday noon he came to his home and, explaining that he had lost his job through a supposed friend's interference, went to his room. Anderson was not seen alive again.

Sunday the housekeeper of the lodging house, which was formerly the Freeman family home, knocked at the door but, receiving no response, did not enter. Monday she tried the door, but as something was against it she went away, thinking that Mr. Anderson was sleeping.

Yesterday afternoon she again went to the room, which is on the front of an attic, and pushed the door open enough to look at what was against it. She saw Anderson's body swinging from the door jamb, his feet barely touching the floor.

She rushed from the house, telephoned for the police, and summoned Dr. Charles Mains. He arrived with the police, only to find that the man had been dead some time. Patrolman James Curtis cut the body down. Medical Examiner Leary pronounced death due to suicide.

CREW RESCUED

Picked Up by a British Steamer

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The captain and four men from the American schooner Florence Leland were picked up by the British steamer Commodore from New Orleans Oct. 9, for Liverpool, which passed Old Head of Kinsale today. The Leland was wrecked during the recent storms. She was owned by A. O. Gross and hailed from Deer Island, Me. She was a three-master.

HOSPITAL GUILD

TRANSACTION CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS YESTERDAY

The Young Women's Hospital Guild met yesterday and considerable business was transacted. The principal business of the meeting was a discussion relative to the taking up of the work of district nursing, and it was voted that the president appoint a committee of five to look into all questions relative to the proposed new line of work and report at the next meeting; also to confer with the Hospital Aid association to see if it is agreeable to that organization that the members of the Guild who wish to continue working for the hospital, become members of the Ladies' Aid association.

COL. ROOSEVELT SINGERS

Takes a Hand in Michigan Campaign

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt's influence was thrown into the political campaign in Michigan today through the publication by the republican state committee of a telegram from the former president to former Gov. Guild of Massachusetts, who made several addresses in Michigan last week.

Col. Roosevelt's telegram says he understands that in Michigan the progressives won a clear-cut victory and he endorses the candidacy of Chase S. Osborn for governor and Charles E. Townsend for United States senator. Mr. Osborn is characterized in the telegram as a progressive and a singularly able and honest man, and Mr. Townsend as having done excellent work for railroad rate legislation when he became joint author with Mr. Esch of the first railroad rate bill while Mr. Roosevelt was president.

"Mr. Osborn," says the telegram, "is a man like Stimson of New York, who will clean house from cellar to garret, driving every wrongdoer from office."

Col. Roosevelt expresses regret that he is unable to take part in the Michigan campaign for the entire republican ticket.

MARY GARDEN SAID TO BE MARRIED

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—"Is Mary Garden married?"

That question was asked by every one on the dock when the Kaiser Wilhelm II arrived last night with a boat load of singers and musicians. The reason for the question was obvious—Miss Garden was wearing a plain band of gold on the proper finger.

Miss Garden would answer no direct question herself, but she was heard to remark while some newspaper photographers were taking her picture as she stood posed on top of a trunk:

"What a position for a married woman!"

"I am wearing a wedding ring," she said. "But I can't talk about the man now. You must wait until he comes over to carry me away to his mountain fastness, and then you must corner him and ask him how it was done."

Once during the conversation she asserted that she had married a poor man.

"Oh, indeed, yes," she replied. "I never would marry a rich man."

There were rumors of a Magyar nobleman, who was immensely wealthy, but these she would not confirm. She was met at the boat by any number of friends, including her father, in whose arms she remained for at least a full minute, while she kissed him with great fervor. Afterward she held him at arm's length and exclaimed:

"Isn't he handsome, my father?"

Andrew Dippel's agent had arranged for her to take a train today for Chicago, where she is to sing this season, but she soon upset this plan.

"It's been a beautiful voyage, and I've had nothing to eat but eggs and nothing to drink but ginger ale," she said. "I'm all tired out, and I shan't go before Friday. I must have some rest."

Miss Garden was wearing a long velvet coat trimmed with sable and a white hat with a black agrette. Under the coat she wore a purple velvet suit and many diamonds. Her hair is a perceptibly lighter shade. She also carried a monocle, which she used now and then. She was accompanied on the voyage by her sister Agnes. Her new parts this year will be the title role of "The Girl of the Golden West," which she will create in Chicago, and Carmen. After ten weeks in Chicago, she will sing in Philadelphia, and in New York at the Metropolitan Opera House every Tuesday night.

There were three tenors for the Chicago company—on the boat—Charles Dalmores, John McCormack and Nicola Zerola. Mr. Dalmores will sing the leading tenor parts in "The Girl of the Golden West" in Chicago. Mr. McCormack said he hoped to sing the leading tenor parts in Victor Herbert's "Natale." Gustav Mahler, the conductor of the New York Philharmonic society, arrived with Mrs. Mahler and their little girl. Mahler said he did not know whether his new symphony could be done in New York this season or not.

FUNERAL NOTICES

POLICE OFFICER

Was Rescued by a Woman

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A woman yesterday came to the rescue of a policeman who had been beaten by several men on the West Side. A crowd stood by and did nothing to help her. She wrestled from one of the men the policeman's club, which the assailants had got away from the officer and with which they had pounded him. As the woman took the policeman's part the assailants feared they might be set on by others and fled. None of the bystanders did a thing to stop them.

Patrolman Edward Collins of the West Forty-seventh street station was on his beat late yesterday afternoon, when a man came up to him and complained that four or five men were going from store to store demanding money for a so-called sick benefit. The stores in the district are all small places, and their owners were practically coerced in handing out money to satisfy the men.

Collins got a description of the collectors and went on his way. Five or six minutes afterward he saw a group of men answering the description, standing in front of 553 West Fifty-second street. He tried to arrest two of them. As he turned away with his prisoners one of the other drew a club and struck Collins from behind.

The patrolman fell to the ground but managed to regain his feet. Drawing his club he made for his assailant. The other men closed in and he had to fight four or five at once.

A crowd gathered from all the tenement houses, but they merely stood and watched while the patrolman was knocked down and beaten with his own club.

The men kicked him all over the body, cut his lip open, struck him with their clubs in the eye and over the head.

Kate Barth, who, it is said, is employed by the board of health in Brooklyn, attracted by the crowd, broke through. As she saw the almost unconscious policeman on the ground she sprang at the man who had his club. She seized it and before the man could recover from his surprise Miss Barth twisted it from his grasp. He sprang back, but Miss Barth went after him, wielding the club over his head with all her force.

By this time the crowds thought that the alarm would be given and they made their way through the people, separated, and disappeared. No one tried to stop them and the police said last night they found that the people of the neighborhood were unwilling to give them any information about who the officer's assailants were or about what had happened. Detectives were sent all through the district in an effort to get clues.

Collins was unable to rise and was picked up and carried into an empty store. Police headquarters were notified. Upon the arrival of the ambulance Collins was taken to the Flower hospital. He will recover.

SECRETARY MEYER

SAYS ONLY ONE NAVAL STATION IS NEEDED IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—That only one naval station is needed in the south was the opinion expressed by Secretary of the Navy Meyer before his departure from New Orleans this morning for Pensacola, Fla.

There are unquestionably too many navy yards and stations in the south," said Secretary Meyer. "I do not think there is need for more than one. Where that is to be a matter yet to be decided. It is not a question of the prominence of any city or the claims of any city. It is the efficiency of the navy which is to be considered."

STREET RAILWAYS

Will Distribute Sum of $1,128,186

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—The street railways of the state will distribute to the cities and towns through which they run $1,128,186 assessed by the tax commissioner on the franchises for the current year. The heaviest contributors are the West End Street Railway Co. of Boston, $379,446; the Boston Elevated Railway Co. $307,200; the Boston & Northern, $109,551; the Springfield Street Railway $74,500; the Old Colony, $60,994 and the Worcester Consolidated $50,313.

Street railroads of Massachusetts are subject to three distinct taxes, local real property tax, commutation tax and franchise tax. The first is levied by the local assessors, the second is based on the gross receipts and the third is figured upon the value of the corporation franchises.

DEFENDANT WINS

In Case of Carpenter vs. Boston & Maine

The jury in the case of Carpenter vs. Boston & Maine, which retired yesterday forenoon, returned a scaled verdict last evening. At the opening of court this morning the verdict was opened and was for the defendant. The plaintiff, Joseph Carpenter, sued for malicious prosecution, libel and slander. He is a teamster and was once arrested for alleged larceny of 20 bushels of potatoes from the Boston & Maine freight yard in Boston. He was tried in the police court and acquitted. He then sued the railroad for malicious prosecution, etc., and was awarded a verdict of $500. This verdict was later set aside by the court, necessitating the second trial which concluded yesterday. Lawyer Brown of Boston appeared for the plaintiff and Messrs. Trull & Wier for the defendant.

The case of Blake vs. Rogers, an out-of-town action, went to trial this morning.

Both BIRTHDAY

observed by John A. Baker of

John A. Baker observed the 30th anniversary of his birth yesterday at home, 58 Gates street. There was formal observance, although during the day many of his relatives and friends called in order to congratulate him and wish him many returns of the day. When young he worked in the print works of the A. & W. Sprague mills and in 1848 came to Lowell. He went to work in the Lowell Machine shop and remained there about two and one half years and then went to Lawrence, where he later started for the gold fields of California. He afterwards went to Wisconsin, where he later came back east and located in Biddeford, Me., and worked in that place until the outbreak of the Civil War, when he enlisted in the 6th Massachusetts battery with a commission as sergeant. During the battle of Ball's Bluff, Sergt. Baker was severely wounded and had three bullet holes in his clothing. He was later promoted to lieutenant in recognition for his work on the battlefield. After another visit to the west, Mr. Baker and his family located in Lowell in 1870, and remained here practically since that time. He worked in the Lowell Machine shop for several years and then ill-health caused him to take work on the outside. He remained actively engaged until a few years ago. Mr. Baker ascribes his comparatively good health in advanced years to right living and a naturally rugged constitution. Mr. Baker's wife, two years his junior, is in good physical condition. His three children living are Ella M. Baker, and Frederick A. and Frank E. Baker, all of Lowell, but later came back east.

BOWLING SCORES

Local Mill Teams Contest for Honors

There were two games played in the Manufacturers league last night. One of them was a walkover and the other was a fairly close game.

In the game between the Bont and Tremont & Suffolk teams there was nothing to it but the cheering and the Bont admirers did all the cheering. It is a shame to print the score.

In the other game the Bigelow quintet put up a very good fight with their opponents, the Massachusetts team, but the latter team won two of the three points.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the agent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

MADE NEW RECORD

Johnstone Rose to a Height of 7303 Feet

He Ran Into a Snowstorm in the Clouds — Daring Aviator Surpassed Drexel's Record for Altitude—He Had Hoped to Ascend 10,000 Feet

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Ralph Johnstone in a Wright biplane fought his way through a snowstorm to a height of 7303 feet at Belmont park yesterday afternoon, and thus broke the American altitude record of 7195 feet, which Drexel made the previous day.

It was one of the severest tests of nerve, endurance and skill which any aviator in the world has ever passed through, and only a man with the splendid physique of Johnstone could have stood it. He is a wonder.

But he was disappointed, in spite of the fact that he went higher than Drexel, for he started out with the firm intention of going 10,000 feet and breaking the world's record of 8200 feet, which Morane holds. And there is no doubt but he would have done just that if it hadn't been for the blinding snowstorm he encountered when he got up near the 7000 foot level.

He fought his way through this storm for nearly 15 minutes, in the hope that he might be able to climb above it, but his goggles became incased in ice and he could not see.

The cold was so intense that his hands were getting numb, in spite of the thick leather gloves he wore, so he was obliged to give up the struggle and come back to earth.

The way he came out of the clouds was a caution. He just shot down until it looked to the spectators as if he were trying to loop the loop or some other dare-devil thing, which only Johnstone and Brooks ever dream of doing in an aeroplane. He alighted like a feather, however, and skinned like a kid when he had wiped his goggles.

Johnstone said it was one of the toughest experiences he had ever had in the air. He did not know that he had broken Drexel's record until the machine was wheeled into the hangar and Wilbur Wright took off the barograph which had the automatic record by air pressure.

Wilbur Wright is a rather unemotional individual, but when he read the barograph he threw his derby hat into the air and almost danced about like a boy for a few minutes. He even congratulated Johnstone, which is a very unusual demonstration for Wilbur.

It looks very much as if the Wright brothers who invented the first flying machine that would really fly seven years ago were about to show the world at this international aviation tournament that they were not only the first real flyers in the world, but that they have the best flying machine and the best flyers in the world.

Wright New Racer
The Wrights are determined to break the world's altitude record, if such a thing is possible, and, judging from the new racing machine which Orville Wright tried out this afternoon, they are determined to win the international cup.

That little biplane went around the course for a lap so fast yesterday afternoon that nobody could accurately time it. He did the mile and a half in a fraction over a minute.

The best judges seemed to think that Orville attained a speed of 10 miles an hour. If he had chosen to go a second lap or a third lap the speed would have been much greater, but he didn't choose to do it. He was satisfied, and when the Wrights are satisfied the other aviators want to look out.

This is the mysterious machine with which Orville Wright has been experimenting at Dayton for some months. It is paced down even finer than the one Brooks used the previous day, but it seems to be remarkably steady.

There is a new type of motor in this machine—V shaped. The pistons act on the crank shaft from an angle instead of perpendicular, something like the Azuni and the Indian motors.

In proportion, the upper plane sets higher than in the regular Wright biplane. This fact, added to the narrowness of the planes, allows the rush of air from over the lower plane to pass freely through the space between the planes without striking the upper plane.

In this way Orville Wright believes he has solved the speed difficulty that handicapped the biplane when driven at a high rate of speed. The real test of this machine will come in the elimination races. The French aviators were a little more anxious than they had been after seeing Orville Wright make this lap.

But there was another speed record made yesterday which caused all the aviators to sit up and take notice. It was made by Radley, the young English aviator, in his Blériot monoplane. He did the 22-mile cross-country flight from Belmont park to Hicksville and return in 19m 48s. That is the time for covering the recorded distance, but it is safe to say that Radley covered 25 miles in that flight, for it was rather dark at the time and he was not familiar with the course.

This is the young man who claims he has driven that same monoplane in England at better than 70 miles an hour. He used a 50-horse power motor and he covered the course in about half the time it took Moisant to do it last Saturday. Moisant used his passenger Blériot, but it will be remembered that he flew in a rain storm and lost his way.

Moisant Lost His Way

Moisant lost his way again late this afternoon, going over the same course in the same machine and it took him nearly 35 minutes to cover it. He started 35 minutes after Radley, but it grew dark very suddenly after 4 o'clock, and heavy rain clouds then closed around the field and it is doubtful if Radley would have fared as well as he did if he had started as late as Moisant.

However, Moisant fared better than McCurdy and Drexel, who started over the cross country immediately after he did. They didn't come back at all. They were completely lost on the way back and McCurdy landed at Rockyville, about 10 miles away and Drexel landed at Linbrook, about 11 miles away, after they had gone out of their course and darkness had closed in on them.

Hundreds of people waited anxiously for them around the field, or for some news of them, until 6 o'clock, when the field was in total darkness. Then word came over the telephones from both the aviators almost at the same time.

These were a few of the things that made the fourth day of the international aviation tournament notable and interesting to the 12,000 or more who were present inside the lines and to the great number who were outside.

Like Great Bird Flying

The wind was about 10 miles an hour when the shot was fired for the first event of the day. Hubert Latham, in his huge Antoinette monoplane, was the first to rise from the ground and fly gracefully around the course and as gracefully into the minds and imaginations of everybody present. This machine is easily the most imposing thing that flies. It is a show in itself, and if it could be seen around Boston 100,000 people would flock to see Latham where 12,000 come to see not only him but all the other great aviators at this time.

Latham went out for hourly distance during the first hour and he won it, with Graham-White second. But nobody cares what contest Latham is in. All they want to see is the machine in flight. When coming toward you it doesn't appear to move. It looks like a great bird, with outstretched wings, poised in the air.

When it is passing down over the farther side of the course, however, you can see that it moves like a great Atlantic liner, rigidly and stately, but fast—although not so fast with the present motor as some of the other machines.

At the second hour Latham went after the altitude with Johnstone and Hoxsey, but when he was up about 2000 feet something happened to his motor and he made a sensational glide to earth in the big machine, landing beyond the big clump of trees opposite the grandstand. He quickly repaired the damage, went aloft again, but did not try for further altitude.

By this time Hoxsey and Johnstone were almost out of sight in the clouded sky and a little later Johnstone disappeared altogether in the snow storm up above, which the comfortable spectators on the ground knew nothing about.

As soon as the Lesseps heard that Johnstone was going to try for the world's record in altitude he decided to make a try himself in his small monoplane. He followed Hoxsey and Latham, and soared to a height of 6391 feet, making second altitude for the day. Hoxsey reached a height of 5996 feet.

Latham's Glide to Earth
It was a beautiful sight when the four aviators were in the air trying for altitude, but the most impressive of the four was Latham's Antoinette as it circled and rose higher and higher. Then came the accident to the motor and the glide to earth, which was beautifully manipulated by the great Frenchman.

When the power stops in the Antoinette it means that three-quarters of a ton weight must fall on the earth somehow and the trick is to do it without killing the aviator or wrecking the machine.

Latham did it all right, as he has scores of times before. He has smashed flying machines than any man living, and he never had a serious accident. In fact, he was a sick man when he took up flying more than a year ago. He was given a year to live. Now he looks like an athlete, and he is one of the finest looking men on the field, always smiling and jolly.

In this respect he differs considerably from over the lower plane to pass freely through the space between the planes without striking the upper plane.

Charley Hamilton gave his biplane a trial spin late in the afternoon and it seemed to work to his satisfaction. Then, the new Wright aviator, also made his first flight here yesterday.

Simon, the youngest of the French aviators, went around the course in his Blériot four times and he also proved that he is an expert. He can turn corners with great facility.

STARS OF GOPHER AND MAROON ELEVENS TO CLASH ON GRIDIRON IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The next big football game for the western conference title will be played here Oct. 29 between the Minnesota and Chicago elevens. Although the Maroon team is not as strong as it was last year, local experts figure that Chicago will give the Gophers a good tussle. They point to the brilliant playing and runs of Sauer, Crawley and Hume Young against Northwestern Oct. 22, but Coach Stagg is not so optimistic and has been busy figuring on ways and means to hold Minnesota to a low score. The coach says it simply is a question of how badly the Maroons will be beaten, for he does not hope that his line will be able to stop such backs as McGovern, Johnson, Rosenwald and Stevens. The probable lineup of the elevens is as follows: Chicago—Paine, left end; Kassulker, left tackle; Rademacher, left guard; Whiting, center; Freeman, right guard; Carpenter, right tackle; Sauer or Rogers, right end; Kuh, H. Young, quarterback; Davenport or Mennul, left halfback; Crawley, right halfback; R. Young, fullback. Minnesota—Smith, left end; Walker, left tackle; Bromley, left guard; Mor-

NEW NATIONALISM

Martin Littleton Makes an Attack on Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A new turn was given to the attack on Col. Roosevelt and his "new nationalism" by Martin W. Littleton, democratic candidate for congress in the Oyster Bay district, in an address last night at Carnegie hall at a mass meeting held under the auspices of the democratic league.

The new nationalism, he said, had its source in the blinding disrespect Mr. Roosevelt had constantly shown toward "our form of republic" which has caused him to show dissatisfaction with the public men of this country as well as its institution.

Citing criticisms passed upon former presidents by Col. Roosevelt, Mr. Littleton added that, apparently, another executive, and that one of Mr. Roosevelt's own creation, is probably awaiting his place in "this hall of infamy."

"He (Roosevelt) has not yet completed his symposium of mediocrity," continued Mr. Littleton. "He has not concluded his catalogue of incompetence, but there seems to be another president scheduled to fall under his condemnation. There seems to be another who will find his place with Buchanan, the 'shifty and selfish politician of monumental littleness,' with Van Buren, who 'faithfully served the mammoth of unprincipledness,' with Jackson, who was 'ignorant and headstrong,' with Monroe, who was a 'courteous gentleman of no special ability,' with Madison, whose ineptness 'brought shame and disgrace to America in the War of 1812,' with Jefferson, the 'most incapable president that ever filled the president's chair.'"

"And this president who is awaiting, no doubt, his place in this hall of infamy, is one that Mr. Roosevelt himself created. It is a pathetic picture of broken friendship; it is a sad commentary upon the stability of political alliances to see a patient, a just, earnest, plain and rugged judge, who occupies the position of president, almost crowded out of his place and exiled from the prerogatives of his office by a man who continues to reign wherever and with whomsoever he may be."

"The vast realm of Mr. Roosevelt's political economy he has peopled with a low-made race of men and women, who grope their way about in the very fog of diffidence and unrelated power. The wide range of his active mind has never encountered a structure of authority which he would not change, a form of government which he would not alter; a society which he would not transform. In the long reach of his ample and enriched years he has never met with a philosopher whom he would not advise; a teacher whom he would not instruct; a soldier whom he would not command; a king whose sceptre he would not wield; a book which he would not rewrite; a religion which he would not reorganize; a civilization which he would not reconstruct."

"In government bound by no law; in life bound by no policy; in intercourse bound by no attachment; in debate bound by no records; in society bound by no conventions; in conduct bound by no tradition; in attack bound by no strategy; in retreat bound by no limit; in ambition bound by no limit; he towers today, the embodiment of conscious and of unrestrained power. He is the final, conclusive and dogmatic to the riddles of the universe."

GAYNOR FAVORED DIX
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The statement that if any "boss" dictated the nomination of John A. Dix for governor at the Rochester convention it was Mayor Gaynor, was made last night by Edward M. Shepard in a speech at Carnegie hall.

Speaking of the difficulty in selecting a candidate, Shepard said: "In the very midst of this situation there came a signal message from a man who is most powerful in this community. There came a message from Mayor Gaynor and in this message the mayor gave strong advice that the convention should nominate John A. Dix. If any boss controlled the nomination, the most powerful of all bosses was Boss Gaynor."

After the meeting, Mr. Shepard said the message he cited was brought by James Freeman. The message, he added, was delivered to Mr. Dix among others.

THE DODGE CASE SENATOR SHIVELY

Put Direct to the Grand Jury Is Suffering From a Sore Toe

LANCASTER, N. H., Oct. 26.—Another surprise was in store yesterday for those who have been following the story of the Lunenburg tragedy of Sept. 17 when William A. Heath was found shot through the back at the home of Mrs. J. Marshall Dodge, where he was working.

The justice hearing has been postponed time and again and the last date set was for next Saturday, but yesterday Atty. Gen. Sargent of Lowell, Vt., appeared before the grand jury at Guilford, Vt., with witnesses, anticipating the hearing as the law allows and putting his case direct to the jury. By this stroke the defence is denied all knowledge of the evidence held by the state.

All day Mrs. Dodge was in Guilford, ignorant of what has been going on behind the closed doors, and not even able to consult with her attorneys, Blodgett & Howe, who have been busy in the superior court.

It is learned that only two witnesses were examined yesterday, and it will be several days yet before Mrs. Dodge will know whether she must fight still further for her liberty.

Mr. Howe was in Lancaster last evening, but refused to disclose any evidence held by the defence. He asserts Mrs. Dodge's innocence, and expresses a confidence that the mystery will clear up and free her name at the proper time. He believes his client suffers from an over-estimation of her wealth and the fact that she is under bail, although the latter is perfectly constitutional.

He has not permitted his client to make a single statement since her arrest, and says her hearing is that of any intelligent woman accused of a severe crime.

EDDIE MURPHY

Got the Decision Over Young Nitche

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Eddie Murphy of South Boston received a decision over Young Nitche of Philadelphia at the end of 10 rounds at the Armory Athletic association last night. A draw, which proved the star attraction of the evening, was fought by Grover Hayes of Philadelphia and Willie Beecher of New York 10 rounds.

Young Jasper of Boston defeated Eddie Carr of South Boston in six rounds; Al Milliken of Boston defeated Dutch Carr of Charlestown in six rounds, and Kid Egan of Boston defeated Jim Reardon of Brooklyn, also in six rounds in the preliminaries.

BRUTAL MURDER

Woman's Head Split Open With Axe

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 26.—A brutal murder was disclosed last night in the finding of the body of Mrs. Mary Hooker, aged 26. Her throat had been cut and her head almost split open, apparently with an axe. The body was found near the scene of the Anna Lloyd murder of last January.

A WORK OF ART
PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 26.—The will of Winslow Homer, the artist who died at Scarborough this month, which was filed for probate yesterday, leaves his estate to his brother, Charles S. Homer of New York. The will, which was made in 1884, is itself a work of art, being beautifully lettered in pen and ink by the artist himself. In his petition for appointment as executor Charles S. Homer certified that the value of the estate is not over $40,000.

SENATOR B.F. SHIVELY

lunged the job, and an infected foot resulted. The doctors fear blood poisoning, and it is planned to amputate the toe October 29. All the speaking dates of the senator have been canceled.

DOUBLE CONVICTION

IN WHITE SLAVE CASES AT PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Frank C. Williams and Anna Hull of this city were found guilty of violating the white-slave law enacted by congress on June 25, by a federal jury in the U. S. district court yesterday. Williams was sentenced to two years and six months in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., while Miss Hull will serve a like term in the western penitentiary here.

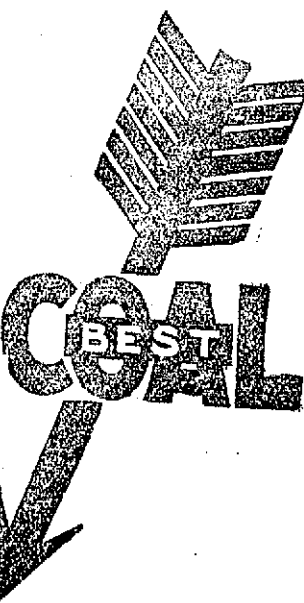

These are among the first prosecutions under the new law and the trials of the offenders have excited wide interest. Miss Hull, it was brought out in the testimony, was keeper of a resort to which Williams brought his victims from other states.

NEW YORK CAMPAIGN

Roosevelt Made Several Speeches Before Large Audiences

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The campaign grew livelier yesterday as Theodore Roosevelt traveled about central New York state. Rain fell all day long but at every place at which Roosevelt stopped crowds gathered to cheer him. Hundreds stood in the rain to hear his outdoor speeches, and every building in which he spoke was jammed to the doors. More enthusiasm was displayed than on any of the colonel's previous days of speech-making in the present campaign. In his speeches he dwelt particularly on Rooseveltism as an issue. He told the people that some business men of the state were afraid of it. He said that any Year of him or of Henry L. Stimson, republican candidate for governor, was baseless, and that the alarm had been raised by Wall street.

Col. Roosevelt replied to John A. Dix, democratic candidate for governor, who said yesterday that the colonel had misrepresented him by saying that he had been connected with the wall paper combine.

The colonel did not make the apology that Mr. Dix demanded. He insisted that Mr. Dix had not shown that he was not connected with the trust which the supreme court declared illegal.

Col. Roosevelt spoke yesterday at several cities and his speech last night was in large part an appeal to business men not to be alarmed at Rooseveltism. He began by reading the circular sent out over the names of Charles F. Murphy and the other members of the Tammany hall campaign committee. It reads:

"Dear Sir:—The campaign upon which we have just entered is of supreme importance to the people of this city and state. More than any other campaign for years past it will affect the business and financial interests of every person within the borders of the state. The democratic party in this fight stands for tranquility and business peace, and is opposed to the wild theories of Roosevelt, which would unsettle values, disturb business and renew the panic from which the country suffered during his recent incumbency of the presidency.

"To defeat the Roosevelt policies, however, will require, for purely legitimate expenses, a large outlay of money."

"It is a naked appeal to the power of the purse," said Colonel Roosevelt; "a naked appeal to the twin emotions of fear and greed, and a frank admission that only by a large outlay of money it is possible to beat Mr. Stimson. This appeal from Tammany hall is in substance precisely the appeal which has been made by the great financiers who desire to obtain or retain improper special privileges. There has been a deliberate effort on the part of these business men who are crooked to mislead and frighten their colleagues who are not crooked and especially to mislead and frighten the business men by telling him that disaster impends if Stimson is elected governor, because Stimson is closely allied with me, and I am a dangerous man, and especially dangerous to business."

Col. Roosevelt said there were some honest business men who acting under the influence of this fear "thus decided to cast aside self-respect and morality and to announce that they would vote for Tammany hall, no matter how grave the corruption that the election of the Tammany ticket would bring about at Albany because, though Tammany might rule corruptly, business would be 'safe' under it."

It was in his Canandaigua speech that Colonel Roosevelt first took up his reply to Mr. Dix in the dispute over the wall paper combine. He said Mr. Dix had announced that the Standard Wall Paper company with which he was connected was not the concern by the same name with which he was part of the trust, and was not connected with it, although it bought the plant of the defunct company.

"I have no concern with the changes in internal management or organization in the Standard Wall Paper company," he added. "What I ask you to remember is the connection of that company with the wall paper trust."

He spoke of the disagreement of the combine with one of its subsidiary concerns, the Voigt company, which led to a suit to recover $60,000 from the subsidiary.

Saying that Mr. Dix became a director of the Standard in June, 1907, and that the final decision of the supreme court was rendered in February, 1909, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"Therefore it appears that for eighteen months Mr. Dix was a director of the Standard company. A suit was in progress in behalf of the trust in which, if it is true and been successful, the Standard company, as a competent part of that trust, would have been one of the beneficiaries of the success."

MAKES REPLY

COL. ROOSEVELT SENDS LETTER TO JUDGE BALDWIN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt issued an open letter yesterday to Simon Baldwin, ex-chief justice of Connecticut and democratic candidate for governor of that state, in reply to Mr. Baldwin's demand for a retraction of statements made regarding him by Colonel Roosevelt in his speech at Concord, N. H., on Saturday. Colonel Roosevelt in that speech said that Baldwin stood in a retrograde attitude toward the conservation movement, and that Justice Baldwin in his letter said he never had held the view attributed to him.

Col. Roosevelt's letter is, in part, as follows:

"Two or three different versions of what I am alleged to have said appear in different papers. 'What I said in substance is as follows:—

"I had stated the attitude of the democratic candidate for governor in the state of New York in upholding the view that it was unconstitutional for the state to enact legislation prohibiting laboring men from being required to work an excessive number of hours under conditions which the legislature deemed unhealthy. I stated that the republican party, in contradiction to these retrogressive views, took in the strongest fashion a progressive opposition on these matters; that we held it was the right of the legislature to interfere with the conditions of labor whenever the hours of labor were so excessive that under the actual hygienic conditions in any business they amounted to a menace to the health and welfare of the workman. I continued by saying that many judges in the past and some judges even in the present had held the view that legislative bodies could not interfere with what I regarded as the utterly misallied liberty of laboring men and women to contract for the performance of work under conditions which jeopardized their welfare and their lives or limbs. I continued by saying that the democratic candidate for governor of Connecticut also occupied a retrogressive attitude in this matter. I again continued, stating that we on the contrary stand for what I regard as the only proper progressive attitude, which is, that it is not competent for the workman who may be driven by dire need to accept any employment, in spite of the conditions imposed upon his acceptance, to bind himself or to be bound in any way by any action of his not to be compensated if his health is damaged or if he loses life or limb in that occupation.

"You say in your letter as printed that the view of which I speak would be opposed to the settled principles of law and no competent lawyer could, or would take it, and that to ascribe such a position to you is calculated to affect your standing as a lawyer. If you will turn to Mr. Alger's little volume called 'Moral Overstrain' and read the chapter in which he deals with the decisions of the courts upholding this so-called liberty of the laboring man to make a contract to his disadvantage, you will see that very many judges have taken the position to which I object.

"I have not with me the printed transcript of one of your opinions which was added to me prior to my making the speech in question, but if the newspaper account of your letter is correct, you hold therein that railroad employees who accept benefits from the accident insurance, which you say the railroads often style a relief department, cannot look to the company in case of accidents. If you are correctly reported by the press in this matter I hold that this position is retrogressive and not progressive. I hold that the state has absolute ly the right to enact laws refusing to permit, and that existing laws should, in accordance with the opinions of very many progressive judges, be construed as not permitting any benefit, directly or indirectly, by any action of his own, to stop himself from his right to have a railroad or other corporation forced to compensate him for any injury done to him in the performance of his duty. If your letter is correctly quoted in the press in this matter, you hold that the acceptance of a very small benefit from the accident insurance company by a railroad employee would stop him from recovering the substantial amount which he otherwise would be entitled to recover for any injury received. I hold that such a view is most emphatically not progressive.

"Very respectfully yours,

"Theodore Roosevelt."

GENERAL BIXBY

EXPECTS RESULTS FROM RIVERS AND HARBORS CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The chief of engineers of the army, General William H. Bixby, looks forward with hopefulness to the next meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which will assemble in Washington, December 7, 8 and 9. This great organization of business and public spirited men it is expected, will conduct its deliberations as to give greater strength and prestige to the movement for an annual appropriation for American waterway improvements.

"Something I said on the subject of the important part the press could play in the work of education along this line," said General Bixby, "has been somewhat expanded, but that the press can do much good, is, of course, to be recognized, and will be recognized."

The friends of a great national system of waterway improvement as members of the Rivers and Harbors congress and of the Federal congress, are approved by the engineers as a common purpose to promote legislation for the projects of the largest scope and of national importance, projects such as have the undisputed approval of the engineer officers as well as of the commercial interests immediately concerned.

The reports of the engineer officers upon their work for the year are now in the office of the secretary of war for his consideration and will be ready for transmission to congress at its opening.

In response to a suggestion as to what in the concrete, if he were a member of the organization, he would recommend to the Rivers and Harbors congress, General Bixby said the thing of greatest importance to be achieved was an established system of annual appropriations which should embrace the largest and most important projects, such as are of recognized general and national scope, and such as are approved by the engineer officers of the army, subordinating minor projects, until the vastest projects had been completed.

Among important, incidental problems to be considered were those involving upon localities and the states to do their share in the expediting of these great public works, such as providing terminals for loading and unloading craft, the general government's work is to take care of the navigation of rivers and harbors and it ends at the point where local and individual business interests begin.

"The Corps of Engineers," said General Bixby, "are ready to help all they know how to bring about the consummation of an approved, economical and practical system of waterway improvement, assured and sustained by annual appropriations. Whether our sympathy and our convictions on this line will amount to a material help will, of course, depend largely upon the temper and the work of the Rivers and Harbors congress. We certainly want to help all we can."

EXAMINATIONS HELD FOR POSITIONS AS ASSISTANT FOREST RANGERS

WASHINGTON, October 26.—Examinations opened yesterday morning in fourteen far western states, and in Florida, Michigan, Minnesota, and Alaska, to fill vacant positions as assistant forest rangers on the National forests. The examinations are held at national forest headquarters in all states in which national forests are located, except in Arkansas and Oklahoma, and will last two days.

The positions pay, at entrance, a salary of $1,100 per annum. Men who enter the national forest work as assistant rangers are eligible for promotion to positions as rangers, and later to the position of forest supervisor, if they are good enough. The latter position pays a salary of from $1,600 up and calls both for all-round executive ability and for the highest amount of practical knowledge of forestry. Rangers work under the forest supervisors, often with a particular district in

Do You Realize?

That despondency in women is a mental condition often traceable to some distinctly female ill!

Women who are well do not have the blues, neither are they irritable and restless. Derangement of the female organism breeds all kinds of miserable feelings such as backache, headache, and bearing-down feelings. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There is no doubt that it has made many remarkable cures of female ills after all other means had failed. There is hardly a day that some woman does not write us that this simple old medicine, made only of roots and herbs, has cured her of a severe illness.

Here are two such letters—read them—they are genuine and reliable.

Plata, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with backache and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my catarrh is better, thanks to your advice. I will recommend your medicines to all sufferers."—Mrs. Mary Halstead, Plata, Pa., Box 98.

Walcott, N. Dakota.—"I had inflammation which caused pains in my sides, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if any one even said 'How poorly you look to-day.' I wrote to you for advice and got it at once. I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and I began to feel better and looked better before I finished the fourth bottle of medicine."—Mrs. Amelia Dahl, Walcott, N. Dakota.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

their charge, protecting the forests against fire and trespass, handling much of the minor business with forest users, settling and scaling timber and enforcing regulations under which purchasers of timber are allowed to cut on the National forests, building trails, supervising the work of forest guards, and on occasion leading forces of temporary employes against forest fires too large to be handled by the regular national forest force.

The forest ranger must therefore, first of all be an experienced and vigorous woodsman. In the words of the little pamphlet which the department of agriculture sends to persons making inquiry, "Invaluable seeking light, outdoor employment need not apply." He must be sound-bodied, trained to hardships, able to ride, pack, and take care of himself and his horses in the woods and mountains, familiar with the region and local conditions where he seeks employment, and a resident of the state in which he will be appointed. Although the requirements are largely physical and practical, they include both a sufficient general education to qualify the ranger to transact national forest business intelligently, and knowledge of land surveying, mining laws and customs, and the handling of range livestock. In the southwest some knowledge of Spanish is often necessary.

To secure the right kind of men the examination is largely a test of practical capacity to do things. The candidate must give a demonstration of his horsemanship, ability to pack, knowledge of the use of the compass, and similar matters. Other parts of the test are written examinations. Because of desirability of securing in the new rangers, recruits who will prove ca-

SWINDLING GAME

Importers Said to Be Involved

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 26.—A unique swindling game, far-reaching in operation and involving prominent diamond importers, was laid bare here yesterday when J. F. Napier and W. P. Duke, from nobody knows where, were arrested on warrants sworn out by United States Postoffice Inspector Bulla of Washington and bound over by United States Commissioner Cobb for the federal court.

Duke confessed and unfolded the operations of the gang to the commissioner.

Briefly the scheme was to order diamonds from a responsible concern, C. O. B., subject to examination, substitute imitations for the real diamonds and return the shipments to the importers with some flimsy excuse as to flaws in the stones. Both men were held in $2,500 each.

THE ACQUITTAL OF MISS LENEVE

In the acquittal of Miss Ethel Leneve, the London court showed its spirit of fairness. It was quite plain that Miss Leneve had been lured on by the wily doctor until she became infatuated with him. It is likely also that at first he represented himself as single or about to be divorced so that there was no reason why Miss Leneve should suspect him of murder until she learned of it after the fact from himself. Anyhow there was sympathy in the court and throughout the country for Miss Leneve and there was little apparent effort to bring forward damaging evidence against her. The evidence was not sufficient to prove her guilty beyond a reasonable doubt and, therefore, the jury acquitted her as promptly as it had convicted Dr. Crippen.

THE SHEDD PARK LAND

The deeds for the Shedd park land estimated to be worth $50,000 have been passed and recorded. The land is now owned by the city and the work of development may be started at any time. There is a portion of the land that can be converted into a skating park in the winter at a trifling expense. That would be a great attraction to the young people and one that would save lives, for there are nearly as many drownings through the thin ice in winter as there are in the canals and ponds of the hunted bathers in the summer time. Mr. Shedd who has made this magnificent gift to the city is deeply interested in the development of the park land and we believe would assist the city in any practical scheme, provided the work be undertaken in a business like way by the city council.

The park when developed and made one with the already Fort Hill park, will be one of the best in the country. The gift of such a valuable tract of land to the city for park purposes, makes Freeman B. Shedd, the donor, one of the city's foremost benefactors. His example is worthy of emulation by those who wish to leave a monument that will live for generations in the hearts of the people. The Shedd park with its magnificent gateway will be the grandest monument reared to any Lowell citizen with perhaps the single exception of the Ladd and Whitney monument raised to the memory of the protomartyrs of the Civil war.

REVOLT AGAINST ROOSEVELT

It appears that many New York republicans are organizing a revolt against the dictatorship of Col. Roosevelt. Business men, bankers and manufacturers regard him as a dangerous man and are preparing to elect the democratic candidate for governor just because they believe that the election of the republican candidate would mean the nomination of Roosevelt for president in 1912. This revolt is led by members of the old guard that were beaten at Saratoga.

The defection from the republican ticket in New York for this reason is statewide and it is alleged that it will grow until election day. The men who believe in state sovereignty, and in the supremacy of the courts are also getting in line to oppose Roosevelt. His attacks upon the courts constitute one of his worst faults. In a man of such distinction it is necessary that he should set an example of respect for the courts instead of undertaking to denounce certain decisions as unjust and unwarranted.

The vote of New York state fluctuates more perhaps between the two great parties than that of any other state. It was higher for Taft in 1908 than for any presidential candidate since McKinley's first election in 1896. It may be high for the democratic candidate this year and low for his opponent, but whether it will be equally high for the democratic candidate for president 1912 depends upon circumstances which cannot be foreshadowed at this time.

The manner in which Col. Roosevelt is getting into conflict with some of the most eminent men in the country; tends to show that were he again elevated to the high position of president he would use his great power with more recklessness than he did during his first term.

TO CLEAN THE LOWER CONCORD RIVER

For some time past a great many people have been asking how the condition of the lower Concord river could be remedied. It appears that under chapter 505 of the acts of 1909 the state board of health has the authority to prevent the Concord from becoming a menace to public health which it has been for the past year or two. The act referred to is as follows:—

Chapter 505 of the Acts of 1909.

An Act Relative to the Sanitary Condition of the Merrimack River and its Tributaries.

Section 1. The state board of health shall at such times as it may deem proper examine the bed, banks, and waters of the Merrimack river and of streams tributary or adjacent thereto in any city or town bordering upon said river or streams. Whenever the board shall determine that the condition of said river or streams or of the banks thereof is injurious or dangerous to public health, or likely to become injurious or dangerous to public health, by reason of the entrance of sewage or of refuse from factories or from other causes, said board shall prepare a plan or plans for removing the cause of such injury or danger, and shall report the same to the general court.

Approved June 16, 1909

The Concord is not a tributary of the Merrimack, but nevertheless it would seem that this act would empower the state board of health to take such action as will prevent the lower river from becoming an open cess pool. The local board does not seem to take any notice of the unsanitary condition of the Concord.

If the Locks and Canals company had charge of the Concord, as it has of the Merrimack, it would at least prevent the stream from being choked with filth and sewage until it is a menace to the health of the residents in the vicinity.

The lower Concord is not nearly so bad now as it usually is in hot weather, but for the greater part of the year, especially when the water is low, it is a nuisance that should be abated.

SEEKS TRAGIC END

Woman Flees From Nurses to End Her Life

WESTON, Oct. 26.—Suffering from an unbalanced mind, Ethel Hardcastle, 26 years old, a member of a wealthy and prominent New York family, who for some time had been a patient at sanitariums in this town and in Waltham, committed suicide about 6.30 last evening by throwing herself in front of an express train, of the Fitchburg division, of the Boston & Maine railroad near the Kendall Green station.

Quite as mysterious as the sensational death of the young woman were the efforts of everybody in any way connected with the affair to keep the facts from becoming known. The police officials of the town, railroad employees, the undertaker who took charge of the body, the physicians, employees of Grabington lodge, where Miss Hardcastle had been a patient for the past few weeks, and all others were reticent concerning the tragedy.

From the facts obtainable last night it appears that the young woman was being treated for a nervous malady and that she came to Waltham for treatment some time ago. For a time or until a few weeks ago, Miss Hardcastle had been an inmate of the Hillside, a sanitarium in Waltham for the treatment of nervous troubles.

The Hillside is a well known retreat, as is Grabington lodge in Weston, whither the unfortunate young woman went from Waltham. While a patient at Grabington lodge Miss Hardcastle was constantly attended by two women nurses, but about 6 last night she eluded her attendants and made her escape.

That she was a victim of suicidal mania before she escaped from her guard is the belief of a number of persons in town for she must have walked directly to the railroad tracks of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad, not half a mile distant as soon as she fled the sanitarium.

No one could be found in the vicinity of the Kendall Green railroad station who would admit having seen the woman previous to her death, but it is thought that she must have visited the station, crossed the platform and then walked down the tracks a short distance to where she waited for the express train to come in sight. Her body, badly mangled, was found beside the tracks some distance from the station.

The body was taken in charge by Chief of Police P. J. McAuliffe, who removed it to his premises, and Medical Examiner George West was notified and viewed the remains.

It was learned last night that during her stay at Grabington lodge Miss Hardcastle at times appeared to be quite rational, while at other times her condition bordered on the violent forms of insanity.

It was learned from New York late last night that on June 17 last an 18th Hardcastle, daughter of Frank Hardcastle of the firm of Hardcastle & Jones of that city, and living at the Hotel Regent, attempted to commit suicide by throwing herself under a subway car in New York. On that occasion the would-be suicide escaped unhurt.

INMATES SAVED

Aged People Taken From Burning Building

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Three women and one man, each reputed to be more than 100 years old, were among those rescued when a fire broke out in the cellar of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob last night. There were 105 old women and men in the home and in an annex were 90 old men. None of the inmates was less than 65 years old and but few were able to make their way to the street without assistance.

Mrs. Esther Davis, who is reported to be 116 years old, was one of the first rescued by two policemen, who carried her down the stairs.

The fire loss is small.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Lightning Struck Church in Saco, Me.

SACO, Me., Oct. 26.—A terrifying electrical storm swept over Saco last night, the lightning striking the steeple of the School Street Methodist Episcopal church and the home of Fred C. Bradbury, shocking a maid in the kitchen and knocking down two people passing the house.

Firemen fought the flames on the church steeple by running lines of hose into the belfry but found the work difficult and much damage was done by water to the church interior. The flames were stopped half way down the steeple.

The electric lights in many parts of the city were extinguished by the storm.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

The recent introduction of Cadum by a chemist has attracted considerable notice because it has benefited so many obstinate cases of eczema and other skin affections. Its success has been little short of wonderful. The itching of eczema stops with the first application, a cure, even in stubborn cases, being sometimes effected in two or three weeks. Herpes, pimples, rash, acne, blotches, etc., are relieved after a single night's use. Cadum is sold by all druggists at 10c and 25c per box.

He desires especially to call the attention of the public to the great importance of this problem. The neglected child is a far more fundamental and important difficulty than the neglected child, because neglect usually leads to delinquency. A large portion of the truants are found to be neglected children.

Another serious problem to be considered at the conference will be in connection with the section on cooperation with the section on cooperation of the principal speakers.

RIFLE PRACTICE

Marine Corps Finished Second to Infantry

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The action of the national board for promotion of rifle practice in restoring the U. S. Marine corps to second place in the great national team rifle match, which was shot at Camp Perry in August, has met with very general approval in the rifle world, although under the plan of classification of the teams will change several teams from one class to another. In the shooting the Marine corps finished second, to the United States Infantry with a score of 1436, the infantry score being 3186. The U. S. cavalry followed with 3116. Iowa had 3112 and the U. S. navy 3111. All of these teams were shooting in Class A in which two trophies and four cash prizes are given, with medals to the members of each team, the first prize being the national trophy presented by congress. The skirmish run is the last stage of the match and generally speaking the final standing of the teams depends greatly on their shooting at skirmish. For some years past the U. S. Marine corps has devoted a great deal of time and money to rifle practice, its latest effort in the direction of improving its shooting, and with an eye toward capturing the national trophy, being the establishment of a modern up-to-date rifle range on the Potomac river near Washington. The efforts of the Marine corps to capture the prize and their gameness in defeat as well as in incidental victories, and their readiness to help competitors in every possible way has gained for the officers and men an enviable reputation and standing in the shooting game. On the last day of the national match the Marine corps team had just started in on its skirmish run. As the first shots were fired at 600 yards Lieut. Randolph Coyle, U. S. M. C., who was team spotter, and who was seated behind the line looking the targets through a telescope, sprang to his feet and in an excess of enthusiasm over the good shooting being done by the members of the team called out loudly "Good wind."

By this Lieut. Coyle meant that the Marine corps skirmishers had gauged the direction and velocity of the wind correctly as evidenced by the accuracy of their shooting. Through the telescope he could see the holes in the targets made by their bullets, which were invisible to the members of the team.

The rules governing the national matches are the strictest that can be devised to insure fair play and they are vigorously and impartially enforced. One of these rules forbids all coaching in a team match except that a team captain may coach his men on the run, meaning the skirmish run. Lieut. Coyle's exclamation being called to the attention of Col. R. K. Evans, U. S. A., executive officer of the national matches, the latter held that it was a technical violation of the rules against coaching. He penalized the Marine corps by eliminating their score of 1032 points made on the skirmish run. He did this with great reluctance as it seemed most unjust that a team whose excellent shooting entitled it to second place should be dropped clear to the foot of the list through an indiscretion of one of its members. The elimination of the Marine corps gave the Cavalry second place, Iowa third, and U. S. Navy fourth place. The Cavalry team, however, believing that an injustice was being done to the Marine corps team, filed a protest with the acting secretary of war, who is president of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, against the action of Col. Evans. It was what in court might be termed a "friendly suit." The national board being the body which makes the rules for the national matches under the approval of the secretary of war, was therefore convened in a special session and acting on the protest a statement from Col. Evans and the testimony of several members of the board who had been present at the time, reversed the decision of the executive officer and gave the Marine corps team credit for its score in the skirmish run. This placed the Marine corps second but eliminated the Navy team from the list of prize winners in Class A.

One of the reasons which actuated the board in restoring the Marine corps to its proper place was the fact that had it been left at the bottom of the list it would have been pitted against the other teams in Class C at the next annual tournament, which teams it easily outranks. The practical effect would be to deprive these teams of any opportunity to win the great prize in their class which is the Soldier of Marathon, accompanied by $300 in cash. At the matches last year the Naval Academy team was penalized for an infraction of the rules which dropped them from Class A to Class B. This year their excellent shooting landed them in sixth place in Class A and incidentally they carried off the first prize in Class B, which is the time-honored Hutton trophy, together with $350 in cash.

SCHOOL BOARD

Adopts Rule to Have Local News-boys Licensed

Truant Commissioner Thornton Entrusted With the Enforcement of the Law—Action Taken at the Request of the Board of Trade—Other Matters

The school board at its meeting last night voted that on and after December 1, all boys 14 years old or under, who desire to sell newspapers, in the public streets of the city will be required to have a license. The action of the school board was due to a communication which it received from the executive committee of the board of trade, the committee advising that conditions are such as would warrant the enforcement. It was stated in the communication that the police department was willing to work for the betterment of conditions as regards this matter.

The law relative to it is contained in chapter 419 of the revised laws and is entitled: "An act relative to the licensing of minors to engage in certain occupations in cities." It reads as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section seventeen of chapter sixty-five of the Revised Laws, as amended by chapter five, hundred and thirty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and two, and by chapter one hundred and fifty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and six, is hereby further amended by adding the following sentences at the end of said section:—Any person who, having a minor under his control, knowingly furnishes or sells to any minor any of the articles above referred to with knowledge that said minor intends to sell said articles in violation of the provisions of this act, and after having received written notice from the school committee that the minor is unlicensed, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months. Truant and police officers shall enforce the provisions of this chapter, so as to read as follows:—Section 17. The mayor and ordinations relative to the exercise of the trade of bootblacking by minors and to the sale by minors of any goods, wares or merchandise the sale of which is permitted by section fifteen, and may prohibit such sales or such trade, or may require a minor to obtain from them a license therefor to be issued on terms and conditions prescribed in such regulations: provided, that in the case of persons under the age of fourteen years in the cities of the commonwealth the foregoing powers shall be vested in and exercised by the school committee of said cities. A minor who sells such articles, or exercises such trade without a license if one is required or who violates the conditions of his license or any of the provisions of said regulations shall be punished by a fine of not more than ten dollars for each offence. Any person who, having a minor under his control, knowingly permits him to violate the provisions of this act, and any person who procures or employs a minor to violate the provisions of this act, and any person who either for himself or as agent of any other person or of any corporation knowingly furnishes or sells to any minor any of the articles above referred to with knowledge that said minor intends to sell said articles in violation of the provisions of this act, and after having received written notice from the school committee that the minor is unlicensed, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months. Truant and police officers shall enforce the provisions of this chapter. Approved April 21, 1910.

The communication from the board of trade was discussed at some length and Truant Officer Thornton, who is familiar with the new law, was asked to express his opinion. He explained that the law reached only boys under 14 years and those who sold papers, but not those who carried them. On motion of Mr. Simpson the recommendation of the board of trade was favorably acted on, the law to go into effect Dec. 1.

The terms under which the newsboy's license will be issued is summarized as follows:

Must fasten his badge to the right breast of his outside garment in such a

WILLIAM F. THORNTON
Who Will Enforce the Newsboy License Rule

way that it will be in plain sight all the time, and not be covered by his papers.

Must not sell, lend or give his badge to any other boy or let any other boy have his badge for any purpose.

Must not let any boy who has not been granted a license and given a badge have papers to sell.

Must not allow any boy who has not been granted a license and given a badge to sell for him, or assist him, or go around with him.

Must at once report to the superintendent the loss of his badge.

Must not sell in or on a street car.

Must not sell during school hours.

Must not sell before half past six in the morning.

Must not sell after 8 o'clock at night except on election days.

Must not stand around with other boys.

Must not allow other boys to stand around with him.

Must not make any unnecessary noise.

Must not disturb or annoy people by teasing them to buy or in any other way.

Must attend school, both sessions, every day.

Must give up his badge to his school teacher when notified that his license is to be taken away or suspended, or at the end of the time for which it is issued, or before leaving the city if he moves away, or when he gives up selling if he does not intend to sell again.

Does anything which he is forbidden to do by the terms of his license, or if he fails to do anything which he is required to do by the terms of his license or if he breaks any law or ordinance, or any regulation of the school committee, he is liable to have his license revoked and to pay a fine.

The board instructed Truant Commissioner Thornton to carry out the wishes of the new law and to see that it is enforced in a proper way.

Reporting for the committee on rules Mr. Goward stated that he had received a communication from Supt. Whitcomb relative to the increase of teachers' salaries after ten years of service. Under the present rule it causes some teachers to work, in some instances, a half-year or more over the time required. A change was recommended which did away with the objection. The report was accepted and adopted by the board.

The following recommendation submitted by Mr. Goward was adopted:

"We recommend that section 41 of chapter 4 of the rules of the school committee be amended by a striking out of the words, 'in writing to the superintendent,' and by adding at the end of the words, 'to the other members of the board,' so that the last half of the section shall read as follows:

"It shall be the duty of each member of the board of supervisors to visit each of the applicants assigned to him, and to report the result of such visit to the other members of the board."

The committee on evening schools reported the following, which was adopted: "The election of the following teachers: Lawrence Churchill to the Evening High school, Dolores Gaudette to the Colburn school, and E. Belle Perham to the Evening Drawing school; Elizabeth Maguire to the Edison school, Mr. Cardwell to the Edison school. A Gookin was recommended and granted."

A communication was received from Bennett Silverblatt asking for the use of the Howard street school, after the regular school hours, for the purpose of teaching Hebrew. It was referred to the committee on schoolhouses.

THE GREAT DIVIDE

Lecture by Rev. George F. Kenngott

Rev. George F. Kenngott, pastor of the First Trinitarian Congregational church, gave an illustrated lecture on "The Great Divide" at the church in Dutton street last night. It being the second in a series of six lectures to be given by him in aid of the church building fund.

The lecture was very interesting and depicted the wonders of Yellowstone park. The park and the region about there was described in a lucid manner and for those who have never visited that part of the country there were many features of the park brought forth.

ATTACKED HIS WIFE

Fall River Woman May Die of Her Injuries

FALL RIVER, Oct. 26.—Delphis Dorey, 28 years of age, of 212 Lowell street, is a fugitive from justice, and the police of this and surrounding cities are seeking to apprehend him on a charge of having murderously assaulted his wife, Mary Dorey, at their home last night. With a claw hammer Dorey, it is alleged, struck his wife four times on the left side of the head and left her unconscious with a fractured skull.

Mrs. Dorey was removed in the ambulance to the City hospital and at midnight her condition was critical. Hospital surgeons say the chances are that if Dorey is found he will have to face a charge of murder.

After committing the assault, it is said, Dorey ran down Lowell street and headed for the Quequechan river and the police gave credence to the belief of his relatives that the man will do away with himself. Officers from the eastern and southern stations were assigned to the case a few minutes after word of the affair reached police headquarters.

Cause of Attack

Dorey had a good start, however, and his sister was the last person to see him as he fled in the direction of the river. Dorey had not been working of late, but had been supplied with money, and the police say he had been drinking heavily.

For the past three weeks he has not shown up at home, and the police understand that it was a quarrel he had with his wife that made him leave home. He has been seen in the vicinity of his home for a few days past, and yesterday afternoon at 5 he made his appearance again.

Mrs. Dorey was not at home when her husband called, and he waited for her. The moment that she put in an appearance Dorey, it is charged, attacked her. He had procured a claw hammer and with this weapon ran after his wife. She was unable to beat off the blows which he rained upon her head. The first blow felled her to the ground, and while she lay prostrated Dorey hit her again and again.

HOW A TREE GROWS

The following communication was received from an old friend:

Lowell, Oct. 26, 1910.
Editor of The Sun:—From the item in yesterday's Sun in regard to that tree and grew and lifted the barn twelve feet, I would say that a tree does not grow from the bottom, but from the top. The stump of a tree is always a stump, no matter how many roots it has—shoots or branches may come out, that is all—the tree is gone. In answer to this question, several years ago the Scientific American said: "A tree grows from the top—the only lifting out of the ground the tree gets is by the swelling of its roots."

A BAG OF SILVER

Was Found Hidden in a Wall

TURNERS FALLS, Oct. 26.—Good fortune recently favored John A. Schille in his purchase of the Howland farm in the town of Gilh, sold to him by the heirs of H. H. Howland.

While removing a partition in the old farmhouse the other day Mr. Schille, after tearing away a few boards found a bag neatly tied and marked "No. 1."

It was found to be full of silver coins, the amount of which Mr. Schille prefers not to mention. It is believed, however, there was a considerable sum, probably several hundred dollars.

It is the opinion of some that the bag has been concealed a quarter of a century or more as no coin bore a later date than 1850.

There is a long history of family ownership of the old farm, which was originally bought by George Howland of Barnstable from John Sheldon and others of Deerfield. It has been the property of the Howland family since 1726.

MRS. BRUNNER DEAD

SERGT. THOMPSON FALL CONFERENCE

In Charge of Local Marine Of Andover Association Held at Recruiting Station Lawrence Yesterday

Sergt. T. C. Thompson, the subject of this sketch, is in charge of the marine recruiting station that is located on the second floor of the Runcos building, Merrimack square, and he says that the marine corps is a branch of Uncle Sam's service that seems to be little understood by our young men. He allows that as they pass along the street they are deceived by the similarity of the marine corps poster to that of the army. He says they pass the posters with a careless glance and do not stop to investigate. "If they would stop and read the posters and seek further information," said Sergt. Thompson, "they would discover what the marine corps really is, and the advantages that they could enjoy in their four years of service therein. The corps is a fine body of infantry about ten thousand strong, which is liable for service all over the world, on board of our ships of war and in our foreign possessions. They are at times liable to service with the army also. "A young man enlisting in the Marine corps has the advantage of seeing foreign countries and their people, of traveling about the world in a comfortable man-of-war where conveniences for seafaring men in these modern times are of the best. Our ships are comfortable, clean and healthful. The best of care is taken of the health of the men; they live exceedingly well, there is plenty for them to eat of the best of food, carefully watched over and inspected by the surgeons. The drinking water is distilled on board and no water is more wholesome than distilled water. The marine gets a yearly allowance of clothing from the government, amounting to as follows: Sergeant-major, quarter-master-sergeant $102.20 for the first year, and $61.10 for the second, and succeeding years; first-sergeant, gunnery sergeant $98.55 for the first year, and $61.10 for the second and succeeding years; sergeant, corporal $84.90 for the first year, and $47.45 for the second and succeeding years; private $87.00 for the first year and $43.80 for the second and succeeding years. If allowance of clothing is not used up by the man, (and by being careful of his clothes he can always save it), he gets at the end of his enlistment, the value in cash from the government, for undrawn clothing. His pay is as follows:

SERG. T. C. THOMPSON
U. S. Marine Corps

Pay Table
Sergeant-major, $45 per month, for first three years, and an increase of $4 for every enlistment up until the seventh. First-sergeant, quarter-master-sergeant and gunnery-sergeant $45 per month, for first three years, and an increase of $4 for every enlistment up until the seventh.

Sergeant, $30 per month for the first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh. Corporal, $21 for first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh. Private, $16 for first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh.

Mr. Thompson has served for seven years. He says he went into the corps because he desired to see something of the world, and he had the intention of seeing promotion. At the outbreak of the Russian Japanese war he was one of 100 marines to guard the American legation at Korea. He saw the first engagement of the war and later he was attached to the service as acting clerk to the United States minister. Later on he spent two years in Panama, and was then ordered to headquarters in Washington upon clerical work. He had been promoted upon recommendation of his superior officers as a reliable, conscientious, marine and that is why he was made a recruiting sergeant.

The Andover Association of Congregational churches and ministers held its fall conference yesterday afternoon and evening in the South church, Lawrence, with a large attendance. The conference was distinctly a laymen's meeting although the clergy were in evidence and addressed the gathering at times.

The conference was called to order at 2:45 o'clock by Rev. Frank G. Alger of Lowell. Following this John A. Osgood of this city led devotional exercises.

Rev. Owen H. Gates of Andover then read his reports of the last meeting as secretary-treasurer. Unfinished business was reported upon.

"Work Among the Aliens," was the subject of Justin E. Varney of Lawrence. He recommended following the lines laid down by the Russell Sage foundation.

Rev. A. Frederic Dannels appeared for the committee on systematic giving. He said that the committee had been doing much work and referred to the conference which was held several months ago. As a result of that conference it had been decided to adopt a sliding scale of apportionment for the various churches.

For churches with expenses of $3000 or under, 10 per cent. would be asked for benevolent work; for churches with expenses of over $3000, 15 per cent. would be asked. However, the condition of each individual church would be taken into consideration.

Mr. Dannels said that churches of the conference should give $21,000 for benevolent work. In view of the fact that the benevolences of the section have been far under that, the state committee will ask for but $14,500.

The speaker representing this committee, favored the raising of about $2000 over that sum. The amount to be raised by Congregational churches in Lowell and vicinity were as follows: Lowell, Pawtucket, $200; First church, $650; First Trinitarian, $650; Elliot, $675; Kirk Street, $1600; High street, $650; Highland, $225; French, $25; Swedish, $30; Dracut, First Church, $40; Central Church, $50; Tewksbury $150, and Tyngsboro $50.

Following the reading of the apportionments there was brief discussion. It was voted to accept the report as progressive.

Rev. C. H. Oliphant of Methuen, reported for the committee on ministerial standing.

The application of Rev. James E. Gregg that he be a member in good standing in the association was voted favorably upon. Rev. T. G. Langdale, formerly of Tewksbury but now of Salem, formally asked for the certificate of transfer. This was voted.

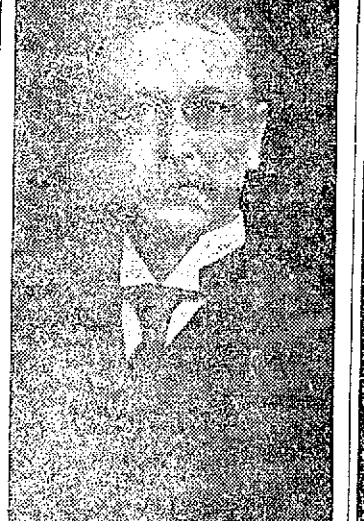

Rev. Mr. Gates read a resolution to the effect that there be no printed report of statistics of the district this year, but that the statistical secretary read a report in full at the meeting to be held in Haverhill. It was voted to refer the matter to the business committee.

Rev. Mr. Gates said the state secretary asked for six cents per member during the year.

The open forum started at the conclusion of the business session and the first speaker was Norman T. Wilcox of Lowell, who spoke interestingly on the subject, "Methods of Providing for Church Expenses."

Justin E. Varney of Lowell spoke on

REV. F. G. ALGER
Who Presided

"The Relation of the Pastor to Church Expenses," a warm discussion relative to the business methods or lack of them that prevail in some of the churches. Among the speakers were Rev. Mr. Oliphant and Rev. Sarah Dixon of Tewksbury. Henry A. Smith of Lowell spoke on "Why Does the Church Maintain a Sunday School?"

Rev. E. Victor Bigelow and Rev. Allan C. Perrin, both of Lowell, discussed this subject, after which adjournment was made.

In the evening George B. Thomas of Lawrence led a devotional service after which the chorus choir of the church sang the "Gloria" from Haydn's seventh mass.

college then spoke at length on "A Young Woman's Religion." Principal Alfred E. Stearns of Andover academy gave an address on "A Young Man's Religion," after which the session adjourned.

Mayor Meehan will be the guest of honor at this evening's festivities. Tomorrow evening will be Hibernian night, and the members of the local divisions of the A. O. H. will assemble at their hall at 7:30 and will march in a body to the bazaar, headed by the O. M. I. Cadets' field music. It will be distinctly an "Irish" night, and an appropriate musical program will be presented.

Friday evening will be Knights of Columbus night, the local council having accepted the invitation of its chaplain, Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., to attend. It is expected the knights will turn out in large numbers and the talent of the council of which there is an "abundance" will furnish an impromptu entertainment.

One of the features of the bazaar is the publication of a daily paper known as the Alumni Journal, devoted to the bazaar. Its headliner is a serial story entitled "A Defective Story," abounding in wit and humor and of anonymous origin.

The choruses of the parish, Rev. John T. Flynn, Rev. Bernard Fletcher, and Rev. Jos. T. McDermott, are all hustling to make the bazaar a great success and they have aroused great enthusiasm among the parishioners.

should always be used where several people sit, because it does not strain the eyes of those sitting far from it.

The Rayo Lamp is constructed to give the maximum diffused white light. Every detail that increases its light-giving value has been included.

The Rayo is a low-priced lamp. You may pay $5, $10 or even $20 for other lamps and get a more expensive container—but you cannot get a better light than the Rayo gives.

This season's Rayo has a new and strengthened burner. A strong, durable shade-holder keeps the shade on firm and true. Easy to keep polished, as it is made of solid brass, finished in nickel.

AT THE BAZAAR

Storm Failed to Interfere With Its Success

The second night's festivities at the Sacred Heart parish bazaar were fully as enjoyable as those of the previous evening, and while the lightning raged and the thunder roared and the rain poured, their combined disturbances failed to interfere with the success of the bazaar, and a remarkably large gathering for such a night was present.

The stage entertainment, as previously announced, was carried out with success, while the sales tables and other attractions, including the pretty girls with the inevitable "chance" book did a land office business. The "Duck Ring" was again a centre of attraction and the original rubber-necks were kept on the duck all evening.

The entertainment was under the auspices of the school alumni and was personally directed by Rev. Sister Joseph of the Sisters of Mary. Rev. James Quinn, O. M. I., pastor of St. Mary's church at San Antonio, Texas, who is in town on a visit, was a welcome visitor at last evening's festivities. Mr. Quinn at a recent meeting of the alumni was elected an honorary member.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Discussed by Rabbi Fleischer at Board of Trade

The inclement weather interfered seriously with the attendance at the meeting held in the board of trade rooms in connection with the campaign being held by the Massachusetts Women's Suffrage Association.

But though small numerically the audience was deeply interested and thoroughly attentive to the remarks of the speaker of the evening, Rabbi Charles Fleischer of Cambridge, who presented his argument in favor of equal suffrage.

Rabbi Fleischer spoke in part as follows: "In the first place I feel that I must lay down rather dogmatically, certain fundamental principles. First, a dissertation against prejudice would be in order. The orthodox attitude towards conditions as we find them, is well expressed in that line of Alexander Pope—'Whatever is, is right.' For one, I believe in a new sort of orthodoxy, which would say, 'Whatever is, is wrong.' I say this because I am a thorough-going revolutionist. All life is an evolution; progress is the true rule of the human race. Whatever is, is likely to represent past wisdom and past experience, rather than aspiration toward the fleeting goal of the ideal that is always ahead of us.

"We have no right to approach this or any other human question, with a closed mind. The fact that a thing has been or is, is no presumptive proof in its favor. Every institution must justify itself always.

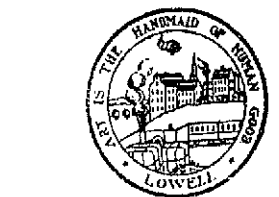

"Democracy is a very living protest against things as they were and as they are. It is a forward moving, stimulating influence. Democracy stands for the present and the future, and regards only the individual, human unit."

"It may surprise you to hear that I am not a woman suffragist. I do believe in equal suffrage, which is a distinction with a difference, decidedly. If men were excluded from the ballot, I would not call myself a man suffragist. I should still be an equal suffragist. If I were a woman, I would not fight for the suffrage as a woman, but as a human being. I believe in democracy. Already I have indicated that that means the organization of society on the basis of respect for the individual, human unit; and before democracy, there can be no discrimination against sex, any more than against race, or against any other of the various groups.

"I believe firmly in votes for women. I believe in the capability of bringing women into the civic life of the nation. I believe not so much in giving this to them as a privilege and as a right, as I believe in imposing it upon them as a responsibility."

Rabbi Fleischer said that he does not believe that voting is an inborn right, or that it is a right at all. "Privileges, social institutions, have a way of evolving out of past conditions. When we organized here in America, we were under certain obligations, one of which was that God, in his wisdom, had created the male as the superior being and the ruler of his race. Our political organization is based on the notion that we have inherited from the Orient—that of male superiority. I can see no other reason for excluding women from the ballot at the beginning of our government here."

"While I hold that voting is not an inherent right, but is distributed by the powers that be, when I ask how it is distributed, I must say that it is distributed by power, and by prejudice. It is not very long since the Jews had no

Absolutely Safe Storage

THE LOWELL STORAGE COMPANY has fitted a long felt want in our city by building one of the largest storage buildings in New England, where every kind of Merchandise from a Diamond to a Locomotive is kept. The building is fireproof with arrangements for the storing of Furniture, Pianos and in short everything but dynamite at very reasonable rent. A person would be very foolish to sell his household goods if he was going out of town, and let them go at a great sacrifice, when he can have them stored perfectly safe with us. Come up to Jackson street and talk it over with us; we can satisfy you in every way. One floor heated for automobiles.

been arranged for. This feature of the program will be given in addition to the regular performance Friday night, and is alone worth the admission price. Owing to the length of the bill for Friday night, the performance for that evening will commence at 8.45. The prices of admission will be five and ten cents, with a few reserved seats at fifteen cents, which includes admission.

"BILLY, THE BOY ARTIST"

Is there a man, woman or child in all New England who has not seen at some time or other in the past few years and had a good hearty laugh over Ed. Payne's famous funny cartoon series of "Billy, the Boy Artist." In the colored comic supplement of the Boston Sunday Globe? One thing is sure, and that is that there are thousands who have looked forward to them every Sunday ever since they first started several years ago, and it is probably no exaggeration to say that there are a great many who get the paper especially to see what new tricks Billy is playing on Prof. O. Howe Wise and Prof. I. B. Schmart with his wonderful derful pal of paint and his handy paint brush.

There is, then, an accumulated interest of years, and hundreds of thousands of people will be pleased to know that at last theatrical managers have awakened to the possibilities of the funmaking qualities of this subject for stage purposes. Very soon now at the Opera House we shall see "Billy, the Boy Artist," as a full-fledged "comic cut" musical show with all the characters that Ed. Payne has made familiar to New Englanders. In addition to Professors Wise and Schmart and Billy himself, there will be Clarence, Chumley, Hen, and the other characters of the "Billy, the Boy Artist" series. The cartoonists of the Boston Sunday Globe—

It is promised that "Billy, the Boy Artist" will outshine all the other newspaper cartoon plays for genuine fun, and will be a success of whom will be genuine artists' models, by the way—funful music and scenic effects. "Billy, the Boy Artist" comes to the Opera House for three days, starting next Monday, Oct. 31st.

GERTRUDE ELLIOTT
One of the early bookmakers for the Opera House is that of Gertrude Elliott, known in private life as Mrs. Forbes Robertson, as "Glad" in Frances Hodgson Burnett's play of cheerfulness, "The Dawn of Tomorrow." Miss Elliott is a girl of about 25, highly successful in her work at the Shubert theatre, Boston, and will be seen here supported by the same exceptional cast as seen during the Boston engagement. Miss Elliott is under the management of Messrs. Lieber & Co.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

There is always a good show at the Academy of Music, that is why you cannot get a good seat if you do not come early. Lohse & Stirling, Hayes & Suits, and Samuel Howard & Co., are all artists in their lines, and they are giving satisfaction. Tomorrow an entire new bill, Great Leon & Co., The Singing Three, and James & Lee, will be the vaudeville offering, with new pictures. Amateurs tonight. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

If there is anybody in Lowell who has not yet heard the Glendora quartet at the Merrimack Square theatre this week, it is because they are planning to go later on. Of course everyone wants to hear this quartet of Lowell young men, known all over the city as among the best singers in vaudeville.

Tonight the Knights of Equity and that famous organization, the Bachelor club, are going to attend the performance in a body and take a part in the proceedings.

Several lots of other good things on the program this week too. The scenic stock company has one in its unusually strong presentation of a carefully studied in delicate sentiment and patriotism, "Corporal Brown." Madell & Corbier have a bright comedy sketch, Miss Nina Repey, "The girl with the band," has the funniest instrumental act ever, and Miss May Monahan is a singer worth hearing. Excellent moving pictures are also on the bill.

STAR THEATRE

Bright, breezy burlesques with four large vaudeville acts including Marron & Marron in their Dutch specialty and Tony Corsetta, Italian comedian, is being presented at the Star theatre and this week's show is the peer of all the city shows thus far.

Some fast musical numbers, in which the latest hits are introduced are a feature of the show, while the large chorus of girls has many changes of costumes to enhance the performance.

The burlesque "Casey the Piper" is a comedy play. There are many funny situations and the singing and dancing are excellent.

Tonight there will be a special attraction in the form of a wrestling match, without an increase in prices. The management has decreased the admission price afterwards to five and ten cents, and it can be truly said that it's a big show for little money.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Fin Lewis, the ebullient sprit—likewise a sister of the only Miss—headlined at Hathaway's this week, in a duologue called "At the Ball." The piece is designed to give Miss Fin an opportunity to demonstrate her abundant talents as a comedienne. It is most amusing.

One "Christmas Eve," a comedy sketch by the King of all American playlet writers, Will Crosby, is a bundle of laughs from opening to close. Hal Davis and Miss Thelma Macaulay appear in it and bring out all of the salient points.

The Gardner family, four persons, supply singing, dancing, and comedy; the Zara Carmen trio are premiere hoop rollers and baton twirlers; Jack Lewis and Harry Casey render a "rah, rah" turn; Jules Harrison offers up for consideration excellent German dialect; Toki Kishi is a foot juggler of ability, and the show closes with motion pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

MAYOR HOWARD

Makes an Assignment of Salary

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Mayor Howard of Salem made an assignment of his salary for two months to S. E. Cussino, a Salem publisher, whom he owes $250. Thus far the mayor has not collected a cent of his salary. His first week's pay was attached for his board bill. This was adjusted, and since the salary had been collected by Lewis R. Hovey of Haverhill, to whom the mayor assigned it.

The mayor has announced that he will not be a candidate again. He made a pre-election promise to give his salary for playgrounds.

CO-OPERATIVE BANK DIVIDENDS

At a meeting of the directors of the Lowell Co-operative bank held last night, it was voted to declare a dividend for the past six months at the annual rate of 4 1/2 per cent. Inasmuch as the rate for the first six months was at the rate of five per cent, the average rate for the year will be 4 3/4 per cent.

The bank makes an increase in its surplus of over $1400.

The net profits the past six months are over $19,000, and it has been the best half-year in the history of the bank. Shareholders in series No. 27 will now be paid off, their shares having matured. The amount paid in on each share is $150, and the amount to be paid on each will be $204.89. There are 153 shares in the series and the total amount to be paid will be over $31,200. The number of people now holding shares in the Lowell Co-operative bank is 2166.

A communication calling attention to the need for $5000 for an auto police patrol was read and referred to the committee on appropriations.

George E. Worthen, superintendent of state aid, asked for an additional appropriation of $6000 for his department. The matter was referred to the committee on appropriations.

There was a communication from City Auditor Charles E. Paige calling attention to the fact that appropriations for assessors department and health department were exhausted. This, too, was referred to the committee on appropriations.

The council voted in concurrence with the board of aldermen to accept 1875 feet of land from Hannah M. Spaulding for park purposes.

The recommendation of the committee on lands and buildings that the petitioners for the purchase of land at the Washington school, for playground purposes be given leave to withdraw, was received and the council voted in accordance with the recommendation.

It was voted to refer the matter of expending $2500 for widening Rogers street to next year's city government.

A recess of 20 minutes was voted in order to give the members an opportunity to caucus on the question of the Dummer street extension. It provided a long 20 minutes.

President Jewett announced that there were two reports on the proposed extension, one a majority report from the committee on streets and the other a minority report signed by one member of the committee on streets, Councilman Dow. The majority report was against and the minority report for the extension. President Jewett submitted the double proposition to the council and a motion was made to table until the next meeting.

Councilman Dow called for a ye and nay vote. The result was 17 to 10 for postponement.

COTTAGE HOUSE AND ABOUT 4500 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT

74 INLAND STREET

I shall offer for absolute sale on the premises, regardless of any condition of the weather, this 7-room cottage house and about 4500 square feet of land. The house consists of seven rooms, bath and pantry. On the first floor there is a parlor, sitting-room, dining-room with china closet built in and hardwood floor, kitchen and pantry. There are three airy and well lighted chambers and bath on the second floor. The rooms are all good size and very conveniently laid out, and the house has excellent closet room and is always rented. The lot has a good frontage on Inland street, contains about 4500 square feet and is all sodded. The location is a very desirable one, as almost everyone in the neighborhood owns his own home. It is within one minute's walk from the new Washington school and within two minutes' walk from the Chelmsford street car line, and for someone who would like to reside in this section of the city he could not find a more cozy little home. Inland street runs off Chelmsford street, opposite the new Washington school. Now remember the day and the hour and that it will be absolutely sold to whomsoever will bid the most for it. A good liberal mortgage can remain at 5 per cent.

Terms: $200 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off.

A TWO-TENEMENT HOUSE AND ABOUT 3445 SQUARE FEET OF LAND

AT NOS. 94 AND 96 CRAWFORD ST., PAWTUCKETVILLE.

On the premises, regardless of any condition of the weather, I shall offer for sale the above two-tenement house and about 3445 square feet of land. There are six rooms, bath and back shed with each tenement. Separate front and back doors, separate cellars which are cemented and have doors leading to the yard in the rear, hardwood floors in the dining-rooms and kitchens, with china closets built in the dining-rooms, and gas throughout. In fact they are very large, airy, and well lighted flats, and the rooms are conveniently laid out. It rents for about $3000 a year and is always rented. The lot has a good frontage on Crawford street, contains about 3445 square feet and is all sodded and fenced in. Now, then, for the man of moderate means, who wishes to make a safe and sound investment, here is his opportunity, as he can occupy one tenement, and have the income of the other. The location is a good one, this property being located on the rise of the hill, but a short distance across Moody street bridge, and handy to schools and cars. When you are out for a walk look this property up as it will be absolutely sold on the day and hour advertised.

Terms: $300 to be paid to the auctioneer as soon as struck off. A good liberal mortgage can remain at 5 per cent.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I. He also performed the marriage ceremony.

The bride was becomingly attired in white embroidered net over white silk, wore a picture hat of white satin and carried lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Agnes M. Sullivan, who wore pink silk over pink and a black picture hat with pink plumes and carried Killarney roses. Mr. John J. Clarke was the best man. The ring bearer was Arthur Harrington, cousin of the bride.

During the mass Mrs. Hugh Walker presided at the organ and Joseph P. Courtney and Mrs. Terrence P. Cox rendered solos.

Mrs. Walker sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden" and Mrs. Cox rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria." There were also selections by a quartet composed of Joseph P. Courtney and Mrs. Terrence P. Cox.

NIGHT EDITION FAMILY ESCAPED

Lightning Caused Great Damage in Pelham Last Night

Never in the history of this section of the country did lightning work greater havoc on a building than that wrought in Pelham by the electrical storm last evening.

Pelham's only store at the square was the scene of the frightful and spectacular pranks played by the fiery elements of the air and today there is but one place of interest in Pelham and that is the scene of the disaster.

The store and house with which it is connected are owned by Harry Atwood, town clerk and postmaster. It was about 20 minutes to seven that the lightning struck the store and house, and that several persons were not killed is marvellous; another of these miraculous things that cannot be explained.

Several men were in the store at the time and in the dining room of the house where the walls were thrown down, Mrs. Atwood and her five children were having supper. They were not injured.

Fire added to the horror of the occasion and it looked at one time as if the whole square was doomed. A hose was stretched from the water tank at the car station 100 yards or so away, and the heroic work of willing hands saved the square from destruction.

The ball of fire as it was described by those who were eye witnesses, entered the house where the electric wires are located and in less than ten minutes it takes to tell it the store was a wreck, windows were blown into the street and walls and ceilings were torn away. Five rooms of the house were destroyed and a part of a gable end was torn out. A few seconds after the first shock was felt a terrific noise was heard near the well at the back of the store and upon investigation it was found that the ball of fire had gone down beside the well where the wires were grounded. One man declared that he saw the ball of fire shoot from the house to the well.

Lewis a Hero

Guy Lewis, motorman, was the hero of the occasion. A tank containing 400 gallons of kerosene oil was located in the cellar and the cellar was on fire. Lewis knew that the oil was there, but nothing daunted, he went down with the hose.

The wooden framework surrounding the tank was then on fire and to add to the horror of the situation the tank was on fire. Lewis, however, succeeded in subduing the flames before they had reached the oil.

In the meantime the fire was doing business in the store above but it was being gallantly fought and while Mr. Atwood's stock was practically ruined, it was due more to smoke and water than to fire. More than 20,000 gallons of water were used.

When the lightning struck the store Mr. Atwood did not know that the invader from the skies had gone to the house and when it was told him his first thought was for his wife and children. He was told, however, that they were safe and sound and he continued to fight the fire.

Mrs. Atwood said that while she and the children, who were seated at the table in the dining room were terribly frightened, they were not hurt. One of the walls of the room was shattered but they escaped the flying plaster and other things.

The storm was said to be the worst that had passed over Pelham in years. Old residents said today that it was the worst in their experience. The trolley and other wires seemed strung with electric lights that danced and sparked fantastically.

The Shock Felt

The telephone and other wires at Mr. Atwood's store were put out of commission and in Mr. Charles Colman's house, two miles away, the telephone was put out of commission and persons in the house felt the shock. This took place almost simultaneously with the thunder clap that meant disaster to Mr. Atwood's house and store. The shock was plainly felt by persons in Mr. Colman's house. There the lightning followed the wires which, like in the other instance, were grounded in the well.

Mr. Atwood's house and store described very faithfully the appearance of some of the buildings in South Lowell at the time of the explosion there. Not the houses that were shattered to pieces but the houses that were badly wrecked.

One of the peculiar things noted in Mr. Atwood's store after the fire had to do with a bunch of bananas. The fruit was hanging in the store and before the fire they were very tempting to look upon, but when the fire was over they were as black as black could be. Mr. Atwood, of course, thought that the bananas were ruined, but upon examination he found that while they had turned black they had not lost their sweetness.

Lowellites, who heard of the destruction caused by the lightning in Pelham decided to have a look at themselves and this afternoon the Pelham line was doing a rushing business. But for the tank at the power house and stables there is no telling how great would have been the loss from fire.

Struck at Willow Dale

The storm was very severe at Willow Dale. It struck Mr. John Bowers' house and also the chip house near the lake. Mr. Bowers is connected with Theatre Vorons, this city, and Mrs. Bowers was alone when the lightning struck. It came in over the barns and broke the shade on the lamp over the dining room table. Mrs. Bowers was sitting at the table and a spark from the light set fire to a napkin at her elbow. The fiery messenger went its way leaving Mrs. Bowers in darkness. She felt the shock and was somewhat frightened, but thankful that it was not worse.

In the chip house near the lake two men were engaged in making potato chips. The transoms there were blown to pieces. One of the men was thrown against the wall and the other, who had a large pan in his hands, received a shock, that he will not forget for some time to come. Neither of the men were seriously hurt.

different cities throughout the United States where it was thought he would operate.

A couple of weeks ago word was received here that a man supposed to be Capasso had been arrested on suspicion in Chicago. Supt. Welch immediately phoned the head of the detective bureau of the "Windy City" to hold the man under heavy bonds until extradition papers could be made out.

The man was held under $2500 bonds which he could not furnish and Supt. Welch and Inspector Byrne were able to get him.

The story of his arrest and the different attempts to escape justice are interesting to say the least.

Capasso, who was known in this city as Frank Kelly of New York, was arrested in Chicago two weeks ago as a suspicious person. In that city the suspicious persons are placed on a platform and viewed by the criminal inspectors or detectives, the faces of the latter being masked in order that the men cannot identify them. Two inspectors, William Bush and Inspector Murphy, identified one of the men who had given his name as "James Murray" as Ernest Capasso, and notified Capt. S. B. Wood, the head of the criminal bureau.

Capt. Wood in turn notified Supt. Welch of this city and the former was told to hold the suspect under heavy bonds in order to prevent him getting away.

In the meantime the district attorney's office proceeded to secure extradition papers. The district attorney notified Inspector Byrne to go to Chicago to place Capasso under arrest as a fugitive from justice and asked Supt. Welch to accompany him in order to identify the man.

Prior to the start of the Massachusetts officials habeas corpus proceedings were instituted in behalf of the defendant by Lawyers Cantwell and Geetin, two of the best criminal lawyers in the west.

Supt. Welch left Boston at 8.10 o'clock one week ago yesterday in order to be present when the case was called on Thursday. Inspector Byrne armed with extradition papers from the governor started Wednesday and arrived in Chicago on Friday. The papers had to be delivered to Gov. Dineen in Springfield, 180 miles away, and Inspector Byrne upon reaching Chicago left the business with Supt. Welch.

Supt. Welch by clever work stayed the proceedings of the case of Capasso when it was called on Thursday and the matter continued until Saturday in order that the Inspector Byrne might return with the certified papers.

Saturday afternoon was the time designated for the hearing on the habeas corpus proceedings but Judge Maurice Kavanaugh adjourned court until Monday afternoon. When the time came for the calling of the case it was found that Judge Kavanaugh had two murderers on trial, but he decided to take into consideration the extradition of Capasso and a combined hearing was held and the court held that Supt. Welch and Inspector Byrne were armed with the proper papers and ordered that the prisoner be turned over to the Massachusetts men.

The officers, with their prisoner, left Chicago, on the Twentieth Century Limited at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and arrived in Boston at 11.45 o'clock this morning. Inspector Byrne took the prisoner to the Cambridge while Supt. Welch returned to this city.

Capasso will be tried at the December sitting of the court.

COLONEL AMES' RECORD

Subject of Forceful Speech by Col. Carmichael

Under Ames All West Point and Annapolis Appointments go to Relatives—Congressman Ames' Record on Labor Measures in Legislature

The growing enthusiasm over the candidacy of Col. James H. Carmichael for congress is now manifest on every side and hopes are held out to this democracy the like of which have not been apparent since the days of the late Moses T. Stevens.

With the assurances of support from the republican workman who has finally seen the light relative to the high cost of living, brought about unobtainably by republican congressmen, coupled with the support of the lodge republicans who believe that the defeat of Butler Ames for congress means his defeat next year for senator, there can be absolutely no question of Col. Carmichael's success at the polls if a united democratic party stands behind him.

An enthusiastic rally was held by Col. Carmichael in Odd Fellows hall last evening and despite the inclement weather there was a large attendance, comprising both republicans and democrats.

Again this noon Col. Carmichael addressed a large and mixed gathering at the entrance to the American Hotel and Leather company's plant in Perry street and the large number of republicans in attendance at the three rallies thus far held by the democratic candidate indicates a disposition on the part of the erstwhile republican workman to change his vote in the interest of his own conditions.

As Col. Carmichael truly said, while talking informally with a small group of men after the regular rally: "The manufacturers have a huge Chinese wall of protection erected around them while the poor workman has no protection at all from the horde of semi-barbarous people who are coming here daily to crowd him from his position in the manufacturing plants of the state."

At the noon day rally today Col. Carmichael spoke on the Payne-Adams tariff and the present high cost of living, quoting extensively to show the comparative cost of living of today and a few years ago and then assigning the cause for the increase.

At Centralville last evening Colonel Carmichael among other things referred to the public record of Congressman Ames and spoke in part as follows:

Congressman Ames' Record

The record of my republican opponent in the Massachusetts legislature as well as in congress shows conclusively that he is out of sympathy with the common people and with the struggle of the common people to better their conditions. In 1898 in the Mass. legislature he voted against consideration of the rejection of a bill to constitute eight hours a day's work for city employees. He voted against a bill to equalize tax burdens; he voted against a bill providing for the taxation of personal property held by foreign trustees; he voted against a bill relative to requiring complete returns from foreign corporations; he voted against the inheritance tax bill; he voted against the bill to provide trains at certain hours for working men; he voted against a bill relative to railroads paying the cost of abolishing grade crossings; he voted against the employers' liability bill, so-called; he voted against a bill to control the telephone and telegraph charges; he voted against a bill relative to interview by employers. This is known as the peaceful picketing bill; he voted against a bill relative to municipal lighting; he voted against a bill concerning women and miners as it relates to overtime work; for years organized labor had been fighting to have this bill passed, and after hard and stormy history it is now upon the statute books in spite of the opposition of Butler Ames and other republican statesmen who have stood in its way. The tactics adopted to defeat this bill have sent more than one republican statesman to oblivion. This is some of the labor record of Butler Ames, the working men and women of the district desire that their interests be protected in the halls of legislation it ought to be apparent to them at a glance that it is time that the republican congressman from the Fifth Massachusetts be recalled to private life.

He has been in congress now eight years. Can he tell the people of the district of one single law that he has caused to be placed upon the statute books for the betterment of the hard working men of this district? Apart from the distinction he has attained in the social life of the capital can he point to any honor that has come to him except the undesired honor of being the champion absentee from his post of duty in the national house of representatives. Papers of the United States some short time ago informed the men and women of the Fifth Congressional district who struggle and work in order to drag out an existence that their representative in congress was absent from his post of duty more often than any other representative in any part of the United States. He has never dared to contradict this for the roll calls at Washington would furnish conclusive proof of the truth of the charge.

The government maintains two great academies, a military academy at West Point and a naval academy at Annapolis. COURT ADJOURNS

The superior court was again forced to adjourn prematurely as the result of the unexpected happening.

The case of Blake vs. Rogers which came up from the land court was soon finished and goes back whence it came.

The next case called was a paternity case and as it was about to go to trial counsel for the defendant stated that the jury might bring in a verdict for the plaintiff.

A second paternity case was then tried and went to the jury early this afternoon. As it was expected that these three cases would take up the entire day no other case was ready and court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The next case in order is that of Fallon vs. Walsh, Messrs. Howard and Hennessy for the plaintiff and Dunbar and Rogers for the defendant.

Explosion on Board the Haitien Gunboat Liberte

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 26.—The Haitien gunboat Liberte has been lost at sea off Port De Paix, following an explosion on board. It is estimated that 70 persons were either killed or drowned. Twenty others were rescued.

News of the accident was received here today. The Liberte sailed from this port on Monday last, having on board 80 persons.

So far as known only 20 of these escaped. Among the seventy who were lost were ten Haitien generals who were on their way to take command of several divisions of troops in the department of the north.

Details are lacking, the only definite information being as to the loss of life and the fact that an explosion occurred.

COLONEL AMES' RECORD

Subject of Forceful Speech by Col. Carmichael

Under Ames All West Point and Annapolis Appointments go to Relatives—Congressman Ames' Record on Labor Measures in Legislature

The growing enthusiasm over the candidacy of Col. James H. Carmichael for congress is now manifest on every side and hopes are held out to this democracy the like of which have not been apparent since the days of the late Moses T. Stevens.

With the assurances of support from the republican workman who has finally seen the light relative to the high cost of living, brought about unobtainably by republican congressmen, coupled with the support of the lodge republicans who believe that the defeat of Butler Ames for congress means his defeat next year for senator, there can be absolutely no question of Col. Carmichael's success at the polls if a united democratic party stands behind him.

An enthusiastic rally was held by Col. Carmichael in Odd Fellows hall last evening and despite the inclement weather there was a large attendance, comprising both republicans and democrats.

Again this noon Col. Carmichael addressed a large and mixed gathering at the entrance to the American Hotel and Leather company's plant in Perry street and the large number of republicans in attendance at the three rallies thus far held by the democratic candidate indicates a disposition on the part of the erstwhile republican workman to change his vote in the interest of his own conditions.

As Col. Carmichael truly said, while talking informally with a small group of men after the regular rally: "The manufacturers have a huge Chinese wall of protection erected around them while the poor workman has no protection at all from the horde of semi-barbarous people who are coming here daily to crowd him from his position in the manufacturing plants of the state."

At the noon day rally today Col. Carmichael spoke on the Payne-Adams tariff and the present high cost of living, quoting extensively to show the comparative cost of living of today and a few years ago and then assigning the cause for the increase.

At Centralville last evening Colonel Carmichael among other things referred to the public record of Congressman Ames and spoke in part as follows:

Congressman Ames' Record

The record of my republican opponent in the Massachusetts legislature as well as in congress shows conclusively that he is out of sympathy with the common people and with the struggle of the common people to better their conditions. In 1898 in the Mass. legislature he voted against consideration of the rejection of a bill to constitute eight hours a day's work for city employees. He voted against a bill to equalize tax burdens; he voted against a bill providing for the taxation of personal property held by foreign trustees; he voted against a bill relative to requiring complete returns from foreign corporations; he voted against the inheritance tax bill; he voted against the bill to provide trains at certain hours for working men; he voted against a bill relative to railroads paying the cost of abolishing grade crossings; he voted against the employers' liability bill, so-called; he voted against a bill to control the telephone and telegraph charges; he voted against a bill relative to interview by employers. This is known as the peaceful picketing bill; he voted against a bill relative to municipal lighting; he voted against a bill concerning women and miners as it relates to overtime work; for years organized labor had been fighting to have this bill passed, and after hard and stormy history it is now upon the statute books in spite of the opposition of Butler Ames and other republican statesmen who have stood in its way. The tactics adopted to defeat this bill have sent more than one republican statesman to oblivion. This is some of the labor record of Butler Ames, the working men and women of the district desire that their interests be protected in the halls of legislation it ought to be apparent to them at a glance that it is time that the republican congressman from the Fifth Massachusetts be recalled to private life.

He has been in congress now eight years. Can he tell the people of the district of one single law that he has caused to be placed upon the statute books for the betterment of the hard working men of this district? Apart from the distinction he has attained in the social life of the capital can he point to any honor that has come to him except the undesired honor of being the champion absentee from his post of duty in the national house of representatives. Papers of the United States some short time ago informed the men and women of the Fifth Congressional district who struggle and work in order to drag out an existence that their representative in congress was absent from his post of duty more often than any other representative in any part of the United States. He has never dared to contradict this for the roll calls at Washington would furnish conclusive proof of the truth of the charge.

The government maintains two great academies, a military academy at West Point and a naval academy at Annapolis. The congressmen from all districts are permitted to send young men to these great academies to be educated at the expense of the government. I say that the poor boys of this district are entitled to an opportunity to compete for the privilege of attending these institutions. # 6 O'CLOCK NEAR DESTRUCTION

Steamer Was Caught in Path of a Hurricane

Several of the Crew Down With Malaria—A Thrilling Story of Escape Told by Officers and the Crew

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—A thrilling tale of escape from destruction and death was told by the officers and crew of the Riplingham, a British freight steamer, which arrived late yesterday afternoon, four days late, from Mexico.

The vessel bore marks of her encounter with the West India hurricane and many of her crew were down with malaria fever. The Riplingham caught the full force of the cyclonic storm that devastated shipping in West India waters, and for three days she was practically at the mercy of wind and wave, driven hither and thither and beyond the control of the navigating officers.

The harrowing experience of the men was reflected in their care-worn faces, yet they were all anxious to give credit to others of the officers and men for splendid heroism in bringing the steamer through the ordeal.

Braved Death

Several of the stokers were so ill with fever they could hardly stand, but they staggered to their posts and fought to save the vessel when their services were most needed.

Chief Engineer Dumble, donkeyman Joseph Thompson and fireman John Robert Stafford braved death in the storm hole when the ship was battered by the seas. They stood waist-deep in the water, keeping the fires going, while both the donkeyman and fireman were so ill with fever that they ached in every limb.

The oldest man on board the freighter said it was the worst storm he had ever seen in many years' experience. The hurricane hit the vessel 12 hours after she left Progresso and there was no letup until the afternoon of the 11th. The barometer fell to 27.40 inches, the lowest reading the officers of the ship had ever known.

The seas lifted the engine room at one time and threatened to extinguish all the fires. It was at this juncture that Engineer Dumble, with Thompson and Stafford, faced death. Second Engineer Hindmarsh, who was also ill with fever, and third Engineer Finkle assisted the chief engineer. The men worked in water up to their waists and they were constantly drenched by the sea.

Capt. John W. Thompson, the commander of the steamer, was nearly lost overboard. A monster sea broke on board and the captain was being swept away in the flood when Philip Cleghorn, a colored seaman, caught him and saved him from certain death.

The Riplingham sailed from Progresso, Mex., Oct. 15, after loading about 6000 bales of sisal fibre for this city.

Hurricane signals were flying when the steamer sailed out of port, but there was no definite knowledge of its position and as the weather was fine Capt. Thompson decided to proceed.

Feared She'd Turn Turtle

The Riplingham had been out only a few hours when it began to blow hard and the wind increased with great rapidity from northwest. At midnight Friday, the day after sailing, the wind had grown to a force gale, and at 4 Saturday morning it was blowing with all the fury of a hurricane. The barometer was dropping steadily and every precaution was taken to weather the tempest.

All day Saturday the storm kept increasing in fury and at midnight the glass was down to 27.70. Two hours later it had dropped to 27.40, the lowest point that Capt. Thompson or any one on board had ever known.

The vessel was in the Gulf of Mexico, but her exact position was unknown to any of those on board. She was flying light, because of the nature of her cargo, and her officers were powerless to control her movements. The best that could be done was to keep her head to the seas, but it was impossible at all times to prevent her falling off into the trough of the mountainous waves, and she pitched and rolled until it seemed to those on board that she would turn turtle. All the while the vessel was driven before the hurricane. The decks were a dry place below. The lower berths were extinguished and it was difficult to keep enough of the furnaces going to make steam, on account of the increasing seas.

All day Sunday the steamer was in the grasp of the storm. Monday the wind shifted to northeast and continued to blow with equal fury from that direction. Tons of water were hurled over the bow, causing the craft to stagger and lurch heavily. One comber tore away the companion ladder on the starboard side. Another wall of green water curled itself over the freighter and thundered down on the starboard lifeboats to splinters. The main hatch was crushed in and some steel girders were bent. A five-ton boom was wrenched from its fastenings and slatted back and forth, bowling over ventilators, smashing deck fittings and threatening the lives of any one who ventured on deck.

Had Given Up Hope

It seemed as if the vessel would be unable to withstand the onslaught, and some of the men suffering from fever said they would have almost welcomed death as they had given up all hope.

On the night of Oct. 17, the barometer began to abate. The force of the wind died out gradually but for days the tremendous sea continued and the vessel was severely buffeted. One of the officers said that if the Riplingham had been deeply laden she would undoubtedly have foundered.

Chief Officer Ward said he never in all his seafaring career went through such an experience, and this was the sentiment expressed by nearly every officer on board.

The cabin and officers' quarters were flooded and there was hardly a dry place of clothing on board.

Steamship interests have been anxiously awaiting the arrival of the Riplingham, as it was known that she must have encountered the full force of the hurricane. Some fears had been expressed regarding the safety of the vessel, so that her arrival, although she is badly battered, was a source of relief to all concerned.

Officers on the steamer declared last night that there was no doubt that many vessels were overwhelmed by the storm.

The officers and crew of the Riplingham were completely worn out. It is probable that some of the sick men will go to the hospital for treatment.

One of the narrowest escapes was that made by a pig, the ship's mascot, that had a little house of his own on the afterdeck. The house was carried away by the seas, but the pig was rescued.

AMERICAN BOXERS TO MAKE AN INVASION OF ENGLAND

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 25.—H. O. Messier of this city has been chosen as representative of Hugh McIntosh to arrange for a party of American fighters to invade England this winter. The following offers have been given to various pugilists for these fights:

Kaufman is offered $15,000 for five fights, or thirty per cent. of the receipts; Packey McFarland is offered $5,000 for two fights or a thirty per cent. share; Klaus of Pittsburgh is offered $5,000 for three fights or 25 per cent. of the receipts, and Ad Wolgast is offered $5,000 for each contest with the option of a thirty per cent. share in the receipts.

TARIFF SUSPENDED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—An order was issued by the inter-state commerce commission today suspending the tariffs on staves, headings and lumber recently filed with the commission by the transcontinental freight bureau agent. The proposed rates are considerable advances over the present rate from all eastern points of origin to destinations west as far as Pacific coast terminals. The tariffs were to have become effective on Nov. 15, 1910, and are suspended until March 15, 1911. Meantime the commission will conduct an inquiry into the reasonableness of the proposed advances and announce its decision.

The defendants in the proceeding include all of the important inter-state carriers in the United States—over six hundred in number.

GIFT OF $100,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The National Lumber association will give $100,000 to the Yale university forest school. Announcement of the gift was made by the board of governors last night. The fund was raised by subscription, the total $100,000 being obtained just prior to the announcement.

CHICAGO MOTHER Feared Her Child Would be Taken

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Fear that her daughter would be kidnapped caused Mrs. Eva L. Bulfinch to pay tribute demanded in a series of letters, which is charged, were written by a woman of her own household. H. J. Downer, who was arrested yesterday before U. S. Commissioner Mark A. Foote on a charge of writing threatening letters.

Downer had been a trusted roomer at Mrs. Bulfinch's home. Two months ago he was married and brought his wife to live in the house. Shortly afterward Mrs. Bulfinch, who had just inherited $1000 from her father, received a letter signed "Black Hand" and demanding $150.

Downer, she says, was greatly interested and advised her to regard all stipulations and pay the money. Five days later she received another demand, which Downer, she declares, advised her to pay. The letters were repeated until she had paid $275. Then she consulted postal inspectors and Downer was arrested. He was held for the grand jury in $5000 bonds.

FOUR PLAGUE CASES

CARACAS, Ven., Oct. 25.—The government announced today that there were four new cases of plague in Caracas, but that elsewhere throughout the republic the situation was satisfactory. Sanitary precautions have been taken. The theaters are closed and public gatherings for the present forbidden. All persons leaving Caracas must submit first to inoculation.

SINGERS ARRIVE POLICE OFFICER COL. ROOSEVELT NORMAL SCHOOL DEFENDANT WINS

Mary Garden Said to be Married

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—"Is Mary Garden married?" That question was asked by every one on the dock when the Kaiser Wilhelm II arrived last night with a boatload of singers and musicians. The reason for the question was obvious—Miss Garden was wearing a plain band of gold on the proper finger.

Miss Garden would answer no direct question herself, but she was heard to remark while some newspaper photographers were taking her picture as she stood posed on top of a trunk:

"What a position for a married woman!"

"I am wearing a wedding ring," she said. "But I can't talk about the man now. You must wait until he comes over to carry me away to his mountain fastnesses, and then you must corner him and ask him how it was done."

Once during the conversation she asserted that she had married a poor man.

"Oh, indeed, yes," she replied. "I never would marry a rich man."

There were rumors of a Magyar nobleman, who was immensely wealthy, but these she would not confirm. She was met at the boat by any number of friends, including her father, in whose arms she remained for at least a full minute, while she kissed him with great fervor. Afterward she held him at arm's length and exclaimed:

"Isn't he handsome, my father?"

Andreas Dippel's agent had arranged for her to take a train today for Chicago, where she is to sing this season, but she soon upset this plan.

"It's been a beastly voyage, and I've had nothing to eat but eggs and nothing to drink but ginger ale," she said. "I'm all tired out, and I can't go before Friday. I must have some rest."

Miss Garden was wearing a long velvet coat trimmed with sable and a white hat with a black aigrette. Under the coat she wore a purple velvet suit and many diamonds. Her hair is a perceptibly lighter shade. She also carried a monocle, which she used now and then. She was accompanied on the voyage by her sister Agnes. Her new parts this year will be the little role of "The Girl of the Golden West," which she will create in Chicago, and Carmen.

After ten weeks in Chicago, she will sing in Philadelphia, and in New York at the Metropolitan Opera House every Tuesday night.

There were three tenors for the Chicago company on the boat—Charles Dalmores, John McCormack and Nicola Zerola. Mr. Dalmores will sing the leading tenor parts in "The Girl of the Golden West" in Chicago. Mr. McCormack said he hoped to sing the leading tenor parts in Victor Herbert's "Natoma." Gustav Mahler, the conductor of the New York Philharmonic society, arrived with Mrs. Mahler and their little girl. Mahler said he did not know whether his new symphony could be done in New York this season or not.

Another Case Reported in This City

A man in New Paris, Indiana, and who evidently expects to meet Mayor Meehan in heaven, has dedicated a poem to his honor. It was received by the mayor this forenoon and its verses contain strong hopes of eternal salvation for the writer and the mayor. A postscript appended reads, as follows: "Though we are strangers, I hope we are on the way to endless bliss and happiness."

Board of Health

One more case of typhoid fever was reported at the office of the board of health this forenoon. Tomorrow night, as has already been stated, the board will give a hearing to the petitioners opposed to the erection of a beam house by the American Hide and Leather company in land off Perry street. The hour set for the hearing is 7.30.

Public Baths Committee

The city council committee on public baths will take a little outing tomorrow. The committee will go to Boston and other places where there are good public bath systems. They will meet at the depot in time to get the 12.12 p.m. train for Boston.

George Walker, who when arrested gave the name James Allen, belongs in Worcester. He admitted that he was drunk and after being found guilty was sentenced to the state farm. Maurice Lynch and Richard Cusick were also sent to the state farm.

Other Offenders

Patrolman Noonan testified that he found Peter M. Magee in a deplorable condition in a doorway. Magee was fined $5.

Was Not Drunk

"I was not drunk," said John A. Landry when he was called upon to answer to a complaint charging him with that offense. Patrolman Hresault said that he found the defendant staggering drunk in Moody street and placed him under arrest. He said that the man had a sick wife and child at home and did not contribute towards their support. The court decided that inasmuch as the man was earning good wages and promised to keep sober and look after his family in the future, it would be better to place him on probation than send him to jail, and Landry was given a suspended sentence of four months in jail.

Other Offenders

Patrolman Noonan testified that he found Peter M. Magee in a deplorable condition in a doorway. Magee was fined $5.

George Walker, who when arrested gave the name James Allen, belongs in Worcester. He admitted that he was drunk and after being found guilty was sentenced to the state farm. Maurice Lynch and Richard Cusick were also sent to the state farm.

Frank Lavioie, according to Patrolman Noonan, was drunk and insulting women in the vicinity of the Middlesex street station yesterday afternoon. Lavioie denied the allegation, but the court believed the arresting officer and found the defendant guilty, fining him $7.

There were two $2 offenders and several simple drunks were released before the opening of court.

SAYS ONLY ONE NAVAL STATION IS NEEDED IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—That only one naval station is needed in the south was the opinion expressed by Secretary of the Navy Meyer before his departure from New Orleans this morning for Pensacola, Fla.

"There are unquestionably too many navy yards and stations in the south," said Secretary Meyer. "I do not think there is need for more than one. Where that is to be a matter yet to be decided. It is not a question of the prominence of any city or the claims of any city. It is the efficiency of the navy which is to be considered."

Was Rescued by a Woman

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—A woman yesterday came to the rescue of a policeman who had been beaten by several men on the West Side. A crowd stood by and did nothing to help her. She wrestled from one of the men the policeman's club, which the assailants had got away from the officer and with which they had pounded him. As the woman took the policeman's part the assailants feared they might be set on by others and fled. None of the bystanders did a thing to stop them.

Patrolman Edward Collins of the West Forty-seventh street station was on his beat late yesterday afternoon, when a man came up to him and complained that four or five men were going from store to store demanding money for a so-called sick benefit. The stores in the district are all small places, and their owners were practically queered in handing out money to satisfy the men.

Collins got a description of the collectors and went on his way. Five or six minutes afterward he saw a group of men answering the description, standing in front of 533 West Fifty-second street. He tried to arrest two of them. As he turned away with his prisoners one of the other drew a club and struck Collins from behind.

The patrolman fell to the ground but managed to regain his feet. Drawing his club he made for his assailant. The other men closed in and he had to fight four or five at once.

A crowd gathered from all the tenement houses, but they merely stood and watched while the patrolman was knocked down and beaten with his own club.

The men kicked him all over the body, cut his lip open, struck him with their clubs in the eye and over the head.

Kate Barth, who, it is said, is employed by the board of health in Brooklyn, attracted by the crowd, broke through. As she saw the almost unconscious policeman on the ground she sprang at the man who had hit him. She seized it and before the man could recover from his surprise Miss Barth twisted it from his grasp.

He swung back, but Miss Barth went after him, wielding the club over his head with all her force.

By this time the roughs thought that the alarm would be given and they made their way through the people, separated, and disappeared. No one tried to stop them and the police said last night they found that the people of the neighborhood were unwilling to give them any information about what the officer's assailants were or about what had happened. Detectives were sent all through the district in an effort to get clues.

Collins was unable to rise and was picked up and taken to an empty street. Police headquarters were notified. Upon the arrival of the ambulance Collins was taken to the Flower hospital. He will recover.

IN POLICE COURT

Several Offenders Sent to the State Farm

Michael Prock was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of a cap and badge belonging to Andrew Ontewick. The complainant conducts a window cleaning company and when he engages a man he gives him a cap with a badge on it, the cap and badge to be returned at the end of each working day.

According to the testimony offered, Prock worked one week and failed to return the cap and badge. When questioned as to why he did not return the property of the complainant he said that he worked from early in the morning till late at night cleaning windows, and brass and scrubbing floors, and received but $5 a week and kept the cap and badge because he thought he should have received more. The court after considering the evidence found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $5.

Was Not Drunk

"I was not drunk," said John A. Landry when he was called upon to answer to a complaint charging him with that offense. Patrolman Hresault said that he found the defendant staggering drunk in Moody street and placed him under arrest. He said that the man had a sick wife and child at home and did not contribute towards their support. The court decided that inasmuch as the man was earning good wages and promised to keep sober and look after his family in the future, it would be better to place him on probation than send him to jail, and Landry was given a suspended sentence of four months in jail.

Takes a Hand in Michi- gan Campaign

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 25.—Theodore Roosevelt's influence was thrown into the political campaign in Michigan today through the publication by the republican state committee of a telegram from the former president to former Gov. Guild of Massachusetts, who made several addresses in Michigan last week.

Roosevelt's telegram says he understands that in Michigan the progressives won a clear-cut victory and he endorses the candidacy of Chase S. Osborn for governor and Charles E. Townsend for United States senator. Mr. Osborn is characterized in the telegram as a progressive and a singularly able and honest man, and Mr. Townsend as having done excellent work for railroad rate legislation when he became joint author with Mr. Esch of the first railroad rate bill while Mr. Roosevelt was president.

"Mr. Osborn," says the telegram, "is a man like Stimson of New York, who will clean house from wall to wall, driving every wrongdoer from office."

Col. Roosevelt expresses regret that he is unable to take part in the Michigan campaign for the entire republican ticket.

Dorchester Man Ended His Life

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Discouraged because he believed a man he had befriended had taken his position away from him, John Anderson, aged 38, single, who boarded at 14 Everett street, Dorchester, hung himself in his room some time Sunday, and his body was discovered yesterday afternoon.

Anderson had been employed steadily at Commercial wharf for 12 years and had been noted as a steady worker. Saturday noon he came to his home and, explaining that he had lost his job through a supposed friend's interference, went to his room. Anderson was not seen alive again.

Sunday the housekeeper of the lodging house, which was formerly the Freeman family home, knocked at the door but receiving no response, did not enter. Monday she tried the door, but as something was against it she went away, thinking that Mr. Anderson was sleeping.

Yesterday afternoon she again went to the room, which is on the front of the house, and pushed the door open enough to look at what was against it. She saw Anderson's body swinging from the door jamb, his feet barely touching the floor.

She rushed from the house, telephoned for the police, and summoned Dr. Charles Meigs. He arrived with the police, only to find that the man had been dead some time. Patrolman James Curtis cut the body down. Medical Examiner Leary pronounced death due to suicide.

DEATHS

KANE—John J. Kane, aged six months, child of John and Bridget Kane, died this morning at his home, 45 Canada street. John F. Rogers & Co., undertakers.

JOHNSON—Peter W. Johnson died yesterday at the Lowell General hospital, aged 42 years, following a long illness. He is survived by a son, Chas. W. Johnson. The body was taken to his home, 29 Marshall street.

MONETTE—Francis Monette, aged 69 years, 7 months, died yesterday morning at his home, 178 Alken avenue. He leaves a wife and nine children: Mrs. Joseph Gaudin, of the west; Mrs. Dexter Nutting, of Oakdale, Mass.; Joseph Monette, of Salem, Mass.; Frank Monette, of Hamilton, Ont.; Amanda, Hector, Louis, Charles and Laurence Monette, all of Lowell; also a sister, Mrs. Amanda Rondeau of Lowell.

FUNERALS

BEKON—The funeral of Mary Bekon took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the home of her parents, John and Victoria Bekon, 3 rear of 72 South street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's cemetery, where the burial took place in the family lot under the direction of Undertaker John A. Finnegan.

FUNERAL NOTICES

WHELTON—The funeral of the late Mrs. Mary J. Whelton will take place Thursday morning at 8 o'clock from her home, 1388 Mammoth road, Collingville. At 9 o'clock a requiem mass will be sung at St. Mary's church, Collingville. Undertakers: J. P. O'Donnell & Sons in charge.

O'NEIL—The funeral of the late Edward O'Neil will take place tomorrow morning at 8.30 o'clock from his home, 22 Whipple street. A mass of requiem will be sung at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Friends are requested not to send flowers. J. F. Rogers & Co., undertakers.

ROBINSON—George Robinson died Oct. 25th at his home, 64 Blossom street, aged 63 years, 7 months and 9 days. Funeral services will be held from his residence, 64 Blossom street, Friday afternoon at 2.30 p.m. Friends invited. Burial private. Funeral in charge of J. A. Weinbeck.

AVIATOR KILLED

WHILE TRYING TO MAKE DE- SCENT NEAR PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 25.—M. Blanchard, the aviator, fell from the height of 100 feet and was instantly killed today. The accident occurred on the field of Issy les Moulins where Blanchard was attempting to descend after a successful flight from Bourges.

BILL PAPKE WON

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Oct. 25.—Bill Papke today knocked out Williams, champion of Victoria, in the sixth round.

TORCHBEARER WON

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 25.—The apprentices' play of 107 sovereigns, for three years and was run here today and won by Charles Carroll's "Torchbearer." Scarlet Runner was second and Pains Till, third. Ten horses ran.

Visited by New Hamp- shire Educators

The superintendent of the super-visory district of Derry, N. H., and the teachers of one of the graded schools paid a visit to Lowell today. They spent the forenoon at the Bartlett school which is the model school for the Normal school and at noon they took lunch at the Normal school. The party included Prof. A. W. Reynolds, Principal George W. Robie, Miss Margaret Hodson, Miss Marian Ida Morse, Miss Clara Lucy Hunt, Miss Marion H. Blood and Miss Florence Proctor.

Talked to Mill People at Noon

Four of the visiting suffragists, the Misses Carpenter, Withington, Foley and Lascombe, held a noon meeting at the gates of the Massachusetts mills today. While the operatives did not stop to listen to any speech making, the plucky suffragists succeeded in distributing a goodly supply of literature. The women were treated with respect on all sides and some of the men were heard to say that they wished they had time to stop and hear what was being said, but the mill noon hour is a short one and the inner man must be attended to.

Addressed Labor Unions

Two of the visiting suffragists, Miss Annie Withington and Miss Margaret Foley, addressed several of the local labor unions last night including the street railway men and the building laborers. The speakers were given hearty receptions wherever they went, and they pleaded eloquently for the right of women to vote.

MATRIMONIAL

A charming October wedding of more than ordinary interest to Lowell people was solemnized yesterday at the parochial residence of St. Charles' church in Woburn, when Miss Mossie Morris, the talented daughter of Mr. Richard Morris, a retired business man of that city, was united in marriage to Mr. Everett Cummings of Woburn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James J. Keegan, pastor of St. Charles' church. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Tillie McKee of Lowell, while the groomsmen were Mr. Aldine Cummings and Mr. Charles Cummings. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the home of the bride, 14 Plympton street, where a reception to immediate relatives and friends was held. The house was tastefully decorated with autumn foliage, plants and ferns, and the young couple were shown over with congratulations and good wishes. Guests were present from Lynn, Cambridge and Lowell. Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Cummings left on an extended trip for parts unknown, and will be at home Dec. 1 at their new home, 35 Cambridge street, Woburn. Mrs. Cummings is a well known young lady, prominent in Catholic circles in her home city, and has many friends in this city. The groom is a prosperous young business man in Woburn and also well known here.

CROKER'S DAUGHTER

ANNOUNCES SHE WILL JOIN HER HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—John J. Breen, who last spring eloped with Miss Ethel Croker, daughter of Richard Croker, and who since has been separated from her husband, has accepted the position of head groom for Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P., of Canada, and will reside at Petersburg, Ont. Breen announces that his wife, who is now in Paris, with her mother, will return to New York in a month and will then go to Canada to live with him.

BALL PLAYER WEDS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 25.—Edward Hearne of Ventura, Cal., whose name appears on the roster of the Boston Americans as a shortstop, and Miss Marie Williams of Ventura, who married here yesterday, Hearne will try to secure his release from Boston as he wishes to sign with a coast team for next season.

DROPPED DEAD

MAN PASSED AWAY AT A DANC- ING PARTY

ARLINGTON, Oct. 25.—Frank Nicolai, 62 years old, of 30 Forest street, dropped dead at the dancing party of the James Ray Cole lodge, Knights of Pythias, in the Arlington auditorium last night.

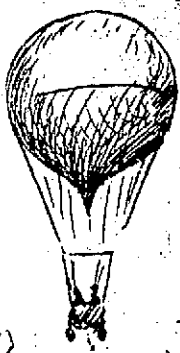

Mr. Nicolai was on the floor dancing when he was stricken by a sudden illness and fell. For a moment or two there was great confusion in the hall, but the crowd was soon calmed and a doctor was called. The physician worked unavailingly to revive Mr. Nicolai, who may have died of apoplexy, but the doctor was unable to determine the cause of death last night.

80th BIRTHDAY

Observed by John A. Baker of
Gates Street

John A. Baker observed the 80th anniversary of his birth yesterday at his home, 53 Gates street. There was no formal observance, although during the day many of his relatives and friends called in order to congratulate him and wish him many returns of the day.

When young he worked in the print works of the A. & W. Sprague mills and in 1848 came to Lowell. He went to work in the Lowell Machine shop and remained there about two and one half years and then went to Lawrence. He later started for the gold fields of California.

He afterwards went to Wisconsin, but later came back east and located at Biddeford, Me., and worked in that place until the outbreak of the Civil war, when he enlisted in the 6th Massachusetts battery with a commission as sergeant. During the battle of Baton Rouge, Sergt. Baker was severely wounded and had three bullet holes in his clothing. He was later promoted to lieutenant in recognition for his work on the battlefield.

After another visit to the west, Mr. Baker and his family located in Lowell in 1870, and remained here practically since that time. He worked in the Lowell Machine shop for several years and then ill-health caused him to take work on the outside. He remained actively engaged until a few years ago.

Mr. Baker ascribes his comparatively good health in advanced years to right living and a naturally rugged constitution. Mr. Baker's wife, two years his junior, is in good physical condition. His three children living are Ella M. Baker, and Frederick A. and Frank E. Baker, all of Lowell.

POLICE BOARD

DISPOSED OF GRIST OF MINOR
LICENSES

The board of police met in regular session last night and considerable routine business was transacted. Licenses granted: Hawker and peddler—Hedwig Decelle, 3 Montcalm avenue. Common victualer—Mrs. Mary E. Anderson, 544 Middlesex street; Laura Hachey, 144 Market street. Job wagon—Moses Toller, 195 Perkins street. Express—A. B. Humphrey Co., by A. B. Humphrey, 587 Gorham street, two licenses. Auctioneer—Charles G. Vian, 134 Ennet street. To sell ice cream, confectionery, soda water and fruit on the Lord's Day—Marietta Lee, 183 Smith street. Shooting gallery, J. A. Leighton & Co., 343 Middlesex street.

Transfer of a license to conduct an amusement parlor, Mrs. J. G. Desjardines, from 277 Allen street to 343 Middlesex street.

License cancelled: Common victualer, Mrs. Charles E. Dow, 544 Middlesex street.

BOWLING SCORES

Local Mill Teams Contest for Honors

There were two games played in the Manufacturers league last night. One of them was a walkover and the other was a fairly close game.

In the game between the Boott and Tremont & Suffolk teams there was nothing to it but the cheering and the Boott admirers did all the cheering. It is a shame to print the score.

In the other game the Bigelow quintet put up a very good fight with their opponents, the Massachusetts team, but the latter team won two of the three points.

The scores:

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea, and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

MADE NEW RECORD

Johnstone Rose to a Height of 7303 Feet

He Ran Into a Snowstorm in the Clouds — Daring Aviator Surpassed Drexel's Record for Altitude—He Had Hoped to Ascend 10,000 Feet

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Ralph Johnstone in a Wright biplane fought his way through a snowstorm to a height of 7303 feet at Belmont park yesterday afternoon, and thus broke the American altitude record of 7105 feet, which Drexel made the previous day.

It was one of the severest tests of nerve, endurance and skill which any aviator in the world has ever passed through, and only a man with the splendid physique of Johnstone could have stood it. He is a wonder.

But he was disappointed, in spite of the fact that he went higher than Drexel, for he started out with the firm intention of going 10,000 feet and breaking the world's record of 8200 feet, which Morane holds. And there is no doubt but he would have done just that thing if it hadn't been for the blinding snowstorm he encountered when he got up near the 7000 foot level.

He fought his way through this storm for nearly 15 minutes, in the hope that he might be able to climb above it, but his goggles became incased in ice and he could not see.

The cold was so intense that his hands were getting numb, in spite of the thick leather gloves he wore, so he was obliged to give up the struggle and come back to earth.

The way he came out of the clouds was a caution. He just shot down until it looked to the spectators as if he were trying to loop the loop, or some other dare-devil thing, which only Johnstone and Brookins ever dream of doing in an aeroplane. He alighted like a feather, however, and grinned like a kid when he had wiped his goggles.

Johnstone said it was one of the toughest experiences he had ever had in the air. He did not know that he had broken Drexel's record until the machine was wheeled into the hangar and Wilbur Wright took off the barograph which had the automatic record by air pressure.

Wilbur Wright is a rather unemotional individual, but when he read the barograph he threw his derby hat into the air and almost danced about like a boy for a few minutes. He even congratulated Johnstone, which is a very unusual demonstration for Wilbur.

It looks very much as if the Wright brothers who invented the first flying machine that would really fly seven years ago, saw ahead of them the world at this international aviation tournament that they were not only the first real flyers in the world, but that they have the best flying machine and the best flyers in the world.

Wright New Racer
The Wrights are determined to break the world's altitude record, if such a thing is possible, and, judging from the new racing machine which Orville Wright tried out late this afternoon, they are determined to win the international cup.

That little biplane went around the course for a lap on last yesterday afternoon that nobody could accurately time it. He did the mile and a half in a fraction over a minute.

The best judges seemed to think that Orville attained a speed of 70 miles an hour. If he had chosen to go a second lap or a third lap the speed would have been much greater, but he didn't choose to do it. He was satisfied, and when the Wrights are satisfied the other aviators want to look out.

This is the mysterious machine with which Orville Wright has been experimenting at Dayton for some months. It is placed down even finer than the one Brookins used the previous day, but it seems to be remarkably steady.

There is a new type of motor in this machine—V shaped. The pistons set on the crank shaft from an angle instead of perpendicular, something like the Aztec and the Indian motors.

In proportion, the upper plane sets higher than in the regular Wright biplane. This fact, added to the narrowness of the planes, allows the rush of air from over the lower plane to pass freely through the space between the planes without striking the upper plane.

In this way Orville Wright believes he has solved the speed difficulty that handicapped the biplane when driven at a high rate of speed. The real test of this machine will come in the elimination races. The French aviators were a little more anxious than they had been after seeing Orville Wright make this lap.

But there was another speed record made yesterday which caused all of the aviators to sit up and take notice. It was made by Radley, the young English aviator, in his Bleriot monoplane. He did the 23-mile cross-country flight from Belmont park to Hicksville and return in 10m 48s. That is the time for covering the recorded distance, but it is safe to say that Radley covered 25 miles in that flight, for it was rather dark at the time and he was not familiar with the course.

This is the young man who claims he has driven that same monoplane in England at better than 70 miles an hour. He used a 50-horse power motor and he covered the course in about half the time it took Moisant to do it last Saturday. Moisant used his passenger Bleriot, but it will be remembered that he flew in a rain storm and lost his way.

Moisant Lost His Way
Moisant lost his way again late this afternoon, going over the same course in the same machine and it took him nearly 50 minutes to cover it. He started 23 minutes after Radley, but it grew dark very suddenly after 4, owing to heavy rain clouds that closed around the field and it is doubtful if Radley would have fared as well as he did if he had started as late as Moisant.

However, Moisant fared better than McCurdy and Drexel, who started over the cross country immediately after he did. They didn't come back at all. They were completely lost on the way back and McCurdy landed at Rockville, about 10 miles away and Drexel landed at Litchfield, about 11 miles away, after they had gone out of their course and darkness had closed in on them.

Hundreds of people waited anxiously for them around the field, or for some news of them, until 6 o'clock, when the field was in total darkness. Then word came over the telephones from both the aviators almost at the same time.

These were a few of the things that made the fourth day of the international aviation tournament notable and interesting to the 12,000 or more who were present inside the lines and to the great number who were outside.

Like Great Bird Flying
The wind was about 10 miles an hour when the shot was fired for the first event of the day. Hubert Latham, in his huge Antoinette monoplane, was the first to rise from the ground and fly gracefully over the course and as gracefully into the minds and consciousness of everybody present. This machine is easily the most imposing thing that flies. It is a show in itself, and if it could be seen around Boston 100,000 people would flock to see Latham where 12,000 come to see not only him but all the other great aviators at this meet.

Latham went out for hourly distance during the first hour and he won it, with Grahame-White second. But nobody cares what contest Latham is in. All they want is to see the machine in flight. When coming toward you it doesn't appear to move. It looks like a great bird, with outstretched wings, poised in the air.

When it is passing down over the farther side of the course, however, you can see that it moves like a great Atlantic liner, easily and steadily, but fast—although not so fast with the propeller motor as some of the other machines.

In the second hour Latham went after the altitude with Johnstone and Hoxsey, but when he was up about 2000 feet something happened to his motor and he made a sensational glide to earth in the big machine, landing beyond the big clump of trees opposite the grandstand. He quickly repaired the damage, went aloft again, but did not try for further altitude.

By this time Hoxsey and Johnstone were almost out of sight in the clouded sky and a little later Johnstone disappeared altogether in the snow storm up above, which the comfortable spectators on the ground knew nothing about.

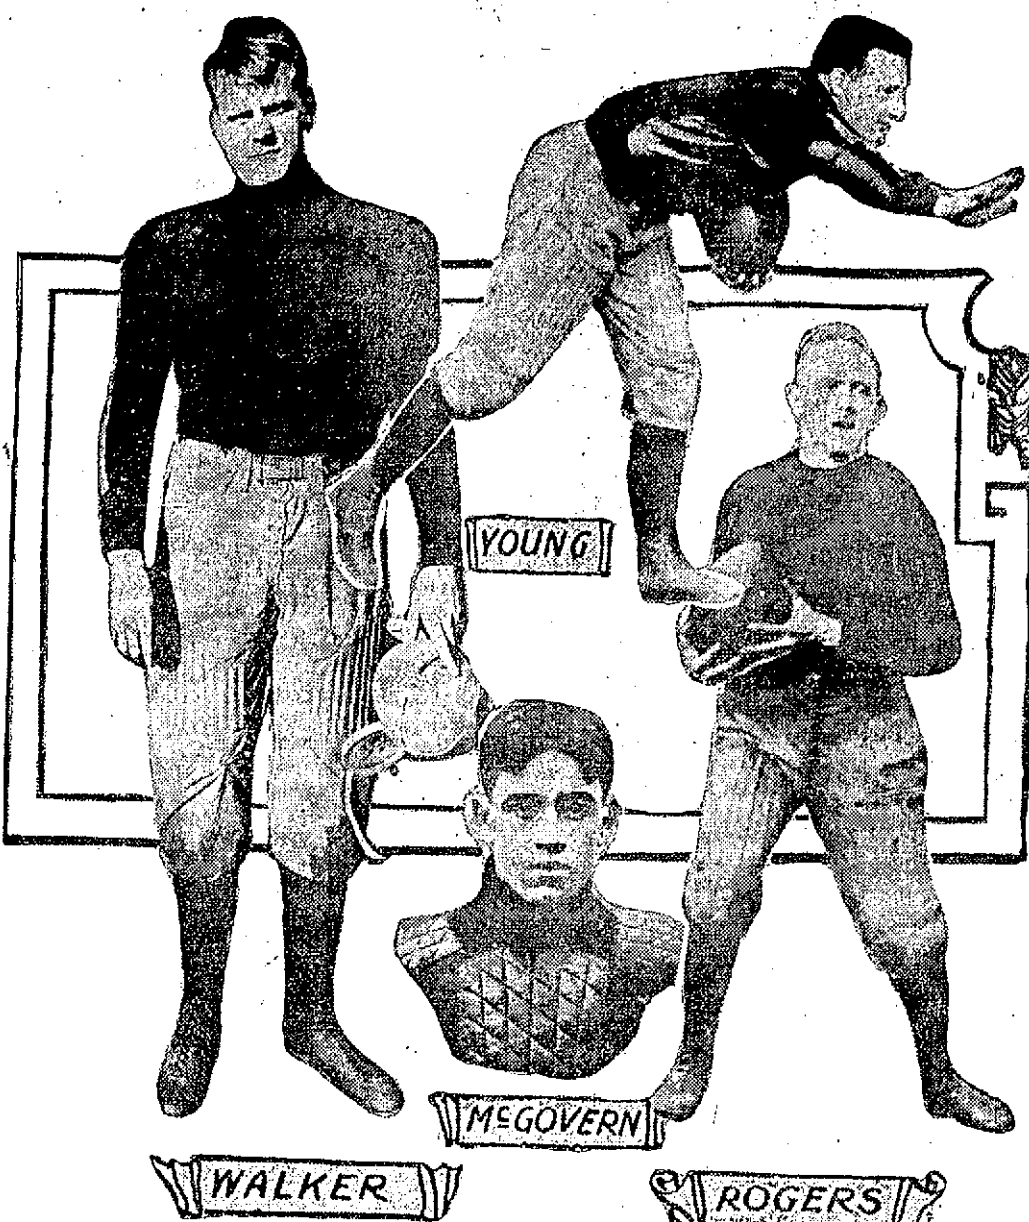

As soon as De Lessens heard that Johnstone was going to try for the world's record in altitude he decided to make a try himself in his small monoplane. He followed Hoxsey and Latham, and soared to a height of 6391 feet, making second altitude for the day. Hoxsey reached a height of 5998 feet.

Latham's Glide to Earth
It was a beautiful sight when the four aviators were in the air trying for altitude, but the most impressive of the four was Latham's Antoinette as it circled and rose higher and higher. Then came the accident to the motor and the glide to earth, which was beautifully manipulated by the great Frenchman.

When the power stops in the Antoinette it means that three-quarters of a ton weight must fall on the earth somehow and the trick is to do it without killing the aviator or wrecking the machine.

Latham did it all right, as he has years of times before. He has smashed more flying machines than any man living, and he never had a serious accident. In fact, he was a sick man when he took up flying more than a year ago. He was given a year to live. Now he looks like an athlete, and he is one of the finest looking men on the field, always smiling and jolly.

In this respect he differs consider-

STARS OF GOPHER AND MAROON ELEVENS TO CLASH ON GRIDIRON IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The next big football game for the western conference title will be played here Oct. 29 between the Minnesota and Chicago elevens. Although the Maroon team is not as strong as it was last year, local experts figure that Chicago will give the Gophers a good tussle. They point to the brilliant playing and runs of Sauer, Cravley and Hume Young against Northwestern Oct. 23, but Coach Stagg is not so optimistic and has been busy flouting on ways and means to hold Minnesota to a low score. The coach says it simply is a question

rely, center; Robinson, right guard; Young, right tackle; Frank, right end; McGovern, quarterback; Rosenwald, left halfback; Stevens, right halfback; Johnston (captain), full back. The history of the games played between the two universities is as follows: 1895—Minnesota, 10; Chicago, 6. 1896-7-8—no game. 1898—Chicago, 29; Minnesota, 6. 1900—Chicago, 6; Minnesota, 6. 1901-2-3-4-5—no game. 1906—Minnesota, 4; Chicago, 3. 1907—Chicago, 18; Minnesota, 12. 1908—Chicago, 29; Minnesota, 0. 1909—Minnesota, 20; Chicago, 6.

ably from LeBlanc, the other most famous English aviator. The latter is a rather thoughtful man, but he certainly can fly and he proved it yesterday when to the surprise of everybody he wheeled out his small Bleriot monoplane and shot around the inner course a half dozen times.

It was a trial spin but he demonstrated that he is a master aviator. He turned corners with ease and the machine moved like a streak through the air.

There was some purpose in this flight of LeBlanc's, for he had received word from the French aviation club in answer to his request that he be permitted to withdraw from the international contest because he did not consider the course a fair one.

The club cabled him that the matter would be left entirely in his hands and his judgment would be acceptable to the club. This throws the whole responsibility on LeBlanc, for if he withdraws the other French aviators say they will also.

What LeBlanc was testing yesterday afternoon was the stretch between the pylons and the grandstand, which is not more than 250 feet wide and which he has condemned. What he decided has not been made known.

Dangerous Stretch
It is certainly a dangerous stretch for several reasons. The rules do not permit a flyer to go over the grandstand, although this grandstand is roofed and so strongly roofed that even if the heaviest machine were to fall on it the roof would not be injured much, but the machine surely would be.

Again, when the wind blows strongly from behind the grandstand it leaves a calm stretch in front of the stand and a sharp current at the end of it.

The stand is more than 100 feet high. If the wind is blowing the other way—straight into the stand—then a machine has mighty little leeway in that 250 foot wide space and its only safety lies in speed. Again this is difficult, for there is a pylon and a sharp turn where the stretch begins.

Clifford E. Harmon gave his biplane a trial spin late in the afternoon and yesterday afternoon, the course in his biplane a half dozen times. He is the champion amateur aviator of the United States and the first amateur to fly over this course.

Capt. Baldwin, the veteran balloonist, got a warm reception when he appeared in his biplane for the first time yesterday afternoon. He went around the course for a trial flight a half dozen times and made good time.

Martin Littleton Makes an Attack on Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A new turn was given to the attack on Col. Roosevelt and his "new nationalism" by Martin W. Littleton, democratic candidate for congress in the Oyster Bay district, in an address last night at Carnegie hall at a mass meeting held under the auspices of the democratic league.

The new nationalism, he said, had its source in the abiding disrespect Mr. Roosevelt had constantly shown toward "our form of republic," which has caused him to show dissatisfaction with the public men of this country as well as its institutions.

Citing criticisms passed upon former presidents by Col. Roosevelt, Mr. Littleton added that apparently another executive, and that one of Mr. Roosevelt's own creation, is probably awaiting his place in "this hall of infamy."

"The (Roosevelt) has not yet completed his symposium of mediocrity," continued Mr. Littleton. "He has not concluded his catalogue of incompetence, but there seems to be another president scheduled to fall under his condemnation. There seems to be another who will find his place with Buchanan, the 'shifty and selfish politician of monumental littleness,' with Van Buren, who 'faithfully served the manion of uprightness,' with Jackson, who was 'ignorant and headstrong,' with Monroe, who was a 'courtious gentleman of no special ability,' with Madison, whose incapacity brought shame and disgrace to America in the War of 1812; with Jefferson, the 'most incapable president that ever filled the president's chair.'"

"And this president who is awaiting, no doubt, his place in this hall of infamy, is one that Mr. Roosevelt himself created. It is a pathetic picture of broken friendship; it is a sad commentary upon the stability of political alliances to see a patient, a just, earnest, plain and rugged judge, who occupies the position of president, almost crowded out of his place and excluded from the prerogatives of his office by a man who continues to rekin wherever and with whomsoever he may be."

"The vast region of Mr. Roosevelt's political economy he has peopled with a law-made race of men and women, who group their very about in the very fog of diffuse and unprepared power. In the wide range of his active mind he never encountered a structure of authority which he would not change, a form of government which he would not alter; a society which he would not transform. In the long reach of his ample and enriched years he has never met with a philosopher whom he would not advise; a teacher whom he would not instruct; a soldier whom he would not command; a king whose sceptre he would not wield; a book which he would not rewrite; a religion which he would not reorganize; a civilization which he would not reconstruct."

GAYNOR FAVORED DIX
NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The statement that if any "boss" dictated the nomination of John A. Dix for governor at the Rochester convention it was Mayor Gaynor, was made last night by Edward M. Shepard in a speech at Carnegie hall.

Speaking of the difficulty in selecting a candidate at the convention, Mr. Shepard said:

"In the very midst of this situation there came a signal message from a man who is most powerful in this community. There came a message from Mayor Gaynor and in this message the mayor gave strong advice that the convention should nominate John A. Dix. If any boss controlled the nomination, the most powerful of all bosses was Boss Gaynor."

After the meeting, Mr. Shepard said the message he cited was brought by James Crehman. The message, he added, was delivered to Mr. Dix among others.

THE DODGE CASE SENATOR SHIVELY

Put Direct to the Grand Jury Is Suffering From a Sore Toe

LANCASTER, N. H., Oct. 26.—Another surprise was in store yesterday for those who have been following the story of the Lunenburg tragedy of Sept. 17 when William A. Heath was found shot through the back at the home of Mrs. J. Marshall Dodge, where he was working.

The justice hearing has been postponed time and again and the last date set was for next Saturday, but yesterday Atty. Gen. Sargent of Ludlow, Vt., appeared before the grand jury at Guildhall, Vt., with witnesses, anticipating the hearing as the law allows and putting his case direct to the jury. By this stroke the defence is denied all knowledge of the evidence held by the state.

All day Mrs. Dodge was in Guildhall, ignorant of what has been going on behind the closed doors, and not even able to consult with her attorneys, Blodgett & Howe, who have been busy in the superior court.

It is learned that only two witnesses were examined yesterday, and it will be several days yet before Mrs. Dodge will know whether she must fight still further for her liberty.

Mr. Howe was in Lancaster last evening, but refused to disclose any evidence held by the defence. He asserts Mrs. Dodge's innocence, and expresses a confidence that the mystery will clear up and free her name at the proper time. He believes his client suffers from an over-estimation of her wealth and the fact that she is under bail, although the latter is perfectly constitutional.

He has not permitted his client to make a single statement since her arrest, and says her hearing is that of any intelligent woman accused of a severe crime.

EDDIE MURPHY

Got the Decision Over Young Nitchie

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Eddie Murphy of South Boston received a decision over Young Nitchie of Philadelphia at the end of 10 rounds at the Armory Athletic association last night. A draw, which proved the star attraction of the evening, was fought by Grover Hayes of Philadelphia and Willie Beecher of New York 10 rounds.

Young Jasper of Boston defeated Eddie Carr of South Boston in six rounds; Al Milliken of Boston defeated Dutch Carr of Charlestown in six rounds, and Kid Egan of Boston defeated Jim Reardon of Brockton, also in six rounds in the preliminaries.

BRUTAL MURDER

Woman's Head Split Open With Axe

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 26.—A brutal murder was disclosed last night in the finding of the body of Mrs. Mary Hook, nee, aged 26. Her throat had been cut and her head almost split open, apparently with an axe. The body was found near the scene of the Anna Lloyd murder of last January.

A WORK OF ART
PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 26.—The will of Winslow Homer, the artist who died at Scarborough this month which was filed for probate yesterday, leaves his estate to his brother, Charles S. Homer of New York. The will, which was made in 1881, is itself a work of art, being beautifully lettered in pen and ink by the artist himself. In his petition for appointment as executor Charles S. Homer certified that the value of the estate is not over $10,000.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 26.—Senator E. F. Shively is confined to his bed with a sore toe. And it's a mighty sore toe at that. Senator Shively had a corn which he tried to remove. He bugled the job, and an infected foot resulted. The doctors fear blood poisoning, and it is planned to amputate the toe October 29. All the speaking dates of the senator have been canceled.

DOUBLE CONVICTION
IN WHITE SLAVE CASES AT PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Oct. 26.—Frank C. Williams and Anna Hull of this city were found guilty of violating the white-slave law enacted by congress on June 26, by a federal jury in the U. S. district court yesterday. Williams was sentenced to two years and six months in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., while Miss Hull will serve a like term in the western penitentiary here.

These are among the first prosecutions under the new law and the trial of the offenders has excited wide interest. Miss Hull, it was brought out in the testimony, was keeper of a resort to which Williams brought his victims from other states.

Rooseveltism as an issue. He told the people that some business men of the state were afraid of it. He said that any fear of him or of Henry L. Stimson, republican candidate for governor, was baseless, and that the alarm had been raised by Wall Street.

Col. Roosevelt replied to John A. Dix, democratic candidate for governor, who said yesterday that the colonel had misrepresented him by saying that he had been connected with the wall paper combine.

The colonel did not make the apology that Mr. Dix demanded. He insisted that Mr. Dix had not shown that he was not connected with the trust which the supreme court declared illegal.

Col. Roosevelt spoke yesterday at several cities and his speech last night was in large part an appeal to business men not to be alarmed at Rooseveltism. He began by reading the circular sent out over the names of Charles F. Murphy and the other members of the Tammany hall campaign committee. It reads:

"Dear Sir:

"The campaign upon which we have just entered is of supreme importance to the people of this city and state. More than any other campaign for years past it will affect the business and financial interests of every person within the borders of the state. The democratic party in this fight stands for tranquility and business peace, and is opposed to the wild theories of Roosevelt, which would unsettle values, disturb business and renew the panic from which the country suffered during his recent incumbency of the presidency.

"To defeat the Roosevelt policies, however, will require, for purely legitimate expenses, a large outlay of money."

"It is a naked appeal to the power of the purse," said Colonel Roosevelt. "A naked appeal to the twin emotions of fear and greed, and a frank admission that only by a large outlay of money will it be possible to beat Mr. Stimson. This appeal from Tammany Hall is in substance precisely the appeal which has been made by the great financiers who desire to obtain or retain improper special privileges. There has been a deliberate effort on the part of these business men who are crooked to mislead and frighten their colleagues who are crooked and especially to mislead and frighten the small business man by telling him that disaster impends if Stimson is elected governor, because Stimson is closely allied with me, and I am a dangerous man, and especially dangerous to business."

Col. Roosevelt said there were some honest business men who acting under the influence of this fear, "have tended to cast aside self-respect and morality and to announce that they would vote for Tammany hall, no matter how grave the corruption that the election of the Tammany ticket would bring about at Albany because, though Tammany might rule corruptly, business would be 'safe' under it."

It was in his Canandaigua speech that Colonel Roosevelt first took up his reply to Mr. Dix in the dispute over the wall paper combine. He said Mr. Dix had announced that the Standard Wall Paper company with which he was connected, was not the concern by the same name which has been part of the trust, and was not connected with it, although it bought the plant of the defunct company.

"I have no concern with the changes in internal management or organization in the Standard Wall Paper company," he added. "What I ask you to remember is the connection of that company with the wall paper trust."

He spoke of the disagreement of the combine with one of its subsidiary concerns, the Voigt company, which led to a suit to recover $50,000 from the subsidiary.

Saying that Mr. Dix became a director of the Standard in June, 1907, and that the final decision of the supreme court was rendered in February, 1909, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"Therefore it appears that for eighteen months Mr. Dix was a director of the Standard company. A suit was in progress in behalf of the trust in which, if the trust had been successful, the Standard company, as a competent part of that trust, would have been one of the beneficiaries of the success."

MAKES REPLY

COL. ROOSEVELT SENDS LETTER TO JUDGE BALDWIN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt issued an open letter yesterday to Simon Baldwin, ex-chief justice of Connecticut and democratic candidate for governor of that state, in reply to Mr. Baldwin's demand for a retraction of statements made regarding him by Colonel Roosevelt in his speech at Concord, N. H., on Saturday. Colonel Roosevelt in that speech said that Baldwin stood in a retrograde attitude toward workingmen's compensation laws. Justice Baldwin in his letter said he never held the view attributed to him.

Col. Roosevelt's letter is, in part, as follows:

"Two or three different versions of what I am alleged to have said appear in different papers.

"What I said in substance is as follows:

"I had stated the attitude of the democratic candidate for governor in the state of New York in upholding the view that it was unconstitutional for the state to enact legislation prohibiting labor from being required to work an excessive number of hours under conditions which the legislature deemed unhealthy. I stated that the republican party, in contradiction to these retrogressive views, took in the strongest fashion a progressive position on these matters; that we held the view that the legislature interfere with the conditions of labor whenever the hours of labor were so excessive that under the actual hygienic conditions in any business they amounted to a menace to the health and welfare of the workman. I continued by saying that many judges in the past and many judges even in the present had held or were holding the view that legislative bodies could not interfere with what I regarded as the utterly misallied liberty of laboring men and women to contract for the performance of work under conditions which jeopardized their welfare and their lives or limbs. I continued by saying that the democratic candidate for governor of Connecticut also occupied a retrogressive attitude in this matter. I again continued, stating that we on the contrary stand for what I regard as the only proper progressive attitude, which is, that it is not competent for the workman who may be driven by dire need to accept any employment in spite of the conditions imposed upon his acceptance, to bind himself or to be bound in any way by any action of his not to be compensated if his health is damaged or if he loses life or limb in that occupation.

"You say in your letter as printed that the view of which I speak would be opposed to the settled principles of law and no competent lawyer could, or would take it, and that to ascribe such a position to you is calculated to affect your standing as a lawyer. If you will turn to Mr. Alger's little volume called 'Moral Overstrain' and read the chapter in which he deals with the decisions of the courts upholding this so-called liberty of the laboring man to make a contract to his disadvantage, you will see that very many judges have taken the position to which I object.

"I have not with me the printed transcript of my own opinions which was handed to me prior to my making the speech in question, but if the newspaper account of your letter is correct, you hold therein that railroad employes who accept benefits from the accident insurance, which you say the railroads often style a 'retrograde' position, are to be looked upon as a company in case of accidents. If you are correctly reported by the press in this matter I hold that this position is retrograde and not progressive. I hold that the state has absolutely the right to enact laws refusing to permit, and that existing laws should, in accordance with the opinions of very many progressive judges, be construed as not permitting any man directly or indirectly, by any action of his own, to estop himself from his right to have a railroad or other corporation forced to compensate him for any injury done to him in the performance of his duty. If your letter is correctly quoted in the press in this matter, you hold that the acceptance of a very small benefit from the accident insurance company by a railroad employe would estop him from recovering the substantial amount which he otherwise would be entitled to recover for any injury received. I hold that such a view is most emphatically not progressive.

"Very respectfully yours,
"Theodore Roosevelt."

GENERAL BIXBY

EXPECTS RESULTS FROM RIVERS AND HARBORS CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The chief of engineers of the army, General William H. Bixby, looks forward with hopefulness to the next meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which will assemble in Washington, December 7, 8 and 9. This great organization of business and public spirited men, it is expected, will conduct its deliberations as to give greater strength and prestige to the movement for an annual appropriation for American waterway improvements. "Something I said on the subject of the important part the press could play in the work of education along this line," said General Bixby, "has been somewhat expanded, but that the press can do much good, is, of course, to be recognized, and will be recognized."

The friends of a great national system of waterway improvement as members of the Rivers and Harbors congress and of the Federal congress, in his opinion, should work with a common purpose to promote legislation for the projects of the largest scope and of national importance, projects such as have the undisputed approval of the engineer officers as well as of the commercial interests immediately concerned.

The reports of the engineer officers upon their work for the year are now in the office of the secretary of war for his consideration and will be ready for transmission to congress at its opening.

In response to a suggestion as to what in the concrete, if he were a member of the organization, he would recommend to the Rivers and Harbors congress, General Bixby said the thing of greatest importance to be achieved was an established system of annual appropriations which should embrace the largest and most important projects, such as are of recognized general and national scope, and such as are approved by the engineer officers of the army, subordinating minor projects, until the vaster projects had been completed.

Among important incidental problems to be considered were those involving upon localities and the states to do their share in the expediting of these great public works, such as providing terminals for loading and unloading craft. The general government's work is to take care of the navigation of rivers and harbors and it ends at the point where local and individual business interests begin.

"The Corps of Engineers," said General Bixby, "are ready to help all they know how to bring about the consummation of an approved, economical and practical system of waterway improvement, assured and sustained by annual appropriations. 'Whether our sympathy and our convictions on this line will amount to a material help will depend largely upon the temper and the work of the Rivers and Harbors congress. We certainly want to help all we can.'"

EXAMINATIONS HELD

FOR POSITIONS AS ASSISTANT FOREST RANGERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Examinations opened yesterday morning in fourteen far western states, and in Florida, Michigan, Minnesota, and Alaska, to fill vacant positions as assistant forest rangers on the National forests. The examinations are held at national forest headquarters in all states in which national forests are located, except in Arkansas and Oklahoma, and will last two days.

The positions were, in entrance, salary of $1,000 per annum. Men who enter the national forest work as assistant rangers are eligible for promotion to positions as rangers, and later to the position of forest supervisor, if they are good enough. The latter position pays a salary of from $1,500 up, and calls both for all-round executive ability and for a certain amount of practical knowledge of forestry. Rangers work under the forest supervisors, often with a particular district in

Do You Realize?

That despondency in women is a mental condition often traceable to some distinctly female ill!

Women who are well do not have the blues, neither are they irritable and restless. Derangement of the female organism breeds all kinds of miserable feelings such as backache, headache, and bearing-down feelings. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There is no doubt that it has made many remarkable cures of female ills after all other means had failed. There is hardly a day that some woman does not write us that this simple old medicine, made only of roots and herbs, has cured her of a severe illness.

Here are two such letters—read them—they are genuine and reliable.

Platen, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with backache and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my catarrh is better, thanks to your advice. I will recommend your medicines to all sufferers."—Mrs. Mary Halstead, Platen, Pa., Box 98.

Walcott, N. Dakota—"I had inflammation which caused pains in my sides, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if any one even said 'How poorly you look to-day.' I wrote to you for advice and got it at once. I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and I began to feel better and looked better before I finished the fourth bottle of medicine."—Mrs. Amelia Dahl, Walcott, N. Dakota.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

their charge, protecting the forests against fire and trespass, handling much of the minor business with forest users, estimating and scaling timber and enforcing regulations under which purchasers of timber are allowed to cut on the National forests, building trails, supervising the work of forest guards and on occasion leading forces of emergency employes against forest fires too large to be handled by the regular national forest force.

The forest ranger must therefore, first of all be an experienced and vigorous woodsman. In the words of the little pamphlet which the department of agriculture sends to persons making inquiry, "Invaluable scouting, light outdoor employment need not apply." He must be sound-bodied, insured to hardships, able to ride, pack, and take care of himself and his horses in the woods and mountains, familiar with the region and local conditions where he seeks employment, and a resident of the state in which he will be appointed. Although the requirements are largely physical and practical, they include both a sufficient general education to qualify the ranger to transact national forest business intelligently, and knowledge of land surveying, mining laws and customs, and the handling of range livestock. In the southwest some knowledge of Spanish is often necessary.

To secure the right kind of men the examination is largely a test of practical capacity to do things. The candidate must give a demonstration of his horsemanship, ability to pack, knowledge of the use of the compass, and similar matters. Other parts of the test are written examinations. Because of desirability of securing, in the new rangers, recruits who will prove capable of rising to the higher responsibilities laid upon forest supervisors, the tests of educational qualifications have been strengthened. Thus the government is obtaining picked men for the rank and file of its little army of employes who administer and promote the proper use of its nearly two hundred million acres of national forests.

SWINDLING GAME

Importers Said to Be Involved

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 26.—A unique swindling game, far-reaching in operation and involving prominent diamond importers, was laid bare yesterday when J. P. Napier and W. P. Duke, from nobody knows where, were arrested on warrants sworn out by United States Postoffice Inspector Bush of Washington and bound over by United States Commissioner Cobb for the federal court.

Duke confessed and unfolded the operations of the gang to the commissioner.

Briefly the scheme was to order diamonds from a responsible concern, C. O. D., subject to examination, substitute imitations for the real diamonds and return the shipments to the importers with some flimsy excuse as to flaws in the stones. Both men were held in $2500 each.

THE ACQUITTAL OF MISS LENEVE

In the acquittal of Miss Ethel Leneve, the London court showed its spirit of fairness. It was quite plain that Miss Leneve had been lured on by the wily doctor until she became infatuated with him. It is likely also that at first he represented himself as single or about to be divorced so that there was no reason why Miss Leneve should suspect him of murder until she learned of it after the fact from himself. Anyhow there was sympathy in the court and throughout the country for Miss Leneve and there was little apparent effort to bring forward damaging evidence against her. The evidence was not sufficient to prove her guilty beyond a reasonable doubt and, therefore, the jury acquitted her as promptly as it had convicted Dr. Crippen.

THE SHEDD PARK LAND

The deeds for the Shedd park land estimated to be worth $50,000 have been passed and recorded. The land is now owned by the city and the work of development may be started at any time. There is a portion of the land that can be converted into a skating park in the winter at a trifling expense. That would be a great attraction to the young people and one that would save lives, for there are nearly as many drownings through the thin ice in winter as there are in the canals and ponds of the hunted bathers in the summer time. Mr. Shedd who has made this magnificent gift to the city is deeply interested in the development of the park land and we believe would assist the city in any practical scheme, provided the work be undertaken in a business like way by the city council.

The park when developed and made one with the already Fort Hill park, will be one of the best in the country. The gift of such a valuable tract of land to the city for park purposes, makes Freeman B. Shedd, the donor, one of the city's foremost benefactors. His example is worthy of emulation by those who wish to leave a monument that will live for generations in the hearts of the people. The Shedd park with its magnificent gateway will be the grandest monument reared to any Lowell citizen with perhaps the single exception of the Ladd and Whitney monument raised to the memory of the protomartyrs of the Civil war.

REVOLT AGAINST ROOSEVELT

It appears that many New York republicans are organizing a revolt against the dictatorship of Col. Roosevelt. Business men, bankers and manufacturers regard him as a dangerous man and are preparing to elect the democratic candidate for governor just because they believe that the election of the republican candidate would mean the nomination of Roosevelt for president in 1912. This revolt is led by members of the old guard that were beaten at Saratoga.

The defection from the republican ticket in New York for this reason is statewide and it is alleged that it will grow until election day. The men who believe in state sovereignty, and in the supremacy of the courts are also getting in line to oppose Roosevelt. His attacks upon the courts constitute one of his worst faults. In a man of such distinction it is necessary that he should set an example of respect for the courts instead of undertaking to denounce certain decisions as unjust and unwarranted.

The vote of New York state fluctuates more perhaps between the two great parties than that of any other state. It was higher for Taft in 1908 than for any presidential candidate since McKinley's first election in 1896. It may be high for the democratic candidate this year and low for his opponent, but whether it will be equally high for the democratic candidate for president 1912 depends upon circumstances which cannot be fore-shadowed at this time.

The manner in which Col. Roosevelt is getting into conflict with some of the most eminent men in the country; tends to show that were he again elevated to the high position of president he would use his great power with more recklessness than he did during his first term.

TO CLEAN THE LOWER CONCORD RIVER

For some time past a great many people have been asking how the condition of the lower Concord river could be remedied. It appears that under chapter 505 of the acts of 1909 the state board of health has the authority to prevent the Concord from becoming a menace to public health which it has been for the past year or two. The act referred to is as follows:—

Chapter 505 of the Acts of 1909.

An Act Relative to the Sanitary Condition of the Merrimack River and its Tributaries.

Section 1. The state board of health shall at such times as it may deem proper examine the bed, banks, and waters of the Merrimack river and of streams tributary or adjacent thereto in any city or town bordering upon said river or streams. Whenever the board shall determine that the condition of said river or streams or of the banks thereof is injurious or dangerous to public health, or likely to become injurious or dangerous to public health, by reason of the entrance of sewage or of refuse from factories or from other causes, said board shall prepare a plan or plans for removing the cause of such injury or danger, and shall report the same to the general court.

The Concord is not a tributary of the Merrimack, but nevertheless it would seem that this act would empower the state board of health to take such action as will prevent the lower river from becoming an open cess pool. The local board does not seem to take any notice of the unsanitary condition of the Concord.

If the Locks and Canals company had charge of the Concord, as it has of the Merrimack, it would at least prevent the stream from being choked with filth and sewage until it is a menace to the health of the residents in the vicinity.

The lower Concord is not nearly so bad now as it usually is in hot weather, but for the greater part of the year, especially when the water is low, it is a nuisance that should be abated.

Woman Flees From Nurses to End Her Life

WESTON, Oct. 26.—Suffering from an unbalanced mind, Ethel Hardcastle, 26 years old, a member of a wealthy and prominent New York family, who for some time had been a patient at sanitariums in this town and in Waltham, committed suicide about 6:30 last evening by throwing herself in front of an express train of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad near the Kendall Green station.

Quite as mysterious as the sensational death of the young woman were the efforts of everybody in any way connected with the affair to keep the facts from becoming known. The police officials of the town, railroad employees, the undertaker who took charge of the body, the physicians, employees of Grabbington lodge, where Miss Hardcastle had been a patient for the past few weeks, and all others were reticent concerning the tragedy.

From the facts obtainable last night it appears that the young woman was being treated for a nervous malady and that she came to Waltham for treatment some time ago. For a time or until a few weeks ago, Miss Hardcastle had been an inmate of the Hillside, a sanitarium in Waltham for the treatment of nervous troubles. The Hillside is a well known retreat, as is Grabbington lodge in Weston, whither the unfortunate young woman went from Waltham. While a patient at Grabbington lodge Miss Hardcastle was constantly attended by two women nurses, but about 6 last night she eluded her attendants and made her escape.

That she was a victim of suicidal mania before she escaped from her press in the belief of a number of persons in town for she must have walked directly to the railroad tracks of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad, not half a mile distant as soon as she fled the sanitarium.

No one could be found in the vicinity of the Kendall Green railroad station who would admit having seen the woman previous to her death, but it is thought that she must have visited the station, crossed the platform and then walked down the tracks a short distance to where she waited for the express train to come in sight. Her body, badly mangled, was found beside the tracks some distance from the station.

The body was taken in charge by Chief of Police P. J. McAuliffe, who removed it to his premises, and Medical Examiner George West was notified and viewed the remains.

It was learned last night that during her stay at Grabbington lodge Miss Hardcastle at times appeared to be quite rational, while at other times her condition bordered on the violent forms of insanity.

It was learned from New York late last night that on June 17 last an Edith Hardcastle, daughter of Frank Hardcastle of the firm of Hardcastle & Pless of that city, and living at the Hotel Regent, attempted to commit suicide by throwing herself under a subway car in New York. On that occasion the would-be suicide escaped unhurt.

Aged People Taken From Burning Building

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Three women and one man, each reputed to be more than 100 years old, were among those rescued when a fire broke out in the cellar of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob last night. There were 105 old women and men in the home and in an annex were 80 old men. None of the inmates was less than 95 years old and but few were able to make their way to the street without assistance.

Mrs. Esther Davis, who is reported to be 116 years old, was one of the first rescued by two policemen, who carried her down the stairs.

Lightning Struck Church in Saco, Me.

SACO, Me., Oct. 26.—A terrifying electrical storm swept over Saco last night, the lightning striking the steeple of the School Street Methodist Episcopal church and the home of Fred C. Bradbury, shocking a maid in the kitchen and knocking down two people passing the house.

Firemen fought the flames on the church steeple by running lines of hose into the belfry but found the work difficult and much damage was done by the flames to the church interior. The flames were stopped half way down the steeple.

The electric lights in many parts of the city were extinguished by the storm.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

The recent introduction of Cadum by a chemist has attracted considerable notice, because it has benefited so many obstinate cases of eczema and other skin affections. Its success has been little short of wonderful. The itching of eczema stops with the first application, a cure, even in stubborn cases, being sometimes effected in two or three weeks. Herpes, pimples, rash, acne, blotches, etc., relieved after a single night's use. Cadum is sold by all druggists at 10c and 25c per box.

RIFLE PRACTICE

Marine Corps Finished Second to Infantry

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The action of the national board for promotion of rifle practice in restoring the U. S. Marine corps to second place in the great annual team rifle match, which was shot at Camp Perry in August, has met with very general approval in the rifle world, although under the plan of classification of the teams the decision will change several teams from one class to another. In the shooting the Marine corps finished second to the United States Infantry with a score of 3136, the Infantry score being 3186. The U. S. cavalry followed with 3115, Iowa had 3112 and the U. S. navy 3111. All of these teams were shooting in Class A in which two trophies and four cash prizes are given, with medals to the members of each team; the first prize being the national trophy presented by congress. The skirmish run is the last stage of the match and generally speaking the final standing of the teams depends greatly on their shooting at skirmish. For some years past the U. S. Marine corps has devoted a great deal of time and money to rifle practice, its latest effort in the direction of improving its shooting, and with an eye toward capturing the national trophy, being the establishment of a modern up-to-date rifle range on the Potomac river near Washington. The efforts of the Marine corps to capture the prize and the eagerness in defeat as well as in incidental victories, and their readiness to help competitors in every possible way has gained for the officers and men an enviable reputation and standing in the shooting game. On the last day of the national match the Marine corps team had just started in their skirmish run. As the first shots were fired at 600 yards Lieut. Randolph Coyle, U. S. M. C., who was team spotter, and who was seated behind the line looking at the targets through a telescope, sprang to his feet and in an excess of enthusiasm over the good shooting being done by the members of the team called out loudly "Good wind!"

By this Lieut. Coyle meant that the Marine corps' skirmishers had gauged the direction and velocity of the wind correctly as evidenced by the accuracy of their shooting. Through the telescope he could see the holes in the targets made by their bullets, which were invisible to the members of the team.

The rules governing the national matches are the strictest that can be devised to insure fair play and they are vigorously and impartially enforced. One of these rules forbids all coaching in a team match, except that a team captain may coach his men on the run, meaning the skirmish run. Lieut. Coyle's exclamation being called to the attention of Col. R. K. Evans, U. S. A., executive officer of the national matches, the latter held that it was a technical violation of the rules against coaching and penalized the Marine corps by eliminating their score of 1032 points made on the skirmish run. He did this with great reluctance as it seemed most unjust that a team whose excellent shooting entitled it to second place should be dropped clear to the foot of the list through an indiscretion of a non-shooting member. The elimination of the Marine corps gave the Cavalry second place, Iowa, third, and U. S. Navy fourth place. The Cavalry team, however, believing that an injustice was being done to the Marine corps team, filed a protest with the president of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, against the action of Col. Evans. It was what in court might be termed a "friendly suit." The national board being the body which makes the rules for the national matches under the approval of the secretary of war, was therefore convened in a special session and acting on the protest, the statement from Col. Evans and the testimony of several members of the board who had been present at the time, reversed the decision of the executive officer and gave the Marine corps team credit for its score in the skirmish run. This placed the Marine corps second, but eliminated the "Navy team" from the list of prize winners in Class A.

One of the reasons which actuated the board in restoring the Marine corps to its proper place was the fact that had it been left at the bottom of the list it would have been pitted against the other teams in Class C at the next annual tournament, which teams it easily outran. The practical effect would be to deprive these teams of any opportunity to win the first prize in their class which is the Soldier of Marathon, accompanied by $500 in cash. At the matches last year the Naval Academy team was penalized for an infraction of the rules which dropped them from Class A and incidentally they carried off the first prize in Class B, which is the time honored Hillon trophy, together with $350 in cash.

SCHOOL BOARD

Adopts Rule to Have Local News-boys Licensed

Truant Commissioner Thornton Entrusted With the Enforcement of the Law—Action Taken at the Request of the Board of Trade—Other Matters

The school board at its meeting last night voted that on and after December 1, all boys 14 years old or under, who desire to sell newspapers in the public streets of the city will be required to have a license. The action of the school board was due to a communication which it received from the executive committee of the board of trade, the committee advising that conditions are such as would warrant the enforcement. It was stated in the communication that the police department was willing to work for the betterment of conditions as regards this matter.

The law relative to it is contained in chapter 418 of the revised laws and is entitled: "An act relative to the licensing of minors to engage in certain occupations in cities." It reads as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section seventeen of chapter six of the Revised Laws, as amended by chapter five hundred and thirty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and two, and by chapter one hundred and fifty-one of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and six, is hereby further amended by adding the following sentences at the end of said section:—Any person who, having a minor under his control, knowingly permits him to violate the provisions of this act, and any person who procures or employs a minor to violate the provisions of this act, and any person who either for himself or as agent of any other person or of any corporation knowingly furnishes or sells to any minor any of the articles above mentioned, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months. Truant and police officers shall enforce the provisions of this chapter, so as to read as follows:—Section 17. The mayor and aldermen or selectmen may make regulations relative to the exercise of the trade of bootblackening by minors and to the sale by minors of any goods, wares or merchandise the sale of which is permitted by section fifteen, and may prohibit such sales or such trade, or may require a minor to obtain from them a license therefor to be issued on terms and conditions prescribed in such regulations; provided, that in the case of persons under the age of fourteen years in the cities of the commonwealth the foregoing powers shall be vested in and exercised by the school committee of said cities. A minor who sells such articles, or exercises such trade without a license if one is required or who violates the conditions of his license or any of the provisions of said regulations shall be punished by a fine of not more than ten dollars for each offence. Any person who, having a minor under his control, knowingly permits him to violate the provisions of this act, and any person who procures or employs a minor to violate the provisions of this act, and any person who either for himself or as agent of any other person or of any corporation knowingly furnishes or sells to any minor any of the articles above mentioned, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months. Truant and police officers shall enforce the provisions of this chapter. Approved April 23, 1910.

The communication from the board of trade was discussed at some length and Truant Officer Thornton, who is familiar with the new laws, was asked to express his opinion. He explained that the law reached only boys under 14 years and those who sold papers, but not those who carried them. On motion of Mr. Simpson the recommendation of the board of trade was favorably acted on, the law to go into effect Dec. 1. The terms under which the news-boys' license will be issued is summarized as follows: Must fasten his badge to the right breast of his outside garment in such a way that it will be in plain sight all the time, and not be covered by his papers.

Must not sell, lend or give his badge to any other boy or let any other boy have his badge for any purpose.

Must not let any boy who has not been granted a license and given a badge have papers to sell.

Must not allow any boy who has not been granted a license and given a badge to sell for him, or assist him, or go around with him.

Must at once report to the superintendent the loss of his badge.

Must not sell in or on a street car.

Must not sell during school hours.

Must not sell before half past six in the morning.

Must not sell after 3 o'clock at night except on election days.

Must not sell after 10 o'clock at night on election days.

Must not stand around with other boys.

Must not allow other boys to stand around with him.

Must not make any unnecessary noise.

Must not disturb or annoy people by teasing them to buy, or in any other way.

Must attend school, both sessions, every day.

Must give up his badge to his school teacher when notified that his license is to be taken away or suspended, or at the end of the time for which it is issued, or before leaving the city if he moves away, or when he gives up selling if he does not intend to sell again.

If the newsboy holding such license does anything which he is forbidden to do by the terms of his license, or if he fails to do anything which he is required to do by the terms of his license, or if he breaks any law or ordinance or any regulation of the school committee, he is liable to have his license revoked and to pay a fine.

The board instructed Truant Commissioner Thornton to carry out the wishes of the new law and to see that it is enforced in a proper way.

Reporting for the committee on rules Mr. Goward stated that he had received a communication from Supt. Whitcomb relative to the increase of teachers' salaries after ten years of service. Under the present rule it causes some teachers to work, in some instances, a half-year or more over the time required. A change was recommended which did away with the objection. The report was accepted and adopted by the board.

The following recommendation submitted by Mr. Goward was adopted:

"We recommend that section 41 of chapter 4 of the rules of the school committee be amended by a striking out of the words, 'in writing to the superintendent,' and by adding at the end of the words 'to the other members of the board,' so that the last half of the section shall read as follows:

"It shall be the duty of each member of the board of supervisors to visit each of the applicants assigned to him, and to report the result of such visit to the other members of the board."

The committee on evening schools reported the following, which was adopted: "The election of the following teachers: Lawrence Churchill to the Evening High school, Dolores Gaudette to the Colburn school, and E. Belle Perham to the Evening Drawing school; Elizabeth Maguire to the Edson, Mr. Cardarelli to the Edson school.

A leave of absence for Miss Alice L. Applekin was recommended and granted.

A communication was received from Bennett Silverblatt asking for the use of the Howard street school, after the regular school hours, for the purpose of teaching Hebrew. It was referred to the committee on schoolhouses.

ATTACKED HIS WIFE

Fall River Woman May Die of Her Injuries

FALL RIVER, Oct. 26.—Delphis Dorey, 28 years of age, of 212 Lowell street, is a fugitive from justice, and the police of this and surrounding cities are seeking to apprehend him on a charge of having murderously assaulted his wife, Mary Dorey, at their home last night. With a claw hammer Dorey, it is alleged, struck his wife four times on the left side of the head and left her unconscious with a fractured skull.

Mrs. Dorey was removed in the ambulance to the City hospital and at midnight her condition was critical. Hospital surgeons say the chances are that if Dorey is found he will have to face a charge of murder.

After committing the assault, it is said, Dorey ran down Lowell street and headed for the Quequechan river and the police gave credence to the belief of his relatives that the man will go away with himself. Officers from the eastern and southern stations were assigned to the case a few minutes after word of the affair reached police headquarters.

Cause of Attack

Dorey had a good start, however, and his sister was the last person to see him as he fled in the direction of the river. Dorey had not been working, of late, but had been supplied with money, and the police say he had been drinking heavily.

For the past three weeks he has not shown up at home, and the police understand that it was a quarrel he had with his wife that made him leave home. He has been seen in the vicinity of his home for a few days past, and yesterday afternoon at 5 he made his appearance again.

Mrs. Dorey was not at home when her husband called, and he waited for her. The moment that she put in an appearance Dorey, it is charged, attacked her. He had procured a claw hammer and with this weapon ran after his wife. She was unable to beat off the blows which he rained upon her head. The first blow felled her to the ground, and while she lay prostrated Dorey hit her again and again.

HOW A TREE GROWS

The following communication was received from an old friend:

Lowell, Oct. 26, 1910. Editor of The Sun:—From the item in yesterday's Sun in regard to the barn set on willow posts which took root and grew and lifted the barn over my head, I would say that a tree does not grow from the bottom, does not push up from the ground, but from the top. The stump of a tree is always a stump, no matter how many roots it has—shoots or branches may come out, that is all,—the tree is gone. In answer to this question, several years ago the Scientific American said: "A tree grows from the top—the only lifting out of the ground the tree gets is by the swelling of its roots."

A BAG OF SILVER

Was Found Hidden In a Wall

TURNERS FALLS, Oct. 26.—Good fortune recently favored John A. Schible in his purchase of the Howland farm in the town of Gill, sold to him by the heirs of H. H. Howland.

While removing a partition in the old farmhouse the other day Mr. Schible, after tearing away a few boards found a bag neatly tied and marked "No. 1 soil." It was found to be full of silver coins, the amount of which Mr. Schible professes not to mention. It is believed, however, there was a considerable sum, probably several hundred dollars.

It is the opinion of some that the bag has been concealed a quarter of a century or more as no coin bore a later date than 1850.

There is a long history of family ownership of the old farm, which was originally bought by George Howland of Barnstable from John Sheldon and others of Deerfield. It has been the property of the Howland family since 1735.

In Charge of Local Marine Of Andover Association Held at Recruiting Station Lawrence Yesterday

Sergt. T. C. Thompson, the subject of this sketch, is in charge of the marine recruiting station that is located on the second floor of the Runnels building, Merrimack square, and he says that the marine corps is a branch of Uncle Sam's service that seems to be little understood by our young men. He allows that as they pass along the street they are deceived by the similarity of the marine corps poster to that of the army. He says they pass the posters by with a careless glance and do not stop to investigate.

"If they would stop and read the posters and seek further information," said Sergt. Thompson, "they would discover what the marine corps really is, and the advantages that they could enjoy in their four years of service therein. The corps is a fine body of infantry about ten thousand strong, which is liable for service all over the world, on board of our ships of war and in our foreign possessions. They are at times liable to service with the army also."

"A young man enlisting in the Marine corps has the advantage of seeing foreign countries and their people, of traveling about the world in a comfortable man-of-war where conveniences for seafaring men in these modern times are of the best. Our ships are comfortable, clean and healthful. The best of care is taken of the health of the men; they live exceedingly well, there is plenty for them to eat of the best of food, carefully watched over and inspected by the surgeons. The drinking water is distilled on board and no water is more wholesome than distilled water."

The marine gets a yearly allowance of clothing from the government, amounting to as follows: Sergeant, $102.20 for the first year, and $51.10 for the second, and succeeding years; first-sergeant, gunnery sergeant $98.55 for the first year, and $51.10 for the second and succeeding years; sergeant, corporal $64.90 for the first year, and $47.45 for the second and succeeding years; private $37.60 for the first year and $43.80 for the second and succeeding years. If allowance of clothing is not used up by the man, (and by being careful of his clothes he can always save it), he gets it at the end of his enlistment.

SERG. T. C. THOMPSON

listment, the value in cash from the government, for undrawn clothing. His pay is as follows:

Pay Table
Sergeant-major, $45 per month, for first three years, and an increase of $4 for every enlistment up until the seventh. First-sergeant, quartermaster-sergeant and gunnery-sergeant $45 per month, for first three years, and an increase of $4 for every enlistment up until the seventh.

Sergeant, $30 per month for the first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh.

Corporal, $21 for first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh.

Private, $15 for first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh.

Mr. Thompson has served for seven years. He says he went into the corps because he desired to see something of the world, and he had the intention of seeking promotion.

At the outbreak of the Russian Japanese war he was one of 100 marines to guard the American legation at Korea. He saw the first engagement of the war and later he was attached to the service as acting clerk to the United States minister.

Later on he spent two years in Panama, and was then ordered to headquarters in Washington upon clerical work. He had been promoted upon recommendation of his superior officers as a reliable, conscientious marine and that is why he was made a recruiting sergeant.

The Andover Association of Congregational churches and ministers held its fall conference yesterday afternoon and evening in the South church, Lawrence, with a large attendance.

The conference was distinctly a laymen's meeting although the clergy were in evidence and addressed the gathering at times.

The conference was called to order at 2:45 o'clock by Rev. Frank G. Alger of Lowell. Following this John A. Osgood of this city led devotional exercises.

Rev. Owen H. Gates of Andover then read his reports of the last meeting as secretary-treasurer. Unfinished business was reported upon.

"Work Among the Aliens," was the subject of Justin B. Varney of Lawrence. He recommended following the lines laid down by the Russell Sage foundation.

Rev. A. Frederic Dunnels appeared for the committee on systematic giving. He said that the committee had been doing much work and referred to the conference which was held several months ago. As a result of that conference it had been decided to adopt a sliding scale of apportionment for the various churches.

For churches with expenses of $3000 or under, 10 per cent would be asked for benevolent work; for churches with expenses of over $3000, 15 per cent would be asked. However, the condition of each individual church would be taken into consideration.

Mr. Dunnels said that churches of the conference should give $21,000 for benevolent work. In view of the fact that the benevolences of the section have been far under that, the state committee will ask for but $14,500. The speaker representing this committee, favored the raising of about $2000 under that sum. The amounts to be raised by Congregational churches in Lowell and vicinity were as follows: Lowell, Pawtucket, $300; First church, $650; First Trinitarian, $650; Eliot, $675; Kirk Street, $1600; High street, $650; Highland, $225; French, $35; Swedish, $30; Dracut, First Church, $400; Central Church, $50; Tewksbury, $400; and Thebesboro, $50.

Following the reading of the apportionments there was brief discussion. It was voted to accept the report as progressive.

Rev. C. H. Oliphant of Methuen, reported for the committee on ministerial standing.

The application of Rev. James E. Grege that he be a member in good standing in the association was acted favorably upon. Rev. T. G. Langdale, formerly of Tewksbury but now of Salem, formally asked for the certificate of transfer. This was voted.

Rev. Mr. Gates read a resolution to the effect that there be no printed report of statistics of the district this year, but that the statistical secretary read a report in full at the meeting to be held in Haverhill. It was voted to refer the matter to the business committee.

Rev. Mr. Gates said the state secretary asked for six cents per member during the year.

The open forum started at the conclusion of the business session and the first speaker was Norman T. Wilcox of Lowell, who spoke interestingly on the subject: "Methods of Providing for Church Expenses."

"The Relation of the Pastor to Church Expenses," a warm discussion relative to the business methods or lack of them that prevail in some of the churches. Among the speakers were Rev. Mr. Oliphant and Rev. Sarah Dixon of Tewksbury. Henry A. Smith of Lowell spoke on "Why Does the Church Maintain a Sunday School?"

Rev. E. Victor Digelow and Rev. Allan C. Ferrin, both of Lowell, discussed this subject, after which adjournment was made.

In the evening George B. Thomas of Lawrence led a devotional service after which the chorus choir of the church sang the "Gloria" from Haydn's seventh mass.

Prof. Eliza H. Kendrick of Wellesley college then spoke at length on "A Young Woman's Religion."

Principal Alfred E. Stearns of Andover academy gave an address on "A Young Man's Religion," after which the session adjourned.

Storm Failed to Interfere With Its Success

The second night's festivities at the Sacred Heart parish bazaar were fully as enjoyable as those of the previous evening, and while the lightning raged and the thunder roared and the rain poured, their combined disturbances failed to interfere with the success of the bazaar, and a remarkably large gathering for such a night was present.

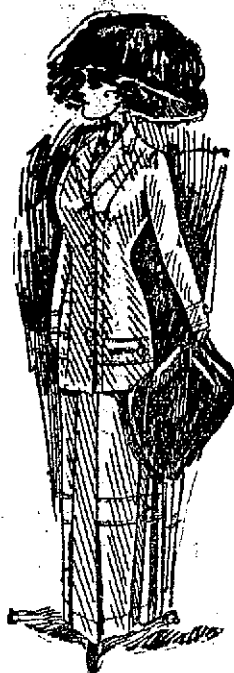

The stage entertainment, as previously announced, was carried out with success, while the sales tables and other attractions, including the pretty girls with the inevitable "chance" book did a land office business. The "Duck Ring" was again a centre of attraction and the original rubber-necks were kept on the duck all evening.

The entertainment was under the auspices of the school alumni and was personally directed by Rev. Sister Joseph of the Sisters of Mary. Rev. James Quinn, O. M. L. pastor of St. Mary's church at San Antonio, Texas, who is in town on a visit, was a welcome visitor at last evening's festivities. Fr. Quinn at a recent meeting of the alumni was elected an honorary member.

Mayor Meehan will be the guest of honor at this evening's festivities.

Tomorrow evening will be Hilbertian night, and the members of the local divisions of the A. O. H. will assemble at their hall at 7:30 and will march in a body to the bazaar headed by the O. M. I. Cadets' field music. It will be distinctively an "Irish" night, and an appropriate musical program will be presented.

Friday evening will be Knights of Columbus night, the local council having accepted the invitation of its chaplain, Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. to attend. It is expected the knights will turn out in large numbers and the talent of the council of which there is an "abundance" will furnish an impromptu entertainment.

One of the features of the bazaar is the publication of a daily paper known as the Alumni Journal, devoted to the bazaar. Its headliner is a serial story entitled "A Defective Story," abounding in wit and humor and of anonymous origin.

The curates of the parish, Rev. John P. Flynn, Rev. Bernard Fletcher, and Rev. Jas. T. McDermott, are all hustling to make the bazaar a great success and they have aroused great enthusiasm among the parishioners.

THE TALENT LOST

Hard Hit at the Races at Hills Grove

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 26.—Only two races were started yesterday at Hills Grove and only one was finished, the 2:18 pace being held over until today after five heats.

The judges made a very unpopular decision in this event when they designated Syka Direct, a top-heavy favorite, in the third heat. The daughter of Deveras was heavily played to win from the very first, being the choice against the field.

She finished third in the first heat, but won the second so easily that it seemed she could not lose the race. She was leading at the upper turn the first time around in the third heat when Jerry Jr. fell, throwing his driver, Warman.

When Syka Direct passed the stand it was seen her inside sulky wheel was broken. Dodson pulled up at the lower turn, while the field swept by. Molly J. winning. There was a question whether Jerry Jr. interfered with Syka Direct when he fell, and the broken sulky was taken to the judges' stand for examination.

The frame was broken on the inside near the wheel, and there was no evidence that the sulky had been struck.

The judges on this evidence, or lack of it, refused to place the favorite, their decision proving a heavy blow to the backers of the little mare.

With Syka Direct out of it, Molly J. winner of the third heat, was boosted and sold well against the field. She failed to show in the fourth heat, however, and the choice again shifted, falling on Ben Hur, who romped home with the heat. Billy Patten, who captured the first heat, looked good to win the fourth also, but Ben Hur caught him at the three-quarters and went by him as if he were standing still.

It looked easy for Ben Hur to capture the fifth heat also, but The Islander handed the talent a severe jolt by making a furious finish and just nosing out Ben Hur. Although he had been pacing in good form, no one expected The Islander to come through and win, and his victory was a big surprise.

The finish was by far the best of the day, both drivers plying the whip furiously as they came down the stretch neck and neck. Ben Hur remains favorite in this race and should take two straight heats today. Four horses, Ben

Hur, The Islander, Billy Patten and Molly J. will start today, the others being ruled out.

Deceiver was a good second choice before the race started, but, as last week, he failed to show anything, and was drawn after finishing eighth and ninth.

The card for today includes the free-for-all trot, 2:20 pace and 2:19 trot. Fort Orange Lad opened favorite in the 2:20-trot, and was well supported until after the second heat, when it was the field against Alice Victor. Director Todd won many supporters when he went out and captured the first heat, but Crozier with Alice Victor grabbed the other three.

Flying Feet, a well played second choice before the race, made a good showing, being placed once and finishing third twice. He took third money. Many of the drivers here alleged unfair treatment in starting, and claim the pole horse is rarely protected. They say that visiting drivers and owners are discriminated against. The spectators also are wearied by too long waits between heats, which draw out the racing and force some events to go over.

No one at the track seems to know whether a meeting will be held at Nashua next week or not, but doubt is expressed about the entry list being sufficiently large. The summary of yesterday's racing:

INFLAMMATION MADE HER ALMOST CRAZY

With Pain, Itching Settled from Knee to Toes. Physicians Cost a Fortune. No Relief. Went to Hospital 3 Years. Unable to Help.

Finally Used Cuticura and Was Completely Cured.

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled my limb, from the knee to the toes. I went to see great many physicians and after which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there. I used all the medicines that I could see but because worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so miserable that I had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope."

"I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times but could not make up my mind to buy them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with a similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621 Second Ave., New York, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1906."

HORSE BRINGS $30,000

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Jack Atkin, the horse known as the handicap king because of the large number of races of that description he won, was sold yesterday for $30,000.

Thus ends the racing career of one of the best-thoroughbreds in the country and the best racer ever foaled in Missouri. His purchase yesterday was at the biggest price paid for an old horse in several years. He will be retired at once to the stud.

BOB VEAL TRAFFIC

DR. ROWLEY SAYS IT HAS BEEN STARTED UP AGAIN

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Dr. Francis H. Rowley, president of the M. S. F. C. A. and the American Humane society, issued a statement yesterday in which he charged that the traffic in new-born calves from New York into Massachusetts has begun again. Last Saturday night, he said, agents of his society learned that a car of crated calves was on its way and the agents were in Watertown when the car arrived.

The car, he says, contained 84 calves. Of these, seven were dead upon arrival, according to Dr. Rowley. One, which was dying, was killed immediately, and 24 of the smaller ones were slaughtered in the abattoir, as they were weak and exhausted.

Between Saturday night and Monday morning, upon the insistence of the society's agents, he says, those calves which survived the trip were fed, but on Monday 10 were killed to end their suffering.

There were 42 alive when the U. S. inspectors, with Dr. Ryder, head of the department, arrived, according to Dr. Rowley's statement. They condemned as unfit, because of exhaustion of the maturity, 40 of the survivors. Of the 84 which were sent from New York, Dr. Rowley says, only two passed inspection as fit for food.

Dr. Ryder told Mr. Rowley that in his judgment the majority of the 84 calves were from two to five years old.

SAN FRANCISCO PREPARING FOR $50,000,000 PANAMA-PACIFIC EXPOSITION IN 1915

PANORAMIC SCENES FROM ST. FRANCIS HOTEL

COPYRIGHT, 1906 BY PILLSBURY PICTURE CO.

SAN FRANCISCODOWN POWELL STREET FROM POST STREET, SAN FRANCISCOPOST STREET FROM NEARNY STREET,
SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, the wonderful metropolis of the Pacific coast, is truly a magic city. Practically wiped out by the great conflagration of 1906, when $500,000,000 in property was reduced to ashes in three days, it stands today proud in its splendid rehabilitation, majestic and magnificent, a miracle of reconstruction wrought in four short years, grander and more beautiful than ever and showing in every line and tower of the mammoth skyscrapers that crowd and adorn its business section glowing evidence of the indomitable spirit and exhaustless energy of its people.

Fitted with justifiable pride in the successful accomplishment of this great work, the builders of this magic city now propose to hold a great international exposition in 1915 to celebrate the consummation of that other wonder of constructive genius, that companion miracle of twentieth century achievement, the completion of the Panama canal, the most stupendous engineering feat in the history of the world.

The City Rebuilt.

San Francisco has been rebuilt, but the great work still goes on. More than $200,000,000 has been expended in the construction of splendid buildings and an additional $100,000,000 has been expended in various municipal improvements. The hundreds of millions of dollars in personal property that went up in smoke in that fateful April catastrophe cannot be brought back, but the people have forgotten that loss in the realization of the increased prosperity, present and prospective, for which they have struggled with almost superhuman energy and with splendid intelligence.

Within the next four years another $200,000,000 will have been spent in painting the city, in putting the finishing touches on the beautiful city that already is the wonder of the world, in beautifying and adorning until San Francisco shall be the peer of any city in the world. The city beautiful which will arrest the eyes of the hundreds of thousands of visitors to the Panama international exposition in 1915 will be the realization of an entrancing dream, the fulfillment of a golden promise and a glorious monument to those whose initiative, genius, enterprise and self sacrifice made possible the consummation of an idea worthy of a people truly great.

Seeks No Government Money.

In the fulfillment of its desire to hold an international exposition which shall excel in magnificence and true greatness anything of the kind ever before attempted San Francisco has asked congress for official recognition. It makes no plea for financial assistance—that is not the California way. It asks only that congress shall say that San Francisco, because of its location, its climate and the proved ability of its people to accomplish great things, is the most desirable site for the proposed exposition and to lend the authority and prestige of governmental sanction to the invitations which will be sent to all foreign governments, asking them to send exhibits.

Many Millions Pledged.

As an earnest of its intentions San Francisco, backed by California, announces a fund of $17,500,000 to finance the proposed exposition. Of this amount more than $7,000,000 has been subscribed by the citizens of San Francisco, $4,000,000 being pledged in two hours at the first meeting held for that purpose; $5,000,000 will be contributed by the state and $5,000,000 more by the city of San Francisco, the necessary authorization having been granted by the state legislature in special session. But this $17,500,000 is only the nucleus. San Francisco guarantees a $50,000,000 show, and San Francisco has a habit of making good.

San Francisco is not alone in its desire to celebrate the completion of the gigantic artificial waterway that is to connect the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, thereby providing a short cut for the commerce of the world from the ports of Europe and the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific coast and the Orient. New Orleans also aspires to that honor, and its citizens, backed by the state of Louisiana, are making strenuous efforts to secure the official indorsement of congress for the Crescent City as the exposition site.

First in the Field.

San Francisco was first in the field and to the unprejudiced mind must be recognized as having the strongest claim for the coveted honor. It is ideally located, has a magnificent harbor, a perfect climate, unrivaled hotel accommodations and a whole souled, generous population, noted the world over for its progressiveness and lavish hospitality. Moreover, it has the money necessary to finance an exposition of a size commensurate with the importance of the event which it is proposed to celebrate and the energy and ability to make that exposition an artistic and financial success.

New Orleans bases its claim to congressional recognition mainly on the fact that it is nearer the center of population and more convenient to visitors inhabiting the Atlantic coast and Mississippi valley regions. New Orleans believes that nearness to the center of population insures success.

That theory is an exploded fallacy, as shown by the four international expositions that have been held in the United States since expositions became fashionable—the first at Philadelphia, on the Atlantic seaboard, in 1876; the second on the Mississippi, at New Orleans, in 1885; the third in the Mississippi valley region, at Chicago, in 1893; the fourth on the Mississippi, at St. Louis, in 1904. All received government aid. New Orleans received a loan of $1,000,000 (which has never been repaid). Subsequently $300,000 was appro-riated for a government exhibit, and later $350,000 additional was appropriated to pay the debts of the exposition. New Orleans was then as much a center of population as it is today. New Orleans, backed by the state of Louisiana, proposes to raise a fund of $5,000,000 to finance its proposed exposition, less than half the amount of the San Francisco Panama-Pacific exposition fund.

Backed by All the West.

All California and the entire west are back of San Francisco—and the west makes no failures. The Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland, the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle and the midwinter fair at San Francisco all prove this. No government appropriation to finance the Panama-Pacific exposition will be asked—government recognition only is expected. The west never does things by halves. It proposes to make this exposition the greatest affair of its kind in the world's history.

San Francisco can accommodate the fleets of the world in its magnificent harbor, and a monster marine spectacle, which will be participated in by the assembled warships from all the maritime nations of Europe, Asia and South America, will be one—and not the least attractive—of the features of the Panama-Pacific exposition.

San Francisco is the largest city west of St. Louis and Chicago, the central port of all the Pacific coast between Panama and Puget sound, the greatest trade and shipping point in all the region between the Mississippi and the Pacific, between Canada and Mexico, a region comprising more than two-thirds of the area of all the United States and which will be more vitally affected by the completion of the Panama canal than any other section of the country.

Ten transcontinental railroads now reach San Francisco, and each of these roads will bring thousands of visitors to the exposition. These visitors will be allowed stop-over privileges at various points to enable them to visit the many famous places in the west, such as the Yellowstone park, Grand Canyon of the Colorado, the Yosemite, Mount Shasta, Lake Tahoe, the big trees, the missions, reclamation projects, orange groves, gold mines, oil fields, orchards, flower farms, the glaciers of southern Alaska, the pearl fisheries of La Paz and Guaymas and the volcano in the Hawaiian Islands.

Steamships from the Atlantic coast ports and from Europe will bring more thousands, coming through the Panama canal, thus affording a splendid opportunity for the tourists to see the great ditch and obtain a fuller appreciation of the gigantic engineering feat that stands head and shoulders above any other achievement of man in the history of the world.

Expositions have their business end and should be held during the summer months, because 80 per cent of the people take their vacations in the summer. It is well known that California's winter climate, balmy as it is, cannot compare with its summer climate, the summer temperature averaging 59 degrees, only 7 degrees higher than the winter mean. Travelers in the summer go north, not south.

What Fra Elbertus Says.

Elbert Hubbard (Fra Elbertus) has this to say in the Denver Post about the Panama canal and the proposed Panama-Pacific exposition, with which San Francisco proposes to celebrate its completion:

"The Panama canal will be the actual realization of the short passage to India, sought by sailors and navigators for centuries. The building of the Chinese wall is the only engineering feat in history that actually rivals it.

"To commemorate this mighty achievement is worthy of our highest, noblest and most dignified efforts. No Mardi Gras carnival, with its dancing clowns, prancing nympts and showers of confetti, will suffice.

"Archimedes, who invented and held a patent on the lever, said:

"Give me a place upon which to stand and I will move the world."

"San Francisco has a lever, and she has a place upon which to stand. She has moved the world to admiration for her recovery from calamity, and she will now, with the help of the world, give the world the greatest object lesson in science, economics, art and industrial betterment that it has ever seen.

"She has the money, the location, the climate, the water, the sunshine, the men and women, the willing brain and the strong and helpful hands.

"San Francisco now asks congress for official permission to invite the world to come to her house party in 1915.

"San Francisco does not ask Uncle Sam for either an appropriation or a loan.

"All she asks is for his smile and nod of recognition.

"San Francisco has now pledged and at her command $17,000,000 to finance the Panama World's exposition. That is a larger sum than any world's fair ever had, and the Centennial exposition only had about one-fourth as much.

"San Francisco—1915."

Some idea of the relative wealth and ability of California and Louisiana to finance an international exposition of the scope and importance of the one proposed may be obtained from a study of the following figures, which are taken from the report of the national monetary commission, and, except as noted, relate to April 28, 1909:

COMPARATIVE BANKING STATISTICS RELATIVE TO CALIFORNIA AND LOUISIANA.

Items.	California.	Louisiana.
Population June 1, 1909	1,732,000	1,642,000
Capital of all banks $29,967,679.32	$21,565,800.00	$21,565,800.00
Individual deposits $67,157,799.09	$3,504,530.00	$3,504,530.00
Average per capita	$37.47	$5.12
Total resources of $42,999,850.00	$153,042,502.00	$153,042,502.00
Total savings deposits	$21,228,437.25	$1,356,253.30
Amount paid savings depositors in interest (1908-9)	$1,122,506.79	$201,627.73
Rank among states in number of savings depositors	7th	27th

High Financial Standing.

San Francisco now holds eighth place among the cities of the United States in bank clearings. Nothing proves more conclusively the fact that San Francisco has regained her position as a banking and financial center. The bank clearings for 1909 amounted to $1,979,872,000 as against a total of $1,757,141,550.08 for 1908, a gain of $222,730,700.88, or 12.6 per cent. This is almost double the amount of the bank clearings of the year 1905.

The completion of the Panama canal is distinctly a Pacific coast event, since it opens the Pacific to the commerce of the world, and what more fitting place to celebrate that great event than San Francisco, the greatest port on the Pacific coast? The new city, rebuilt on a scale of undreamed magnificence, will in itself be an attractive exhibit. The exposition will be distinctive and characteristic. Here will not only be exhibits of products from all European countries, but all nations that border on the Pacific—the islands of the sea and the awakening orient—will be able to make displays here such as have never before been assembled.

San Francisco is truly the exposition city, the only logical site for the celebration of the most stupendous work of man, the completion of the Panama canal. Let the slogan be "San Francisco—1915!"

Discussed by Rabbi Fleischer at Board of Trade

The inclement weather interfered seriously with the attendance at the meeting held in the board of trade rooms in connection with the campaign being held by the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage association.

But, though small, numerically, the audience was deeply interested and thoroughly attentive to the remarks of the speaker of the evening, Rabbi Charles Fleischer of Cambridge, who presented his argument in favor of equal suffrage.

Rabbi Fleischer spoke in part as follows:

"In the first place I feel that I must lay down rather dogmatically, certain fundamental principles. Primarily, a dissertation against prejudice would be in order. The orthodox attitude towards conditions as we find them, is well expressed in that line of Alexander. 'Whatever is, is right.' I believe in a new sort of orthodoxy, which would say, practically, 'Whatever is, is wrong.' I say this because I am a thoroughgoing revolutionist. All life is an endeavor; progress is the true rule of the human race. 'Whatever is, is likely to represent past wisdom, and past experience, rather than aspiration toward the fleeing goal of the ideal that is always ahead of us.'

"We have no right to approach this or any other human question, with a closed mind. The fact that a thing has been or is, is no presumptive proof in its favor. Every institution must justify itself always."

"Democracy is a very living protest against things as they were and as they are. It is a forward moving, stimulating influence. Democracy stands for the present and the future, and regards only the individual, human unit."

"It may surprise you to hear that I am not a woman suffragist. I do believe in equal suffrage, which is a distinction with a difference, decidedly. If men were excluded from the ballot, I would not call myself a man suffragist. I should still be an equal suffragist. If I were a woman, I would not fight for the suffrage as a woman, but as a human being. I believe in democracy. Already I have indicated that that means the organization of society on the basis of respect for the individual, human unit; and before democracy, there can be no discrimination against sex, or against any more than against race, or against any other of the various groups."

"I believe firmly in votes for women. I believe in the desirability of bringing women into the civic life of the nation. I believe not so much in giving this to them as a privilege and as a right, as I believe in imposing it upon them as a responsibility."

Rabbi Fleischer said that he does not believe that voting is an inherent right, or that it is a right at all. "Privileges, social institutions, have a way of evolving out of past conditions. When we organized here in America, we were under certain obligations, one of which was that God, in his wisdom, had created the male as the superior being and the ruler of his race. Our political organization is based on the notion that we have inherited from the origin—that of male superiority. I can see no other reason for excluding women from the ballot at the beginning of our government here."

"While I hold that voting is not an inherent right, but is distributed by the powers that be, when I ask how it is distributed, I must say that it is distributed by power, and by prejudice. It is not very long since the Jews had no vote in England. Why? Simply because there was a prejudice against the Jews, which refused them the recognition of their normal human status. It seems to me that the exclusion of women from the suffrage here is distinctly comparable to that. I believe it is a fact that most men are prejudiced against women, and do not regard them actually as equals.

"While a restricted suffrage has some basis, philosophically, in an aristocracy, as in England; it has no basis, no defense, in a democracy. The ballot is the symbol of social status. We have made the male the orthodox type, and we rank women with criminals and idiots. This does injustice to our actual view of women."

"Taking up one by one the more common arguments used by the opponents of woman suffrage, the speaker answered them briefly. First, a new argument that finally all government rests on force. 'That is a recognition of inherent barbarism and brutality in the race which I, for one, will not admit. At any rate, it is no basis for a democracy. The very word democracy is suggestive of idealism. It means the government of the individual, grouped with other individuals, and undertaking to rule himself. We do not recognize force as the final resort. But suppose it were true. Not all men can fight. I, for one, would not fight, except in the last resort of national defense. I believe that war is wholesale murder. And there are hundreds of thousands of persons who feel as I do on the subject. Then there are many who would be excluded from fighting because of physical unfitness, or because of age. All of this great element are excluded from the ballot, so that actually we do seem to regard the ability to fight as a proof of right to the ballot."

"Woman's sphere is the home. That is a pathetic type of argument. You in Lowell are familiar with the fact that there are a few women outside the home. Even the women who do their own work in the home have plenty of free time, because the work of the home has been so simplified through modern improvements."

"This old phrase, that woman's sphere is the home, is pathetically suggestive of the old time when an Abbott and the contributing editor, because they do not have to face things as they are. I believe in looking at the present situation, and facing the fact."

"Women do not want the vote. I believe it is true, that if they came forward and demanded it, they would get it. But that is no argument against it. I believe that most of the slaves of the south did not want freedom. It is so sweet to be a clinging vine; I feel that few of us men would work and assume social responsibilities, if we did not have to. We are not willing to take on the responsibility, so we are not to be surprised if, after all these ages of parasitism, most women are anxious to continue in that state. But that is no argument against giving them the right, or, as I would put it, imposing upon them the responsibility of the franchise."

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Starting Thursday afternoon and for the last three days of the present week a program of high class vaudeville and motion pictures will be presented at the Opera House, afternoon and evening. The same policy that made this style of entertainment so popular at this theatre last spring will be pursued and vaudeville acts of merit and the latest prints in motion photography will be given. Performances will be given continuously every afternoon from 2 to 5, and two full shows will be given every night, starting at 7 and 8.30. Reading the bill for the three days will be seen that clever duo, Holmes and Holliston, in their latest comedy creation, entitled "Looking for Betsy," a laughable rural sketch, interspersed with singing and dancing. "Looking for Betsy," as presented by these clever actors, is said to be a sure cure for the blues, and a continuous roar of laughter from beginning to end. There will be several other big acts on the bill, together with three reels of the latest motion pictures, one of the latter being a splendid dramatic picture from the studio of the Biograph company. As a special added feature for Friday night, one of the popular amateur talent tests will be given, and an exceptionally large list of amateur talent has been arranged for. This feature of the program will be given in addition to the regular performance Friday night, and is alone worth the admission price. Owing to the length of the bill for Friday night, the performance for that evening will commence at 6.15. The prices of admission will be five and ten cents, with a few reserved seats at fifteen cents, which includes admission.

"BILLY, THE BOY ARTIST" is there a man, woman or child in all New England who has not seen at some time or other in the past few years and had a good hearty laugh over Ed Payne's famous funny cartoon series of "Billy, the Boy Artist," in the colored comic supplement of the Boston Sunday Globe? One thing is sure, and that is that there are thousands who have looked forward to their every Sunday since they first started several years ago, and it is probably no exaggeration to say that there are a great many who get the paper especially to see what new tricks Billy is playing on Prof. O. Howe Wise and Prof. I. B. Schmitt with his wison.

Absolutely Safe Storage
THE LOWELL STORAGE COMPANY has filled a long felt want in our city by building one of the largest storage buildings in New England, where every kind of Merchandise from a Diamond to a Locomotive is kept. The building is fireproof with arrangements for the storing of Furniture, Pianos and in short everything but dynamite at very reasonable rent. A person would be very foolish to sell his household goods if he was going out of town, and let them go at a great sacrifice, when he can have them stored perfectly safe with us. Come up to Jackson street and talk it over with us; we can satisfy you in every way. One floor heated for automobiles.

derful pall of paint and his handy paint brush.

There is, then, an accumulated interest of years' and hundreds of thousands of people will be pleased to know that at last theatrical managers have awakened to the possibilities of the funmaking qualities of this subject for stage purposes. Very soon now at the Opera House we shall see "Billy, the Boy Artist," as a full-fledged "comic cut" musical show with all the characters that Ed. Payne has made familiar to New Englanders. In addition to Professors Wise and Schmitt and Billy himself, there will be Clarence, Chumley, Hen, the hired man, Ruffington Leeds, Peat A. Way, Aunt Abby, Maud Goldington, Pansy Blossom, Sadie Sills, Maudie Merry, Mr. Fussy and Mrs. Fussy, and a lot more.

It is promised that "Billy, the Boy Artist," will furnish all the other newspaper cartoon plays for genuine jollity, pretty girls—all of whom will be genuine artists' models, by the way—tuneful music and scenic effects. "Billy, the Boy Artist," comes to the Opera House for three days, starting next Monday, Oct. 31st.

One of the early bookings for the Opera House is that of Gertrude Elliott, known in private life as Mrs. Forbes Robertson, as "Glad in France." Her play is a play of cheerfulness, "The Dawn of Tomorrow." Miss Elliott is just finishing a highly successful engagement at the Shubert theatre, Boston, and will be seen here supported by the same exceptional cast as seen during the Boston engagement. Miss Elliott is under the management of Messrs. Liebler & Co.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

There is always a good show at the Academy of Music, that is why you cannot get a good seat if you do not come early. Louise & Strling, Hayes & Suits, and Samuel Howard & Co., are all artists in their lines, and they are giving satisfaction. Tomorrow an entire new bill, Grant Leon & Co., The Singing Three, and Payne & Lee, will be the vaudeville offering, with new pictures. Amateurs tonight. Admission 6 and 10 cents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

If there is anybody in Lowell who has not yet heard the Glendale quartet at the Merrimack Square theatre this week, it is because they are planning to go later on. Of course, everyone wants to hear this quartet of Lowell young men, known all over the city as among the best singers in vaudeville.

Tonight the Knights of Equity and that famous organization, the Bachelor club, are going to attend the performance in a body and take a part in the proceedings.

There are lots of other good things on the program this week, too. The Scenic Stock company has one in its unusually strong presentation of a careful study in delicate sentiment and patriotism, "Corporal Brown." Madell & Corberly have a hit comedy sketch, "Miss Nina Essey," the girl with the banjo, has the daintiest instrumental act ever, and Miss May Monahan is a singer worth hearing. Excellent moving pictures are also on the bill.

STAR THEATRE

Bright, breezy burlesque with four large vaudeville acts including Marron & Marron in their Dutch specialty and Tony Cornetta, Italian comedian, being presented at the Star theatre and this week's show is the peer of all the city shows thus far.

Some fast musical numbers, in which the latest hits are introduced are a feature of the show, while the large chorus of girls has many changes of costumes to enhance the performance.

The burlesque "Casey the Piper" is a comedy riot. There are many funny situations and the singing and dancing are excellent.

Tonight there will be a special attraction in the form of a wrestling match, without an increase in price. The management has decreased the admission price afternoons to five and ten cents and it can be truly said that it's a big show for little money.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Mo Irwin, of the brilliant spirits—likewise a sister of the only May—Is headlined at Hathaway's this week. In a duologue called "At the Ball," the piece is designed to give Miss Irwin an opportunity to demonstrate her abundant talents as a comedienne. It is most amusing.

"One Christmas Eve," a comedy sketch by the king of all American playlet writers, Will Grossley, is a bundle of laughs from opening to close. Hal Davis and Miss Ives Macaulay appear in it and bring out all of the salient points.

The Gardner family, four persons, supply singing, dancing and comedy; the Zera Carmen trio are premiere hoop rollers and baton twirlers; Jack Lewis and Harry Casey render a "rah, rah" tune; Jules Harrow offers up for consideration excellent German dialect; Toki Kishi is a foot juggler of ability, and the show closes with motion pictures.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

MAYOR HOWARD

Makes an Assignment of Salary.

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Mayor Howard of Salem made an assignment of his salary for two months to S. E. Cassino, a Salem publisher, whom he owes $250.

Thus far the mayor has not collected a cent of his salary. His first week's pay was attached for his board bill. This was adjusted, and since the salary had been collected by Lewis R. Hovey of Haverhill, to whom the mayor assigned it.

The mayor has announced that he will not be a candidate again. He made a pre-election promise to give his salary for playgrounds.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Arthur M. Kane, a former school committeeman from Waverly four and Miss Mary Gard were united in marriage at the parochial residence of St. Patrick's church yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock, the ceremony being performed by Rev. John J. McHugh. The best man was Mr. Frank J. Kane, a brother of the bridegroom, and the bridemaid Miss Madeline Mahoney, a step-sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Kane left during the early evening for their honeymoon. They will reside in this city.

CO-OPERATIVE BANK DIVIDENDS

At a meeting of the directors of the Lowell Co-operative bank held last night, it was voted to declare a dividend for the past six months at the annual rate of 4 1/2 per cent. Inasmuch as the rate for the first six months was at the rate of five per cent, the average rate for the year will be 4 1/2 per cent.

The bank makes an increase in its surplus of over $1400.

The net profits the past six months are over $19,000, and it has been the best half-year in the history of the bank. Shareholders in series No. 27 will now be paid off, their shares having matured. The amount paid in on each share is $150, and the amount to be paid on each will be $204.38. There are 153 shares in the series and the total amount to be paid will be over $31,200. The number of people now holding shares in the Lowell Co-operative bank is 2160.

THE COMMON COUNCIL

Postponed Action on the Dummer Street Extension

There were 22 members present when President Jewett of the common council called to order last night. It was a regular meeting and the most important question to be acted upon had to do with the Dummer street extension. The matter was put over until the next meeting.

The council had quite a list of routine matters to consider. Petitions for street improvements were referred to the committee on streets; monthly department reports were placed on file and other matters of minor importance were properly referred.

Robert B. Crowley, through his counsel, presented claim for injury to an automobile and a notice of claim for injury was presented by Henry C. Crockett. These notices were referred to the committee on claims.

A communication calling attention to the need for $5000 for an auto police patrol was read and referred to the committee on appropriations.

George E. Worthen, superintendent of state aid, asked for an additional appropriation of $5000 for his department. The matter was referred to the committee on appropriations.

Legislative Agent is To Be Assistant Attorney General

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Benjamin F. Gibby, a well known legislative agent, or lobbyist, is the plaintiff of a suit begun in the superior court today against William H. Lewis, a Framingham shoe manufacturer, who Gibby claims owes him $10,000 for services in trying to obtain the passage by the legislature of 1907 of a bill aimed at the United Shoe Machinery Co. The legislature did pass an act modifying license of shoe machinery to shoe manufacturers and Gibby alleges that he faithfully performed his part, for which Long, he says, agreed to pay him as much money as he reasonably desired.

The defense is that Gibby has been paid in full.

Mr. Gibby, besides representing various corporations and individuals at the state house in the past ten years, has been manager of several political campaigns.

TILLES ARRESTED

Charged With Destroying Building

Abraham Tilles, about 30 years of age and a resident of Boston, was arrested in Boston today by Thomas H. Painter of the Tewksbury police and Inspector McDunn of Station 3 of Boston on a warrant charging him with "maliciously destroying a building in Tewksbury." It is alleged that Tilles sold the building in question, a summer house, and afterwards tore it down.

He was brought to Lowell this afternoon and locked up in a cell at the police station. In all probability his case will be called in court tomorrow morning.

Lightning Caused Great Damage in Pelham Last Night

Never in the history of this section of the country did lightning work greater havoc on a building than that wrought in Pelham by the electrical storm last evening.

Pelham's only store at the square was the scene of the frightful and spectacular pranks played by the fiery elements of the air and today there is but one place of interest in Pelham and that is the scene of the disaster.

The store and house with which it is connected are owned by Harry Atwood, town clerk and postmaster. It was about 20 minutes to seven that the lightning struck the store and house, and that several persons were not killed is marvelous; another of those miraculous things that cannot be explained.

Several men were in the store at the time and in the dining room of the house where the walls were thrown down. Mrs. Atwood and her five children were having supper. They were not injured.

Fire added to the horror of the occasion and it looked at one time as if the whole square was doomed. A hose was stretched from the water tank at the car station 100 yards or so away, and the heroic work of willing hands saved the square from destruction.

The ball of fire, as it was described by those who were eye witnesses, entered the house where the electric wires are located and in less time than it takes to tell it the store was a wreck, windows were blown into the street and walls and ceilings were torn away. Five rooms of the house were destroyed and a part of a gable end was torn out. A few seconds after the first shock was felt a terrific noise was heard near the well at the back of the store and upon investigation it was found that the bolt or ball had gone down beside the well where the wires are grounded. One man declared that he saw the ball of fire shoot from the house to the well.

Lewis a Hero

Guy Lewis, motorman, was the hero of the occasion. A tank containing 400 gallons of kerosene oil was located in the cellar and the cellar was on fire. Lewis knew that the oil was there, but nothing daunted, he went down with the hose.

The wooden framework surrounding the tank was then on fire and it was to the horror of the situation the tank was open. He turned the hose on the blazing framework and succeeded in subduing the flames before they had reached the oil.

In the meantime the fire was doing business in the store above but it was being gallantly fought and while Mr. Atwood's stock was practically ruined, it was due more to smoke and water than to fire. More than 30,000 gallons of water were used.

When the lightning struck the store Mr. Atwood did not know that the invader from the skies had gone to the house and when it was told him his first thought was for his wife and children. He was told, however, that they were safe and sound and he continued to fight the fire.

Mrs. Atwood said that while she and the children were seated at the table in the dining room were terribly frightened, they were not hurt. One of the walls of the room was shattered but they escaped the flying plaster and other things.

The storm was said to be the worst that had passed over Pelham in years. Old residents said today that it was the worst in their experience. The trolley and other wires seemed strung with electric lights that danced and sported fantastically.

The Shock Felt

The telephone and other wires at Mr. Atwood's store were put out of commission and in Mr. Charles Colman's house two miles away, the telephone was put out of commission and persons in the house felt the shock. This took place almost simultaneously with the thunder clap that meant disaster to Mr. Atwood's house and store. The shock was plainly felt by persons in Mr. Colman's house. There the lightning followed the wires which, like in the other instance, were grounded in the well.

Mr. Atwood's house and store describe very faithfully the appearance of some of the buildings in South Lowell at the time of the explosion there. Not the houses that were shattered to pieces but the houses that were badly wrecked.

One of the peculiar things noted in Mr. Atwood's store after the fire had done with a bunch of bananas. The fruit was hanging in the store and before the fire they were very tempting to look upon, but when the fire was over they were as black as black could be. Mr. Atwood, of course, thought that the bananas were ruined, but upon examination he found that while they had turned black they had not lost their sweetness.

Lowellites, who heard of the destruction caused by the lightning in Pelham decided to have a look for themselves and this afternoon the Pelham line was doing a rushing business. But for the tank at the power house and stables there is no telling how great would have been the loss from fire.

Struck at Willow Dale

The storm was very severe at Willow Dale. It struck Mr. John Bowers' house and also the chip house near the lake. Mr. Bowers is connected with Theatre Voyons, this city, and Mrs. Bowers was alone when the lightning struck. It came in over the transom and broke the shade on the lamp over the dining room table. Mrs. Bowers was sitting at the table and a spark from the light set fire to a napkin at her elbow. The fiery messenger went its way leaving Mrs. Bowers in darkness. She felt the shock and was somewhat frightened, but thankful that it was not worse.

In the chip house near the lake two men were engaged in making potato chips. The transoms there were blown to pieces. One of the men, thrown against the wall and the other, who had a large pan in his hands, received a shock that he will not forget for some time to come. Neither of the men were seriously hurt.

ALLEGED PICKPOCKET

Wanted in This City Was Brought From Chicago

Ernest Capasso, an alleged pickpocket who was arrested in this city by Inspector Martin A. Maher, sentenced to one year in the house of correction at Cambridge, furnished bail and defaulted, was today brought back from Chicago by Supt. Redmond Welch of the Lowell police department and Inspector Charles E. Byrne and is now occupying a cell at the house of correction in Cambridge.

The return of Capasso, as well as the systematic and energetic work which led up to his arrest, speaks well of the Lowell police department and especially Supt. Welch.

It will be remembered that Capasso and three other pickpockets were arrested by Inspector Maher, and two men whom he called to assist him, a couple of months ago. After a hearing before Judge Hendry the quartet was found guilty and each was sentenced to one year in the house of correction. All entered appeals and two furnished bail. Inasmuch as the district attorney has been bothered so much with straw ball he demanded cash bail and each man who was released pending the session of the superior court had to furnish $500 in cash.

When the superior court was in session and the cases called three of the quartet put in an appearance, Capasso being missing. The sentence of the Lowell court was confirmed by the presiding judge and three of the men are now serving one year terms at Cambridge.

Immediately after the default of Capasso, Supt. Welch sent photographs and a description of the man to the different cities throughout the United States where it was thought he would operate.

A couple of weeks ago word was received here that a man supposed to be Capasso had been arrested on suspicion in Chicago. Supt. Welch immediately phoned the head of the detective bureau of the "Windy City" to hold the man under heavy bonds until extradition papers could be made out. The man was held under $25,000 bonds which he could not furnish and Supt. Welch and Inspector Byrne were able to get him.

The story of his arrest and the different attempts to escape justice are interesting to say the least.

Capasso, who was known in this city as Frank Kelly of New York, was arrested in Chicago two weeks ago as a suspicious person. In that city the suspicious persons are placed on a platform and viewed by the criminal inspectors or detectives, the faces of the latter being masked in order that the men cannot identify them. Two inspectors, William Bush and Inspector Murphy, identified one of the men who had given his name as "James Murray" as Ernest Capasso, and notified Capt. S. B. Wood, the head of the criminal bureau.

Capt. Wood in turn notified Supt. Welch of this city and the former was told to place Capasso under arrest as a fugitive from justice and asked Supt. Welch to accompany him in order to identify the man.

Prior to the start of the Massachusetts officials habeas corpus proceedings were instituted in behalf of the defendant by Lawyers Cantwell and Gosh, two of the best criminal lawyers in the west.

Supt. Welch left Boston at 3.10 o'clock one week ago yesterday in order to be present when the case was called on Thursday. Inspector Byrne armed with extradition papers from the governor started Wednesday and arrived in Chicago on Friday. The papers had to be delivered to Gov. Dineen in Springfield, 150 miles away, and Inspector Byrne upon reaching Chicago left the business with Supt. Welch.

Supt. Welch by clever work stayed the proceedings of the case of Capasso when it was called on Thursday, and had the matter continued until Saturday in order that Inspector Byrne might return with the certified papers.

Saturday afternoon was the time designated for the hearing on the habeas corpus proceedings but Judge Maurice Kavanaugh adjourned court until Monday afternoon. When the time came for the calling of the case it was found that Judge Kavanaugh had two murderers on trial, but he decided to take into consideration the extradition of Capasso and a combined hearing was held and the court held that Supt. Welch and Inspector Byrne were armed with the proper papers and ordered that the prisoner be turned over to the Massachusetts men.

The officers, with their prisoner, left Chicago, on the Twentieth Century Limited at 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and arrived in Boston at 11.45 o'clock this morning. Inspector Byrne took the prisoner to Cambridge while Supt. Welch returned to this city.

Capasso will be tried at the December sitting of the court.

COURT ADJOURNS

The superior court was again forced to adjourn prematurely as the result of the unexpected happening.

The case of Blake vs. Rogers which came up from the land court was soon finished and goes back whence it came. The next case called was a paternity case and as it was about to go to trial counsel for the defendant stated that the jury might bring in a verdict for the plaintiff.

A second paternity case was then tried and went to the jury early this afternoon. As it was expected that these three cases would take up the entire day no other case was ready and court adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The next case in order is that of Fallon vs. Walsh, Messrs. Howland and Honessy for the plaintiff and Dunbar and Rogers for the defendant.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS

As a Result of the Furious Storm in Italy

NAPLES, Oct. 26.—King Victor Emmanuel arrived here today. The populace acclaimed the king with wild enthusiasm. To their welcome he replied: "My heart was so touched by the suffering of the people that I was unable to resist an impulse to share their misfortune and so started on a visit to the devastated region."

Cotara, 50; Vecote, 31; Majori, 20; Casamicciola on the island of Ischia, 12; Amaldi, 10; Resina, 7; Madonna Grazia, 19; Minori, 4; Lacco Ameno, 3; Montecorvino, 2; Torre del Greco, 1.

Thousands of persons are homeless and the most serious problem now is to provide these with shelter, food and drinking water. The movement of supplies is difficult because in many places the roads have been washed out. Fortunately, most of the towns requiring aid can be approached from the sea.

Admiral Leonardi, the minister of marine, had a narrow escape from death on the island of Ischia today. In attempting to get a close view of the effect of the eruption from Mount Epomeo he approached too closely the bed of the volcanic stream and sank to his waist in mud. His plight was discovered by a group of soldiers, who hurried to his rescue. Although plastered with mud, the minister refused to abandon his tour of inspection and repeatedly said to the soldiers: "Look out for the others. Don't mind me."

WILLIE ANDERSON DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—It became known today that Willie Anderson, professional golfer at the Philadelphia Cricket club and one of the most widely known exponents of the game, died here yesterday of hardening of the arteries. He was 31 years old and was born in Scotland.

Anderson leaves a widow and a little girl. Tom Anderson, his father, a famous golfer, is connected with the Montclair, N. J., golf club, and Tom Anderson, Jr., a brother, also a high class golfer, is professional at the Inwood club, New York.

70 LIVES LOST

Explosion on Board the Haitien Gunboat Liberte

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 26.—The Haitien gunboat Liberte has been lost at sea off Port De Paix, following an explosion on board. It is estimated that 70 persons were either killed or drowned. Twenty others were rescued.

News of the accident was received here today. The Liberte sailed from this port on Monday last, having on board 90 persons.

So far as known only 20 of these escaped. Among the seventy who were lost were ten Haitien generals who were on their way to take command of several divisions of troops in the department of the north. Details are lacking, the only definite information being as to the loss of life and the fact that an explosion occurred.

LEG FRACTURED

Man Fell From Seat on Wagon

John King, a teamster in the employ of Harvey W. Tarbell, the local landscape architect, while driving a team in North Chelmsford shortly one o'clock this afternoon, fell from his seat and one of the wheels passed over his right leg. The ambulance was called and the man was taken to the Lowell General hospital, where it was found that the man's leg had been broken.

HE WILL APPEAL

Counsel for Dr. Crippen to Act

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Counsel for Dr. Crippen, who was sentenced to death Oct. 22 for the murder of his wife, has decided to appeal the case.

This determination was announced at the conclusion today of a long conference between Crippen and Arthur Newton, one of his lawyers, at the Pentonville prison.

At this conference Crippen appeared to be quite cheerful and expressed great satisfaction that Miss Leneve had been acquitted of the charge as an accessory after the fact.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the New Haven Road Today

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 26.—The stockholders of the New Haven system in annual meeting today elected to increase the directorate by two members, making the total 27. They elected a board of whom the new members are T. D. Cuyler, representing the Pennsylvania, and Augustus May and Arthur Clark, the treasurer and secretary of the company respectively.

The action of the directors in putting into operation a pension system on the road which now entails a payment of $100,000 annually was approved.

CONNIE MACK TO WED

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—News of interest to fans leaked out at city hall today when it was learned that a marriage license has been issued to Connie Mack, manager of the world's champion baseball team, and Miss Katherine Hallahan, a West Philadelphia girl.

INDICTMENT DISMISSED

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The indictment against Jack Johnson, the negro champion, charging him with assaulting Norman Frazier in a cafe, was dismissed today and his bail was discharged. The complainant could not be found.

Fenwick Umpleby, principal of the Bradford Duffie Textile school, Fall River, Mass., is in the city and will attend the marriage of his youngest son, Fenwick Marshall, to Miss Maude Whitney. The professor says it has been a strenuous time for him during the last month. The registration for evening students at the Fall River school is over 1250, with an actual attendance of 1010. The day cotton class is 60 students.

6 O'CLOCK NEAR DESTRUCTION

Several of the Crew Down With Malaria—A Thrilling Story of Escape Told by Officers and the Crew

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—A thrilling tale of escape from destruction and death was told by the officers and crew of the Riplingham, a British freight steamer, which arrived late yesterday afternoon, four days late, from Mexico.

The vessel bore marks of her encounter with the West India hurricane and many of her crew were down with malarial fever. The Riplingham caught the full force of the cyclonic storm that devastated shipping in West India waters, and for three days she was practically at the mercy of wind and wave, driven hither and thither and beyond the control of the navigating officers.

The harrowing experience of the men was reflected in their careworn faces, yet they were all anxious to give credit to others of the officers and men for selfless heroism in bringing the steamer through the ordeal.

Braved Death

Several of the stokers were so ill with fever they could hardly stand, but they staggered to their posts and fought to save the vessel when their services were most needed.

Chief Engineer Dumble, Donkeyman Joseph Thompson and fireman John Robert Stafford braved death in the stoke hole when the ship was battered by the seas. They stood waist-deep in the water, keeping the fires going, while both the donkeyman and fireman were so ill with fever that they ached in every limb.

The oldest man on board the freighter said it was the worst storm he had ever seen in many years' experience. The hurricane hit the vessel 12 hours after she left Progreso and there was no letup until the afternoon of the 17th. The barometer fell to 27.40 inches, the lowest reading the officers of the ship had ever known.

The seas filled the stoke room at one time and threatened to extinguish all the fires. It was at this juncture that Engineer Dumble, with Thompson and Stafford, faced death. Second Engineer Hindmarsh, who was also ill with fever, and third Engineer Jumble assisted the chief engineer.

The ship worked in water up to their chests and they were constantly drenched to the skin.

Capt. John W. Thompson, the commander of the steamer, was nearly lost overboard. A monster sea broke on board and the captain was being swept away in the flood when Philip Cleg-horn, a colored seaman, caught him and saved him from certain death.

The Riplingham sailed from Progreso, Mex., Oct. 13, after loading about 6900 bales of sisal fibre for this city.

Hurricane signals were flying when the steamer sailed out of port, but there was no definite knowledge of its position and as the weather was fine Capt. Thompson decided to proceed.

Fear'd She'd Turn Turtle

The Riplingham had been out only a few hours when it began to blow hard and the wind increased with great rapidity from northwest. At midnight today, the day after sailing, the wind had grown to a fierce gale, and at 4 Saturday morning it was blowing with all the fury of a hurricane. The barometer was dropping steadily and every precaution was taken to weather the tempest.

All day Saturday the storm kept increasing in fury and at midnight the glass was down to 27.70. Two hours later it had dropped to 27.40, the lowest point that Capt. Thompson or any one on board had ever known.

The vessel was in the Gulf of Mexico, but her exact position was unknown to any of those on board. She was flying light, because of the nature of her cargo, and her officers were powerless to control her movements. The best that could be done was to keep her head to the sea, but it was impossible at all times to prevent her falling off into the trough of the mountainous waves, and she pitched and rolled until it seemed to those on board that the vessel would turn turtle. All the while the vessel was driven before the hurricane. The decks were a smooth place before. The lower decks were extinguished and it was difficult to keep enough of the furnaces going to make steam, on account of the intruding seas.

All day Sunday the steamer was in the grasp of the storm. Monday the wind shifted to northeast and continued to blow with equal fury from that direction. Tons of water were hurled over the bow, causing the craft to stagger and lurch heavily. One com-er tore away the companion ladder on the starboard side. Another wall of green water curled itself over the decks and thundered down on the freighter. It smashed one of the starboard lifeboats to splinters. The main hatch was crushed in and some steel girders were bent. A five-ton boom was wrenched from its fastenings and slatted back and forth, howling over ventilators, smashing deck fittings and threatening the lives of any one who ventured on deck.

Had Given Up Hope

It seemed as if the vessel would be unable to withstand the onslaught, and some of the men suffering from fever said they would have almost welcomed death as they had given up all hope.

On the night of Oct. 17, the barometer began to rise and soon the hurricane began to abate. The force of the wind died out gradually but for days the tremendous sea continued and the vessel was severely buffeted. One of the officers said that if the Riplingham had been deeply laden she would undoubtedly have foundered.

Chief Officer Ward said he never in all his seafaring career went through such an experience, and this was the sentiment expressed by nearly every officer on board.

Capt. Thompson received the commendation of all on board the ship for his courage and skillful handling of the vessel.

The cabin and officers' quarters were flooded and there was hardly a dry place of clothing on board.

Steamship interests have been anxiously awaiting the arrival of the Riplingham, as it was known that she must have encountered the full force of the hurricane. Some fears had been expressed regarding the safety of the vessel, so that her arrival, although she is badly battered, was a source of relief to all concerned.

Officers on the steamer declared last night that there was no doubt that many vessels were overwhelmed by the storm.

The officers and crew of the Riplingham were completely worn out. It is probable that some of the sick men will go to the hospital for treatment.

One of the narrowest escapes was that made by a pig, the ship's mascot, that had a little house of his own on the afterdeck. The house was carried away by the seas, but the pig was rescued.

SINGERS ARRIVE POLICE OFFICER COL. ROOSEVELT NORMAL SCHOOL DEFENDANT WINS

Mary Garden Said to be Was Rescued by a Married Woman Takes a Hand in Michigan Campaign Visited by New Hampshire Educators In Case of Carpenter vs. Boston & Maine

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—"Is Mary Garden married?" That question was asked by every one on the dock when the Kaiser Wilhelm II arrived last night with a host of singers and musicians. The reason for the question was obvious—Miss Garden was wearing a plain band of gold on the proper finger.

Miss Garden would answer no direct question herself, but she was heard to remark while some newspaper photographers were taking her picture as she stood posed on top of a trunk:

"What a position for a married woman!"

"I am wearing a wedding ring," she said. "But I can't talk about the man now. You must wait until he comes over to carry me away to his mountain fastness, and then you must corner him and ask him how it was done."

Once during the conversation she asserted that she had married a poor man.

"Oh, indeed, yes," she replied. "I never would marry a rich man."

There were rumors of a Magyar nobleman, who was immensely wealthy, but these she would not confirm. She was met at the boat by any number of friends, including her father, in whose arms she remained for at least a full minute, while she kissed him with great fervor. Afterward she held him at arm's length and exclaimed:

"Isn't he handsome, my father?"

Andrew Dippel's agent had arranged for her to take a train today for Chicago, where she is to sing this season, but she has been so busy that she has had nothing to eat but eggs and nothing to drink but ginger ale, she said. "I'm all tired out, and I can't go before Friday. I must have some rest."

Miss Garden was wearing a long velvet coat trimmed with sable and a white hat with a black aigrette. Under the coat she wore a purple velvet suit and many diamonds. Her hair is a perceptibly lighter shade. She also carried a monocle, which she used now and then. She was accompanied on the voyage by her sister Agnes. Her new parts this year will be the little role of "The Girl of the Golden West," which she will sing in Chicago, and Chicago men. After ten weeks in Chicago, she will sing in Philadelphia, and in New York at the Metropolitan Opera House every Tuesday night.

There were three tenors for the Chicago company on the boat—Charles Jones, John McCormack and Nicola Zorzi. McCormack will sing the leading tenor parts in "The Girl of the Golden West" in Chicago. Mr. McCormack said he hoped to sing the leading tenor parts in Victor Herbert's "Natoma." Gustav Mahler, the conductor of the New York Philharmonic society, arrived with Mrs. Mahler and their little girl. Mahler said he did not know whether his new symphony could be done in New York this season or not.

TYPHOID FEVER

Another Case Reported in This City

A man in New Paris, Indiana, and who evidently expects to meet Mayor McLean in heaven, has dedicated a poem to his honor. It was received by the mayor this forenoon and its verses contain strong hopes of eternal salvation for the writer and the mayor. A postscript appended reads as follows: "Though we are strangers, yet I hope we are on the way to endless bliss and happiness."

Board of Health

One more case of typhoid fever was reported at the office of the board of health this forenoon. Tomorrow night, as has already been stated, the board will give a hearing to the petitioners opposed to the erection of a beam house by the American Hide and Leather company in land off Perry street. The hour set for the hearing is 7.30.

Public Baths Committee

The city council committee on public baths will take a little outing tomorrow. The committee will go to Boston and other places where there are good public bath systems. They will meet at the depot in time to get the 12.12 p.m. train for Boston.

Mayor McLean, today, affixed his signature to the contract for the auto police patrol. It's a Thomas machine and the price is $5500.

The committee on lighting will meet at 7.30 this evening.

STREET RAILWAYS

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—The street railways of the state will distribute to cities and towns through which they run $1,128,186 assessed by the tax commissioner on the franchises for the current year. The heaviest contributors are the West End Street Railway Co. of Boston, $378,440; the Boston Elevated Railway Co. $307,300; the Boston & Northern, $109,551; the Springfield Street Railway $74,500; the Old Colony, $60,994 and the Worcester Consolidated $55,813.

Street railroads of Massachusetts are subject to three distinct taxes, local real property tax, consumption tax and franchise tax. The first is levied by the local assessors, the second is based on the gross receipts and the third is figured upon the value of the corporation franchises.

PAINFUL INJURY

MAN WAS STRUCK BY A KNIFE TODAY

John Lowe, an employee at the Pratt & Forest Lumber Co., in Fletcher street, suffered a bad laceration of the face this morning as a result of a knife flying from a moving machine at which he was working. The ambulance was called and the injured man was taken to the Lowell hospital where he received treatment. Lowe lives at 209 Middlesex street.

SECRETARY MEYER

SAYS ONLY ONE NAVAL STATION IS NEEDED IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26.—That only one naval station is needed in the south was the opinion expressed by Secretary of the Navy Meyer before his departure from New Orleans this morning for Pensacola, Fla.

"There are unquestionably too many navy yards and stations in the south," said Secretary Meyer. "I do not think there is need for more than one. Where that is to be a matter yet to be decided. It is not a question of the prominence of any city or the claim of any city. It is the efficiency of the navy which is to be considered."

TORCHBEARER WON

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 26.—The torchbearer of 107 sovereigns, for three years and up, was run here today and won by Charles Carroll of Torchbearer, Scarlet Runner was second and Pains Hill, third. Ten horses ran.

THE SUFFRAGISTS

Talked to Mill People at Noon

Four of the visiting suffragists, the Misses Carpenter, Withington, Foley and Luscombe, held a noon meeting at the gates of the Massachusetts mills today. While the operatives did not stop to listen to any speech making, the plucky suffragists succeeded in distributing a goodly supply of literature. The women were treated with respect on all sides and some of the men were heard to say that they wished they had time to stop and hear what was being said, but the mill upon hour is a short one and the inner man must be attended to.

Addressed Labor Unions

Two of the visiting suffragists, Miss Annie Withington and Miss Margaret Foley, addressed several of the local labor unions last night, including the street railway men and the building laborers. The speakers were given hearty receptions wherever they went, and they pleaded eloquently for the right of women to vote.

MATRIMONIAL

A charming October wedding of more than ordinary interest to Lowell people was solemnized yesterday at the parochial residence of St. Charles church in Woburn, when Miss Mossie Morris the talented daughter of Mr. Richard Morris a retired business man of that city, was united in marriage to Mr. Everett Cummings of Woburn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James J. Kegan, pastor of St. Charles church. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Tillie McKean of Lowell, while the groomsmen were Mr. Alding Cummings. After the ceremony the wedding party drove to the home of the bride, 14 Plympton street, where a reception to immediate relatives and friends was held. The house was tastefully decorated with autumn foliage, plants and ferns, and the young couple were showered with congratulations and good wishes. Guests were present from Lynn, Cambridge and Lowell. Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Cummings left on an extended trip for parts unknown, and will be at home Dec. 1 at their new home, 33 Huntington street, Woburn. Mrs. Cummings is a well known lady, prominent in Catholic circles in her home city, and has many friends in this city. The groom is a prosperous young business man in Woburn and also well known here.

CROKER'S DAUGHTER

ANNOUNCES SHE WILL JOIN HER HUSBAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—John J. Breen, who last spring eloped with Miss Ethel Croker, daughter of Richard Croker, and who since has been separated from her husband, has accepted the position of head groom for Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P. of Canada, and will reside at Petersburg, Ont.

Breen announces that his wife, who is now in Paris, with her mother, will return to New York in a month and will then go to Canada to live with him.

BALL PLAYER WEDS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 26.—Edward Hearne of Ventura, Cal., whose name appears on the roster of the Boston Americans as a shortstop, and Miss Marie McLaughlin of Ventura, were married here yesterday. Hearne will try to secure his release from Boston, as he wishes to sign with a coast team for next season.

DROPPED DEAD

MAN PASSED AWAY AT A DANCING PARTY

ARLINGTON, Oct. 26.—Frank Nicolai, 52 years old, of 30 Forest street, dropped dead at the dancing party of the James Ray Cole lodge, Knights of Pythias, in the Arlington auditorium last night.

Mr. Nicolai was on the floor dancing when he was stricken by a sudden illness and fell. For a moment or two there was great confusion in the hall, but the crowd was soon calmed and a doctor was called. The physician worked unavailingly to revive Mr. Nicolai, who may have died of apoplexy, but the doctor was unable to determine the cause of death last night.

CREW RESCUED

Picked Up by a British Steamer

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The captain and four men from the American schooner Florence Leland were picked up by the British steamer Commodore from New Orleans Oct. 9, for Liverpool, which passed Old Head of Kinsale today. The steamer was wrecked during the recent storms. She was owned by A. O. Gross and hailed from Deer Island, Me. She was a three-master.

HOSPITAL GUILD

TRANSACTION CONSIDERABLE BUSINESS YESTERDAY

The Young Women's Hospital Guild met yesterday and considerable business was transacted. The principal business of the meeting was a discussion relative to the taking up of the work of district nursing, and it was voted that the president appoint a committee of five to look into all questions relative to the proposed new line of work and report at the next meeting; also to confer with the Hospital Aid association to see if it is agreeable to that organization that the members of the Guild who wish to continue working for the hospital, become members of the Ladies' Aid association.

TAMMANY LEADER

Believed to be Fatally Injured

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The bursting of a tire on an automobile in which Michael Hazelt, Tammany hall leader of the 21st assembly district, was riding with a party on Washington Heights today, caused a crash in which Mr. Hazelt was hurled violently from the machine. He sustained injuries from which, it is believed, he will die.

80th BIRTHDAY

Observed by John A. Baker of
Gates Street

John A. Baker observed the 80th anniversary of his birth yesterday at his home, 58 Gates street. There was no formal observance, although during the day many of his relatives and friends called in order to congratulate him and wish him many returns of the day.

When young he worked in the print works of the A. & W. Sprague mills and in 1848 came to Lowell. He went to work in the Lowell Machine shop and remained there about two and one half years and then went to Lawrence. He later started for the gold fields of California.

He afterwards went to Wisconsin, but later came back east and located at Middleford, Me., and worked in that place until the outbreak of the Civil war, when he enlisted in the 6th Massachusetts battery with a commission as sergeant. During the battle of Baton Rouge, Sergt. Baker was severely wounded and had three bullet holes in his clothing. He was later promoted to lieutenant in recognition for his work on the battlefield.

After another visit to the west, Mr. Baker and his family located in Lowell in 1870, and remained here practically since that time. He worked in the Lowell Machine shop for several years and then ill-health caused him to take work on the outside. He remained actively engaged until a few years ago.

Mr. Baker ascribes his comparatively good health in advanced years to right living and a naturally rugged constitution. Mr. Baker's wife, two years his junior, is in good physical condition. His three children living are Ella M. Baker, and Frederick A. and Frank E. Baker, all of Lowell.

BOWLING SCORES

Local Mill Teams Contest for Honors

There were two games played in the Manufacturers league last night. One of them was a walkover and the other was a fairly close game.

In the game between the Boot and Tremont & Suffolk teams there was nothing to it but the cheering and the Boot admirers did all the cheering. It is a shame to print the score.

In the other game the Bigelow quintet put up a very good fight with their opponents, the Massachusetts team, but the latter team won two of the three points.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

NEW YORK CAMPAIGN

Roosevelt Made Several Speeches
Before Large Audiences

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The campaign grew livelier yesterday as Theodore Roosevelt traveled about central New York state. He fell all day long but at every place at which Col. Roosevelt stopped crowds gathered to cheer him. Hundreds stood in the rain to hear his outdoor speeches, and every building in which he spoke was jammed to the doors. More enthusiasm was displayed than on any of the colonel's previous days of speech-making in the present campaign. In his speeches he dwelt particularly on Rooseveltism as an issue. He told the people that some business men of the state were afraid of it. He said that any fear of him or of Henry L. Stimson, republican candidate for governor, was baseless, and that the alarm had been raised by Wall street.

Col. Roosevelt replied to John A. Dix, democratic candidate for governor, who said yesterday that the colonel had misrepresented him by saying that he had been connected with the wall paper combine.

The colonel did not make the apology that Mr. Dix demanded. He insisted that Mr. Dix had not shown that he was not connected with the trust which the supreme court declared illegal. Col. Roosevelt spoke yesterday at several cities and his speech last night was in large part an appeal to business men not to be alarmed at Rooseveltism. He began by reading the circular sent out over the names of Charles F. Murphy and the other members of the Tammany hall campaign committee. It reads:

"Tammany hall, October 7, 1910.

"Dear Sir: "The campaign upon which we have just entered is of supreme importance to the people of this city and state. More than any other campaign of years past it will affect the business and financial interests of every person within the borders of the state. The democratic party in this fight stands for tranquility and business peace, and is opposed to the wild doctrines of Roosevelt, which would unsettle the peace, disturb business and renew the panic from which the country suffered during his recent inoumbency of the presidency.

"To defeat the Roosevelt policies, however, will require, for purely legitimate expenses, a large outlay of money."

"It is a naked appeal to the power of the purse," said Colonel Roosevelt; "a naked appeal to the twin emotions of fear and greed, and a frank admission that only by a large outlay of money will it be possible to beat Mr. Stimson. This appeal from Tammany hall is in substance precisely the appeal which has been made by the great financiers who desire to obtain or retain improper special privileges. There has been a deliberate effort on the part of these business men who are crooked to mislead and frighten their colleagues who are not crooked and especially to mislead and frighten the small business man by telling him that disaster impends if Stimson is elected governor because Stimson is closely allied with me, and I am a dangerous man, and especially dangerous to business."

Col. Roosevelt said there were some honest business men who acting under the influence of this fear, "have tended to cast aside self-respect and morality and to announce that they would vote for Tammany for no matter how grave the corruption that the election of the Tammany ticket would bring about at Albany because, though Tammany might rule corruptly, business would be 'safe' under it."

It was in his Canandaigua speech that Colonel Roosevelt first took up his reply to Mr. Dix's dispute over the wall paper combine. He said Mr. Dix had announced that the Standard Wall Paper company with which he was connected was not the concern by the same name which had been part of the trust, and was not connected with it, although it bought the plant of the defunct company.

"I have no concern with the changes in internal management or organization in the Standard Wall Paper company," he added. "What I ask you to remember is the connection of that company with the wall paper trust."

He spoke of the disengagement of the combine with its subsidiary concerns, the Voligt company, which led to a suit to recover $50,000 from the subsidiary.

Saying that Mr. Dix became a director of the Standard in June, 1907, and that the final decision of the supreme court was rendered in February, 1909, Mr. Roosevelt added:

"Therefore it appears that for eighteen months Mr. Dix was a director of the Standard company. A suit was in progress in behalf of the trust in which, if the trust had been successful, the Standard company, as a competent part of that trust, would have been one of the beneficiaries of the success."

MAKES REPLY

COL. ROOSEVELT SENDS LETTER TO JUDGE BALDWIN

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt issued an open letter yesterday to Simon Baldwin, ex-chief justice of Connecticut and democratic candidate for governor of that state, in reply to Mr. Baldwin's demand for a retraction of statements made regarding him by Colonel Roosevelt in his speech at Concord, N. H., on Saturday. Colonel Roosevelt in that speech said that Baldwin stood in a retrogressive attitude toward workingmen's compensation laws. Justice Baldwin in his letter said he never had held the view attributed to him.

Col. Roosevelt's letter is, in part, as follows:

"Two or three different versions of what I am alleged to have said appear in different papers.

"What I said in substance is as follows:

"I had stated the attitude of the democratic candidate for governor in the state of New York in upholding the view that it was unconstitutional for the state to enact legislation prohibiting laboring men from being required to work an excessive number of hours under conditions which the legislature deemed unhealthy. I stated that the republican party, in contradiction to these retrogressive views, took in the strongest fashion a progressive opposition on these matters; that we held it was the right of the legislature to interfere with the conditions of labor whenever the hours of labor were so excessive that the actual hygienic conditions in any business they amounted to a menace to the health and welfare of the workman. I continued by saying that many judges in the past and some judges even in the present had held or were holding the view that legislative bodies could not interfere with what I regarded as the utterly misallied liberty of laboring men and women to contract for the performance of work under conditions which jeopardized their welfare and their lives or limbs. I continued by saying that the democratic candidate for governor of Connecticut also occupied a retrogressive attitude in this matter. I again continued, stating that we on the contrary stand for what I regard as the only proper progressive attitude, which is, that it is not competent for the workman who may be driven by dire need to accept any employment in spite of the conditions imposed upon his acceptance, to bind himself or to be bound in any way by any action of his not to be compensated if his health is damaged or if he loses life or limb in that occupation.

"You say in your letter as printed that the view of which I speak would be opposed to the settled principles of law and no competent lawyer could or would take it, and that to ascribe such a position to you is calculated to affect your standing as a lawyer. If you will turn to Mr. Alger's little volume called 'Moral Overstrain' and read the chapter in which he deals with the decisions of the courts upholding this so-called liberty of the laboring man, you will see that very many judges have taken the position, to which I object.

"I have not with me the printed transcript of one of your opinions which was handed to me prior to my making the speech in question, but if the newspaper account of your letter is correct, you hold therein that railroad employes who accept benefits from the accident insurance, which you say the railroads often style a relief department, cannot look to the company in case of accidents. If you are correctly reported by the press in this matter, hold that that position is retrogressive and not progressive. I hold that the state has absolutely the right to enact laws refusing to permit, and that existing laws should, in accordance with the opinions of very many progressive judges, be construed as not permitting any man, directly or indirectly, by any action of his own, to entice himself from his right to have a railroad or other corporation forced to compensate him for any injury done to him in the performance of his duty. If your letter is correctly quoted in the press in this matter, you hold that the acceptance of a small benefit from the accident insurance company by a railroad employe would vision him from recovering the substantial amount which he otherwise would be entitled to recover for any injury received. I hold that such a view is most emphatically not progressive.

"Very respectfully yours,
"Theodore Roosevelt."

GENERAL BIXBY
EXPECTS RESULTS FROM RIVERS AND HARBORS CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The chief of engineers of the army, General William H. Bixby, looks forward with hopefulness to the next meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors congress, which will assemble in Washington, December 7, 8 and 9. This great organization of business and public spirited men, it is expected, will conduct its deliberations as to give greater strength and prestige to the movement for an annual appropriation for American waterway improvements.

"Something I said on the subject of the important part the press could play in the work of education along this line," said General Bixby, "has been somewhat expanded, but that the press can do much good is, of course, to be recognized, and will be recognized." "The friends of a great national system of waterway improvement as members of the Rivers and Harbors congress and of the Federal congress, in his opinion, should work with a common purpose to promote legislation for the projects of the largest scope and of national importance, such as have the undisputed approval of the engineer officers as well as of the commercial interests immediately concerned."

The reports of the engineer officers upon their work for the year are now in the office of the secretary of war for his consideration and will be ready for transmission to congress at its opening.

In response to a suggestion as to what in the concrete, if he were a member of the organization, he would recommend to the Rivers and Harbors congress, General Bixby said the thing of greatest importance to be achieved was an established system of annual appropriations which should embrace the largest and most important projects, such as are of recognized general and national scope, and such as are approved by the engineer officers of the army, subordinating minor projects, until the roster projects had been completed.

Among important incidental problems to be considered were those involving upon localities and the states to do their share in the expediting of these great public works, such as providing terminals for loading and unloading craft. The general government's work is to take care of the navigation of rivers and harbors and it is at the point where local and individual business interests begin.

"The Corps of Engineers," said General Bixby, "are ready to help all they know how to bring about the consummation of an approved, economical and practical system of waterway improvement, assured and sustained by annual appropriations. Whether our sympathy and our convictions on this line will amount to a material help will, of course, depend largely upon the temper and the work of the Rivers and Harbors congress. We certainly want to help all we can."

EXAMINATIONS HELD
FOREST RANGERS

WASHINGTON, October 26.—Examinations opened yesterday morning in fourteen far western states, and in Florida, Michigan, Minnesota, and Alaska, to fill vacant positions as assistant forest rangers on the National forest. The examinations are held at national forest headquarters in 24 states in which national forests are located, except in Arkansas and Oklahoma, and will last two days.

The positions pay, at entrance, a salary of $1100 per annum. Men who enter the national forest work as assistant rangers are eligible for promotion to positions as rangers and later to the position of forest supervisor, if they are good enough. The latter position pays a salary of from $1600 up, and calls both for all-round executive ability and for a certain amount of practical knowledge of forestry. Rangers work under the forest supervisors, often with a particular district in

Do
Realize?

That despondency in women is a mental condition often traceable to some distinctly female ill!

Women who are well do not have the blues, neither are they irritable and restless. Derangement of the female organism breeds all kinds of miserable feelings such as backache, headache, and bearing-down feelings. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There is no doubt that it has made many remarkable cures of female ills after all other means had failed. There is hardly a day that some woman does not write us that this simple old medicine, made only of roots and herbs, has cured her of a severe illness.

Here are two such letters—read them—they are genuine and reliable.

Plateau, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with backache and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my catarrh is better, thanks to your advice. I will recommend your medicines to all sufferers."—Mrs. Mary Halsestead, Plateau, Pa., Box 98.

Walcott, N. Dakota—"I had inflammation which caused pains in my sides, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if any one even said 'How poorly you started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and I began to feel better and looked better before I finished the fourth bottle of medicine.'—Mrs. Amelia Dahl, Walcott, N. Dakota.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

SWINDLING GAME

Importers Said to Be Involved

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 26.—A unique swindling game, far-reaching in operation and involving prominent diamond importers, was laid bare here yesterday when J. P. Napier and W. P. Duke, from nobody knows where, were arrested on warrants sworn out by United States Postoffice Inspector Bulla of Washington and bound over by United States Commissioner Cobb for the federal court.

Duke confessed and unfolded the operations of the gang to the commissioner.

Briefly the scheme was to order diamonds from a responsible concern, C. O. D., subject to examination, substitute imitations for the real diamonds and return the shipments to the importers with some flimsy excuse as to flaws in the stones. Both men were held in $2500 each.

THE ACQUITTAL OF MISS LENEVE

In the acquittal of Miss Ethel Leneve, the London court showed its spirit of fairness. It was quite plain that Miss Leneve had been lured on by the wily doctor until she became infatuated with him. It is likely also that at first he represented himself as single or about to be divorced so that there was no reason why Miss Leneve should suspect him of murder until she learned of it after the fact from himself. Anyhow there was sympathy in the court and throughout the country for Miss Leneve and there was little apparent effort to bring forward damaging evidence against her. The evidence was not sufficient to prove her guilty beyond a reasonable doubt and, therefore, the jury acquitted her as promptly as it had convicted Dr. Crippen.

THE SHEDD PARK LAND

The deeds for the Shedd park land estimated to be worth $50,000 have been passed and recorded. The land is now owned by the city and the work of development may be started at any time. There is a portion of the land that can be converted into a skating park in the winter at a trifling expense. That would be a great attraction to the young people and one that would save lives, for there are nearly as many drownings through the thin ice in winter as there are in the canals and ponds of the hunted bathers in the summer time. Mr. Shedd who has made this magnificent gift to the city is deeply interested in the development of the park land and we believe would assist the city in any practical scheme, provided the work be undertaken in a business like way by the city council.

The park when developed and made one with the already Fort Hill park, will be one of the best in the country. The gift of such a valuable tract of land to the city for park purposes, makes Freeman B. Shedd, the donor, one of the city's foremost benefactors. His example is worthy of emulation by those who wish to leave a monument that will live for generations in the hearts of the people. The Shedd park with its magnificent gateway will be the grandest monument reared to any Lowell citizen with perhaps the single exception of the Ladd and Whitney monument raised to the memory of the protomartyrs of the Civil war.

REVOLT AGAINST ROOSEVELT

It appears that many New York republicans are organizing a revolt against the dictatorship of Col. Roosevelt. Business men, bankers and manufacturers regard him as a dangerous man and are preparing to elect the democratic candidate for governor just because they believe that the election of the republican candidate would mean the nomination of Roosevelt for president in 1912. This revolt is led by members of the old guard that were beaten at Saratoga.

The defection from the republican ticket in New York for this reason is statewide and it is alleged that it will grow until election day. The men who believe in state sovereignty, and in the supremacy of the courts are also getting in line to oppose Roosevelt. His attacks upon the courts constitute one of his worst faults. In a man of such distinction it is necessary that he should set an example of respect for the courts instead of undertaking to denounce certain decisions as unjust and unwarranted.

The vote of New York state fluctuates more perhaps between the two great parties than that of any other state. It was higher for Taft in 1908 than for any presidential candidate since McKinley's first election in 1896. It may be high for the democratic candidate this year and low for his opponent, but whether it will be equally high for the democratic candidate for president 1912 depends upon circumstances which cannot be foreshadowed at this time.

The manner in which Col. Roosevelt is getting into conflict with some of the most eminent men in the country; tends to show that were he again elevated to the high position of president he would use his great power with more recklessness than he did during his first term.

TO CLEAN THE LOWER CONCORD RIVER

For some time past a great many people have been asking how the condition of the lower Concord river could be remedied. It appears that under chapter 505 of the acts of 1909 the state board of health has the authority to prevent the Concord from becoming a menace to public health which it has been for the past year or two. The act referred to is as follows:—

Chapter 505 of the Acts of 1909.
An Act Relative to the Sanitary Condition of the Merrimack River and its Tributaries.

Section 1. The state board of health shall at such times as it may deem proper examine the bed, banks, and waters of the Merrimack river and of streams tributary or adjacent thereto in any city or town bordering upon said river or streams. Whenever the board shall determine that the condition of said river or streams or of the banks thereof is injurious or dangerous to public health, or likely to become injurious or dangerous to public health, by reason of the entrance of sewage or of refuse from factories or from other causes, said board shall prepare a plan or plans for removing the cause of such injury or danger, and shall report the same to the general court.

Approved June 16, 1909

The Concord is not a tributary of the Merrimack, but nevertheless it would seem that this act would empower the state board of health to take such action as will prevent the lower river from becoming an open cess pool. The local board does not seem to take any notice of the unsanitary condition of the Concord.

If the Locks and Canals company had charge of the Concord, as it has of the Merrimack, it would at least prevent the stream from being choked with filth and sewage until it is a menace to the health of the residents in the vicinity.

The lower Concord is not nearly so bad now as it usually is in hot weather, but for the greater part of the year, especially when the water is low, it is a nuisance that should be abated.

Woman Flees From Nurses to End Her Life

WESTON, Oct. 26.—Suffering from an unbalanced mind, Ethel Hardestie, 26 years old, a member of a wealthy and prominent New York family, who for some time had been a patient at a sanitarium in this town and in Waltham, committed suicide about 6:30 last evening by throwing herself in front of an express train of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad near the Kendall Green station.

Quite as mysterious as the sensational death of the young woman were the efforts of everybody in any way connected with the affair to keep the facts from becoming known. The police officials of the town, railroad officials, the undertaker who took charge of the body, the physicians, employees of Grabbington lodge, where Miss Hardestie had been a patient for the past few weeks, and all others were rescued when a fire broke out in the cellar of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob last night. There were 165 old women and men in the home and in an annex were 80 old men. None of the inmates was less than 65 years old and but few were able to make their way to the street without assistance.

Mrs. Esther Davis, who is reported to be 115 years old, was one of the first rescued by two policemen, who carried her down the stairs. The fire loss is small.

That she was a victim of suicidal mania before she escaped from her guard is the belief of a number of persons in town for she must have walked directly to the railroad tracks of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine railroad, not half a mile distant as soon as she fled the sanitarium.

No one could be found in the vicinity of the Kendall Green railroad station who would admit having seen the woman previous to her death, but it is thought that she must have visited the station, crossed the platform and then waited down the tracks a short distance to where she waited for the express train to come in sight. Her body, badly mangled, was found beside the tracks some distance from the station.

The body was taken in charge by Chief of Police E. J. McLaughlin, who removed it to his premises, and Medical Examiner George West was notified and viewed the remains.

It was learned last night that during her stay at Grabbington lodge Miss Hardestie at times appeared to be quite rational, while at other times her condition bordered on the violent forms of insanity.

It was learned from New York City last night that on June 17 last an Edith Hardestie, daughter of Frank Hardestie of the firm of Hardestie & Prew of that city, and living at the Hotel Regent, attempted to commit suicide, by throwing herself under a subway car in New York. On that occasion she would-be suicide escaped unhurt.

Aged People Taken From Burning Building

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Three women and one man, each reputed to be more than 100 years old, were among those rescued when a fire broke out in the cellar of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob last night. There were 165 old women and men in the home and in an annex were 80 old men. None of the inmates was less than 65 years old and but few were able to make their way to the street without assistance.

Mrs. Esther Davis, who is reported to be 115 years old, was one of the first rescued by two policemen, who carried her down the stairs. The fire loss is small.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Lightning Struck Church in Saco, Me.

SACO, Me., Oct. 26.—A terrifying electrical storm swept over Saco last night, the lightning striking the steeple of the School Street Methodist Episcopal church and the home of Fred C. Bradbury, shocking a maid in the kitchen and knocking down two people passing the house.

Firemen fought the flames on the church steeple by running lines of hose into the belfry but found the work difficult and much damage was done by water to the church interior. The flames were stopped half way down the steeple.

The electric lights in many parts of the city were extinguished by the storm.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

The recent introduction of Cadum by a chemist, has attracted considerable notice, because it has benefited so many obstinate cases of eczema, and other skin affections. Its success has been little short of wonderful. The itching of eczema stops with the first application, a cure, even in stubborn cases, being sometimes effected in two or three weeks. Herpes, pimples, rash, acne, blotches, and all other skin eruptions, are relieved by Cadum. A single night's use. Cadum is sold by all druggists at 10c and 25c per box.

RIFLE PRACTICE

Marine Corps Finished Second to Infantry

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—The action of the national board for promotion of rifle practice in restoring the U. S. Marine corps to second place in the great national team rifle match, which was shot at Camp Perry in August, has met with very general approval in the rifle world, although under the plan of classification of the teams the decision will change several teams from one class to another. In the shooting the Marine corps finished second to the United States Infantry with a score of 3130, the infantry score being 3180. The U. S. cavalry followed with 3115, Iowa had 3115 and the U. S. navy 3111. All of these teams were shooting in Class A in which two trophies and four cash prizes are given, with medals to the members of each team, the first prize being the national trophy presented by congress. The skirmish run is the last stage of the match and generally speaking the final standing of the teams depends greatly on their shooting at skirmish. For some years past the U. S. Marine corps has devoted a great deal of time and money to rifle practice, its latest effort in the direction of improving its shooting, and with an eye toward capturing the national trophy, being the establishment of a modern up-to-date rifle range on the Potomac river near Washington. The efforts of the Marine corps to capture the prize and their aggressiveness in defeat as well as in incident victories and their readiness to help competitors in every possible way has gained for the officers and men an enviable reputation and standing in the shooting game. On the last day of the national match the Marine corps team had just started in on its skirmish run. As the first shots were fired at 600 yards Lieut. Randolph Coyle, U. S. M. C., who was team spotter, and who was seated behind the line looking at the targets through a telescope, sprang to his feet and in an excess of enthusiasm over the good shooting being done by the members of the team said: "You boys are doing it!"

By this Lieut. Coyle meant that the Marine corps' skirmishers had gauged the direction and velocity of the wind correctly as evidenced by the accuracy of their shooting. Through the telescope he could see the holes in the targets made by their bullets, which were invisible to the members of the team.

The rules governing the national matches are the strictest that can be devised to insure fair play and they are vigorously and impartially enforced. One of these rules forbids all coaching and penalized the Marine corps by eliminating their score of 1032 points made on the skirmish run. He did this with great reluctance as it seemed most unjust that a team whose excellent shooting entitled it to second place should be dropped clear to the foot of the list through an indiscretion of a non-shooting member. The elimination of the Marine corps gave the Cavalry second place, Iowa, third, and U. S. Navy fourth place. The Cavalry team, however, believing that an injustice was being done to the Marine corps team, filed a protest with the president of the national board for the promotion of rifle practice, against the action of Col. Evans. It was what in court might be termed a "friendly suit." The national board being the body which makes the rules for the national matches under the approval of the secretary of war, was therefore convened in a special session and acting on the protest a statement from Col. Evans and the testimony of several members of the board who had been present at the time, reversed the decision of the executive officer and gave the Marine corps team credit for its score in the skirmish run. This placed the Marine corps second but eliminated the Navy team from the list of prize winners in Class A.

One of the reasons which actuated the board in restoring the Marine corps to its proper place was the fact that had it been left at the bottom of the list it would have been pitted against the other teams in Class C at the next annual tournament, which teams it easily outranks. The practical effect would be to deprive these teams of any opportunity to win the first prize in their class which is the Soldier of Marathon, accompanied by $300 in cash. At the matches last year the Naval Academy team was penalized for an infraction of the rules which dropped them from Class A to Class B. This year, their excellent shooting placed them in sixth place in Class A and incidentally they carried off the first prize in Class B, which is the time-honored Hilton trophy, together with $500 in cash.

character. He desires especially to call the attention of the public to the great importance of this problem. The neglected child is a far more fundamental and important difficulty than the delinquent child, because neglected usually leads to delinquency. A large portion of the truants are found to be neglected children. Another serious problem to be considered at the conference will be in connection with the section on cooperation on Friday afternoon. The special topics of cooperation in the community for the children, and for the public health, will be presented in detail. Miss Frances G. Curtis, a member of the state board of charity and chairman of this section, will discuss the general problem of mutual help between public and private agencies. Mrs. H. D. Sleeper of Northampton, Dr. H. Lincoln Chase of Brookline and Miss Ida M. Cannon of the social service department of the Massachusetts general hospital will be the principal speakers.

In Charge of Local Marine Of Andover Association Held at Recruiting Station Lawrence Yesterday

Sergt. T. C. Thompson, the subject of this sketch, is in charge of the marine recruiting station, that is located on the second floor of the Runcles building, Merrimack square, and he says that the marine corps is a branch of Uncle Sam's service that seems to be little understood by our young men. He allows that as they pass along the street they are deceived by the similarity of the marine corps poster to that of the army. He says they pass the posters by with a careless glance and do not stop to investigate.

"If they would stop and read the posters and seek further information," said Serg. Thompson, "they would discover what the marine corps really is, and the advantages that they could enjoy in their four years' of service therein. The corps is a fine body of infantry about ten thousand strong, which is liable for service all over the world, on board of our ships or war and in our foreign possessions. They are at times liable to service with the army also.

"A young man enlisting in the Marine corps has the advantage of seeing foreign countries and their people, of traveling about the world in a comfortable man-of-war where conveniences for seafaring men in these modern times are of the best. Our ships are comfortable, clean and healthful. The best of care is taken of the health of the men; they live exceedingly well, there is plenty for them to eat of the best of food, carefully watched over and inspected by the surgeons. The drinking water is distilled on board and no water is more wholesome than distilled water.

The marine gets a yearly allowance of clothing from the government, amounting to the following: Sergeant-major, quarter-master-sergeant $102.20 for the first year, and $51.10 for the second, and succeeding years; first-sergeant, gunnery sergeant $98.55 for the first year, and $51.10 for the second and succeeding years; sergeant, corporal $49.90 for the first year, and $47.45 for the second and succeeding years; private $37.00 for the first year and $43.80 for the second and succeeding years. If allowance of clothing is not used up by the man, (and by being careful of his clothes he can always save it), he gets at the end of his enlistment.

SERG. T. C. THOMPSON

ment, the value in cash from the government, for undrawn clothing. His pay is as follows:

Pay Table
Sergeant-major, $45 per month, for first three years, and an increase of $4 for every enlistment up until the seventh. First-sergeant, quarter-master-sergeant and gunnery-sergeant $45 per month, for first three years, and an increase of $4 for every enlistment up until the seventh.
Sergeant, $30 per month for the first three years, and an increase of $2 for every enlistment up until the seventh.
Corporal, $21 for first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh.
Private, $15 for first three years, and an increase of $3 for every enlistment up until the seventh.

Mr. Thompson has served for seven years. He says he went into the corps because he desired to see something of the world, and he had the intention of seeking promotion.

At the outbreak of the Russian Japanese war he was one of 100 marines guard the American legation at Korea. He saw the first engagement of the war and later he was attached to the service as acting clerk to the United States minister.

Later on he spent two years in Panama, and was then ordered to headquarters in Washington upon clerical work. He had been promoted upon recommendation of his superior officers as a reliable, conscientious marine and that is why he was made a recruiting sergeant.

Estimates on all kinds of jobs, large or small, at 47 Andover street.

The Andover Association of Congregational churches and ministers held its fall conference yesterday afternoon and evening in the South church, Lawrence, with a large attendance.

The conference was distinctly a layman's meeting, although the clergy were in evidence and addressed the gathering at times.

The conference was called to order at 2:45 o'clock by Rev. Frank G. Alger of Lowell. Following this John A. Osgood of this city led devotional exercises.

Rev. Owen H. Gates of Andover then read his reports of the last meeting as secretary-treasurer. Unfinished business was reported upon.

"Work Among the Aliens," was the subject of Justin E. Varney of Lawrence. He recommended following the lines laid down by the Russell Sage foundation.

Rev. A. Frederic Dannels appeared for the committee on systematic giving. He said that the committee had been doing much work and referred to the conference which was held several months ago. As a result of that conference it had been decided to adopt a sliding scale of apportionment for the various churches.

For churches with expenses of $2000 or under, 10 per cent. would be asked for benevolent work for churches with expenses of over $2000, 15 per cent. would be asked. However, the condition of each individual church would be taken into consideration.

Mr. Dannels said that churches of the conference should give $21,000 for benevolent work. In view of the fact that the benevolences of the section have been far under that, the state committee will ask for but $14,500. The speaker representing this committee, favored the raising of about $8000 under that sum. The amounts to be raised by Congregational churches in Lowell and vicinity were as follows: Lowell, Pawtucket, $300; First church, $650; First Trinitarian, $650; Elliot, $875; Kirk Street, $1500; High street, $650; Highland, $225; French, $35; Swedish, $30; Dracut, First Church, $40; Central Church, $30; Tewksbury $150 and Tyngsboro, $50.

Following the reading of the apportionment there was brief discussion. It was voted to accept the report as progressive.

Rev. C. H. Oliphant of Methuen, reported for the committee on ministerial standing.

The application of Rev. James E. Greer that he be a member in good standing in the association was acted favorably upon. Rev. T. G. Langdale, formerly of Tewksbury but now of Salem, formally asked for the certificate of transfer. This was voted.

Rev. Mr. Gates read a resolution to the effect that there be no printed report of statistics of the district this year, but that the statistical secretary bring a report in full at the meeting to be held in Haverhill. It was voted to refer the matter to the business committee.

Rev. Mr. Gates said the state secretary asked for six cents per member during the year.

The open forum started at the conclusion of the business session and the first speaker was Norman T. Wilcox of Lowell, who spoke interestingly on the subject: "Methods of Providing for Church Expenses."

Justin E. Varney of Lowell spoke on

REV. T. G. ALGER
Who Presided

"The Relation of the Pastor to Church Expenses," a warm discussion relative to the business methods or lack of them that prevail in some of the churches. Among the speakers were Rev. Mr. Oliphant and Rev. Sarah Dixon of Tewksbury. Henry A. Smith of Lowell spoke on "Why Does the Church Maintain a Sunday School?"

Rev. M. Victor Bigelow and Rev. Allan C. Ferrin, both of Lowell, discussed this subject, after which adjournment was made.

Prof. Eliza H. Kendrick of Wellesley

AT THE BAZAAR

Storm Failed to Interfere With Its Success

The second night's festivities at the Sacred Heart parish bazaar were fully as enjoyable as those of the previous evening, and while the lightning raged and the thunder roared and the rain poured, their combined disturbances failed to interfere with the success of the bazaar, and a remarkably large gathering for such a night was present.

The stage entertainment, as previously announced, was carried out with success, while the sales tables and other attractions, including the pretty girls with the inevitable "chance" book did a land office business. The "Duck Ring" was again a centre of attraction and the original rubber-necks were kept on the duck all evening.

The entertainment was under the auspices of the school alumni and was personally directed by Rev. Sister Joseph of the Sisters of Mary. Rev. James Quinn, O. M. I., pastor of St. Mary's church at San Antonio, Texas, who is in town on a visit, was a welcome visitor at last evening's festivities. Fr. Quinn at a recent meeting of the alumni was elected an honorary member.

Mayor Meehan will be the guest of honor at this evening's festivities.

Tomorrow evening will be Hibernian night, and the members of the local divisions of the A. O. H. will assemble at their hall at 7.30 and will march in a body to the bazaar headed by the O. M. I. Cadets' field music. It will be distinctively an "Irish" night, and an appropriate musical program will be presented.

Friday evening will be Knights of Columbus night, the local council having accepted the invitation of its chairman, Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M.

I, to attend. It is expected the knights will turn out in large numbers and the talent of the council of which there is an "abundance" will furnish an impromptu entertainment.

One of the features of the bazaar is the publication of a daily paper known as the Alumni Journal, devoted to the bazaar. Its headliner is a serial story entitled "A Defective Story," abounding in wit and humor and of anonymous origin.

The curates of the parish, Rev. John P. Flynn, Rev. Bernard Fletcher, and Rev. Jas. T. McDermott, are all hustling to make the bazaar a great success and they have aroused great enthusiasm among the parishioners.

THE TALENT LOST

Hard Hit at the Races at Hills Grove

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 26.—Only two races were started yesterday at Hills Grove and only one was finished, the 218 pace being held over until today after five heats.

The judges made a very unpopular decision in this event when they disallowed Syka Direct, a top-heavy favorite, in the third heat. The daughter of Deveras was heavily played to win from the very first, being the choice against the field.

She finished third in the first heat, but won the second so easily that it seemed she could not lose the race. She was leading at the upper turn the first time around in the third heat when Jerry Jr. fell, throwing his driver, Warman.

When Syka Direct passed the stand it was seen her inside sulky wheel was broken. Dodson pulled up at the lower turn, while the field swept by, Molly J. winning. There was a question whether Jerry Jr. interfered with Syka Direct when he fell, and the broken sulky was taken to the judges' stand for examination.

The frame was broken on the inside near the wheel, and there was no evidence that the sulky had been struck.

The judges on this evidence, or lack of it, refused to place the favorite, their decision proving a heavy blow to the backers of the little mare.

With Syka Direct out of it, Molly J. winner of the third heat, was boosted and sold well against the field. She failed to show in the fourth heat, however, and the choice again shifted, falling on Ben Hur, who romped home with the heat. Billy Patten, who captured the first heat, looked good to win the fourth also, but Ben Hur caught him at the three-quarters and went by him as if he were standing still.

It looked easy for Ben Hur to capture the fifth heat also, but The Islander handed the talent a severe jolt by making a furious finish and just nosing out Ben Hur. Although he had been pacing in good form, no one expected The Islander to come through and win, and his victory was a big surprise.

The finish was by far the best of the day, both drivers playing the whip furiously as they came down the stretch peck and neck. Ben Hur remains favorite in this race and should take two straight heats today. Four horses, Ben

Deceiver was a good second choice before the race started, but, as last week, he failed to show anything, and was drawn after finishing eighth and ninth.

The card for today includes the free-for-all trot, 2:20 pace and 2:15 trot. Fort Orange Lad opened favorite in the 2:20 trot, and was well supported until after the second heat, when it was the field against Alice Victor. Director Todd won many supporters when he went out and captured the first heat, but Crozier with Alice Victor grabbed the other three.

Flying Feet, a well played second choice before the race, made a good showing, being placed once and finishing third twice. He took third money. Many of the drivers here alleged unfair treatment in starting, and claim the pole horse is rarely protected. They say that visiting drivers and owners are discriminated against. The spectators also are wearied by too long waits between heats, which draw out the racing and force some events to go over.

No one at the track seems to know whether a meeting will be held at Nashua next week or not, but doubt is expressed about the entry list being sufficiently large. The summary of yesterday's racing:

INFLAMMATION MADE HER ALMOST CRAZY

Finally Used Cuticura and Was Completely Cured.

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled in my limb, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a roster which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief at any time, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there. I used all the medicines that I could see but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my case to my friends they all got really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope. I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times but could not make up my mind to buy them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with a similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. ### HORSE BRINGS $30,000

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—Jack Atkin, the horse known as the handicap king because of the large number of races of that description he won, was sold yesterday for $30,000.

This ends the racing career of one of the best thoroughbreds in the country and the best racer ever foaled in Missouri. His purchase yesterday was at the biggest price paid for an old horse in several years. He will be retired at once to the stud.

BOB VEAL TRAFFIC

DR. ROWLEY SAYS IT HAS BEEN STARTED UP AGAIN

BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Dr. Francis H. Rowley, president of the M. S. P. C. A. and the American Humane society, issued a statement yesterday in which he charged that the traffic in new-born calves from New York into Massachusetts has begun again. Last Saturday night, he said, agents of his society learned that a car of crated calves was on its way and the agents were in Watertown when the car arrived.

The car, he says, contained 84 calves. Of these, seven were dead upon arrival, according to Dr. Rowley. One, which was dying, was killed immediately, and the smaller ones were slaughtered in the slaughter, as they were weak and exhausted.

Between Saturday night and Monday morning, upon the insistence of the society's agents, he says, those calves which survived the trip were fed, but on Monday 10 were killed to end their suffering.

There were 42 alive when the U. S. inspectors, with Dr. Ryder, head of the department, arrived, according to Dr. Rowley's statement. They condemned as unfit, because of exhaustion or immaturity, 40 of the survivors. Of the 84 which were sent from New York, Dr. Rowley says, only two passed inspection as fit for food.

Dr. Ryder told Mr. Rowley that in his judgment the majority of the 84 calves were from two to five years old.

CAMBRIAN NATIONAL GLEE SINGERS COMING

The twelve Welsh glee singers will be here Thursday evening as the first number in the Y. M. C. A. star course at the First Congregational church. Mr. Richard Thomas, Mr. John Stephens and Mr. John Jones are the first tenors; Mr. Luther Davies, Mr. William Richards, the second tenors; Mr. Aneurin Morris, Mr. George Thomas, first basses; and Mr. William Lewis, Mr. Gwilym Tom, Mr. Nalun Francis, the second basses. Mr. David Lewis the chief accompanist, and Mr. Alfred Thomas is the reader. He is called the Welsh Harry Lauder.

Such seats as are not sold to course ticket holders will be on sale Thursday at the Y. M. C. A. and at the concert.

PANORAMIC SCENES FROM ST. FRANCIS HOTEL

COPYRIGHT, 1906 BY PILLSBURY PICTURE CO.

SAN FRANCISCOPOST STREET FROM KEARNY STREET,
SAN FRANCISCODOWN POWELL STREET FROM POST STREET, SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, the wonderful metropolis of the Pacific coast, is truly a magic city. Practically wiped out by the great conflagration of 1906, when $500,000,000 in property was reduced to ashes in three days, it stands today proud in its splendid rehabilitation, majestic and magnificent, a miracle of reconstruction wrought in four short years, grander and more beautiful than ever and showing in every line and tower of the mammoth skyscrapers that crowd and adorn its business section glowing evidence of the indomitable spirit and exhaustless energy of its people.

Filled with justifiable pride in the successful accomplishment of this great work, the builders of this magic city now propose to hold a great international exposition in 1915 to celebrate the consummation of that other wonder of constructive genius, that companion miracle of twentieth century achievement, the completion of the Panama canal, the most stupendous engineering feat in the history of the world.

The City Rebuilt.
San Francisco has been rebuilt, but the great work still goes on. More than $200,000,000 has been expended in the construction of splendid buildings and an additional $100,000,000 has been expended in various municipal improvements. The hundreds of millions of dollars in personal property that went up in smoke in that fateful April catastrophe cannot be brought back, but the people have forgotten that loss in the realization of the increased prosperity, present and prospective, for which they have struggled with almost superhuman energy and with splendid intelligence.

Pacific international exposition in 1915 will be the realization of an entrancing dream, the fulfillment of a golden promise and a glorious monument to those whose initiative, genius, enterprise and self sacrifice made possible the consummation of an idea worthy of a people truly great.

Seeks No Government Money.
In the fulfillment of its desire to hold an international exposition which shall excel in magnificence and true greatness anything of the kind ever before attempted San Francisco has asked congress for official recognition. It makes no plea for financial assistance—that is not the California way. It asks only that congress shall say that San Francisco, because of its location, its climate and the proved ability of its people to accomplish great things, is the most desirable site for the proposed exposition and to lend the authority and prestige of governmental sanction to the invitations which will be sent to all foreign governments, asking them to send exhibits.

Many Millions Pledged.
As an earnest of its intentions San Francisco, backed by California, announces a fund of $17,500,000 to finance the proposed exposition. Of this amount more than $7,000,000 has been subscribed by the citizens of San Francisco, $4,089,000 being pledged in two hours at the first meeting held for that purpose; $5,000,000 will be contributed by the state and $5,000,000 more by the city of San Francisco, the necessary authorization having been granted by the state legislature in special session. But this $17,500,000 is only the nucleus. San Francisco guarantees a $50,000,000 show, and San Francisco has a habit of making good.

San Francisco is not alone in its desire to celebrate the completion of the gigantic artificial waterway that is to connect the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, thereby providing a short cut for the commerce of the world from the ports of Europe and the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific coast and the orient. New Orleans also aspires to that honor, and its citizens, backed by the state of Louisiana, are making strenuous efforts to secure the official indorsement of congress for the Crescent City as the exposition city.

First in the Field.
San Francisco was first in the field and to the unprejudiced mind must be recognized as having the strongest claim for the coveted honor. It is ideally located, has a magnificent harbor, a perfect climate, unrivaled hotel accommodations and a whole souled, generous population, noted the world over for its progressiveness and lavish hospitality. Moreover, it has the money necessary to finance an exposition of a size commensurate with the importance of the event which it is proposed to celebrate and the energy and ability to make that exposition an artistic and financial success.

New Orleans bases its claim to congressional recognition mainly on the fact that it is nearer the center of population and more convenient to visitors inhabiting the Atlantic coast and Mississippi valley regions. New Orleans believes that nearness to the center of population insures success.

That theory is an exploded fallacy, as shown by the four international expositions that have been held in the United States since expositions became fashionable—the first at Philadelphia, on the Atlantic seaboard, in 1876; the second on the Mississippi, at New Orleans, in 1884; the third in the Mississippi valley region, at Chicago, in 1893; the fourth on the Mississippi, at St. Louis, in 1904. All received government aid. New Orleans received a loan of $1,000,000 (which has never been paid), subsequently $800,000 was appro-riated for a government exhibit, and later $350,000 additional was appropriated to pay the debts of the exposition. New Orleans was then as much a center of population as it is today. New Orleans, backed by the state of Louisiana, proposes to raise a fund of $8,000,000 to finance its proposed exposition, less than half the amount of the San Francisco Panama-Pacific exposition fund.

Backed by All the West.
All California and the entire west are back of San Francisco—and the west makes no fallacies. The Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland, the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition at Seattle and the midwinter fair at San Francisco all prove this. No government appropriation to finance the Panama-Pacific exposition will be asked—government recognition only is expected. The west never does things by halves. It proposes to make this exposition the greatest affair of its kind in the world's history.

San Francisco can accommodate the fleets of the world in its magnificent harbor, and a monster marine spectacle, which will be participated in by the assembled warships from all the maritime nations of Europe, Asia and South America, will be one—and not the least attractive—of the features of the Panama-Pacific exposition.

San Francisco is the largest city west of St. Louis and Chicago, the central port of all the Pacific coast between Panama and Puget sound, the greatest trade and shipping point in all the region between the Mississippi and the Pacific, between Canada and Mexico, a region comprising more than two-thirds of the area of all the United States and which will be more vitally affected by the completion of the Panama canal than any other section of the country.

Ten transcontinental railroads now reach San Francisco, and each of these roads will bring thousands of visitors to the exposition. These visitors will be allowed stop-over privileges at various points to enable them to visit the many famous places in the west, such as the Yellowstone park, Grand Canyon of the Colorado, the Yosemite, Mount Shasta, Lake Tahoe, the big trees, the missions, reclamation projects, orange groves, gold mines, oil fields, orchards, flower farms, the glaciers of southern Alaska, the pearl fisheries of La Paz and Guaymas and the volcano in the Hawaiian Islands.

Steamships from the Atlantic coast ports and from Europe will bring untold thousands, coming through the Panama canal, thus affording a splendid opportunity for the tourists to see the great ditch and obtain a fuller appreciation of the gigantic engineering feat that stands head and shoulders above any other achievement of man in the history of the world.

Expositions have their business end and should be held during the summer months, because 80 per cent of the people take their vacations in the summer. It is well known that California's winter climate, balmy as it is, cannot compare with its summer climate, the summer temperature averaging 59 degrees, only 7 degrees higher than the winter mean. Travelers in the summer go north, not south.

What Fra Elbertus Says.
Elbert Hubbard (Fra Elbertus) has this to say in the Denver Post about the Panama canal and the proposed Panama-Pacific exposition, with which San Francisco proposes to celebrate its completion:

"The Panama canal will be the actual realization of the short passage to India, sought by sailors and navigators for centuries. The building of the Chinese wall is the only engineering feat in history that actually rivals it.

"To commemorate this mighty achievement is worthy of our highest, noblest and most dignified efforts. No Mardi Gras carnival, with its dancing clowns, prancing nymphs and showers of confetti, will suffice.

"Archimedes, who invented and held a patent on the lever, said:

"Give me a place upon which to stand and I will move the world."
"San Francisco has a lever, and she has a place upon which to stand. She has moved the world to admiration for her recovery from calamity, and she will now, with the help of the world, give the world the greatest object lesson in science, economics, art and industrial betterment that it has ever seen.

"She has the money, the location, the climate, the water, the sunshine, the men and women, the willing brain and the strong and helpful hands.

"San Francisco now asks congress for official permission to invite the world to come to her house party in 1915.

"San Francisco does not ask Uncle Sam for either an appropriation or a loan.

"All she asks is for his smile and nod of recognition."
"San Francisco has now pledged and at her command $17,000,000 to finance the Panama World's exposition. That is a larger sum than any world's fair ever had, and the Centennial exposition only had about one-fourth as much.

"San Francisco—1915."
Some idea of the relative wealth and ability of California and Louisiana to finance an international exposition of the scope and importance of the one proposed may be obtained from a study of the following figures, which are taken from the report of the national monetary commission, and, except as noted, relate to April 28, 1909:

COMPARATIVE BANKING STATISTICS RELATIVE TO CALIFORNIA AND LOUISIANA.

Items	California	Louisiana
Population June 1, 1908	1,732,000	1,642,000
Capital of all banks	$99,967,809.32	$2,958,800.00
Individual deposits	$67,135,799.00	$0,504,530.00
Average per capita	327.47	55.12
Total resources of	$42,959,380.00	$158,942,502.00
Total savings deposits	281,228,437.26	21,355,253.90
Amount paid savings depositors in interest (1908-9)	5,122,906.73	301,527.73
Bank number status in number of savings depositors	7th	7th

High Financial Standing.
San Francisco now holds eighth place among the cities of the United States in bank clearings. Nothing proves more conclusively the fact that San Francisco has regained her position as a banking and financial center. The bank clearings for 1909 amounted to $1,879,872,000 as against a total of $1,757,141,800.00 for 1908, a gain of $222,730,719.98, or 12.6 per cent. This is almost double the amount of the bank clearings of the year 1900.

The completion of the Panama canal is distinctly a Pacific coast event, since it opens the Pacific to the commerce of the world, and what more fitting place to celebrate that great event than San Francisco, the greatest port on the Pacific coast? The new city, rebuilt on a scale of undreamed magnificence, will in itself be an attractive exhibit. The exposition will be distinctive and characteristic. Here will not only be exhibits of products from all European countries, but all nations that border on the Pacific—the islands of the sea and the awakening orient—will be able to make displays here such as have never before been assembled.

San Francisco is truly the exposition city, the only logical site for the celebration of the most stupendous work of man, the completion of the Panama canal. Let the slogan be "San Francisco—1915!"
